Last Increment of First Draft on Way to Camp

By Associated Press
Washington, March 29.—With the exception of a few districts in the large eastern ecities, where delays have been permitted because of religious ceremonies at Eastertide, the mobilization of 95,000 men, comprising the last increment of the first draft, and 15,000 men of the second began to get under way to-day. The first, of 70,000 white men and 25,000 negroes, began moving to the National Army cantonments.

The first men of the second draft tional Army cantonments.

The first men of the second draft are called despite the fact that Congress has not yet amended the law to change the basis of apportionment as Provost Marshal-General Crowder has asked. But it is practically certain that no more will be called until the question is settled.

The 95,000 men now called, it is understood, are needed at once to fill up divisions and other units or to take the places of men transferred from other divisions to make up deficiencies.
