

PLAN TO HELP FARMERS SELL ALL POTATOES

Potato Week, Commencing April 15, When Vegetables Take Wheat's Place

A state-wide effort is being made to conserve the wheat supply and to dispose of the surplus stock of potatoes remaining on the hands of farmers as a result of unusually severe weather conditions which prevented free marketing during the past winter.

A Potato Week, commencing April 15, during which time it is proposed to have residents of the cities and towns of the state use exceptionally large quantities of potatoes in place of wheat, is to be observed.

The Dauphin County Farm Bureau is co-operating with the Food Administration in an attempt to place the surplus potatoes of the farmers on the market at a reasonable price. The grocers of Harrisburg have agreed to handle potatoes during that week on the narrow margin of ten cents per bushel.

The price to the farmers will be ten cents per bushel, delivered at Harrisburg. Farmers who have potatoes on hand are given an excellent opportunity to dispose of them before they sprout too badly, which would result in their remaining on their hands. There was a large crop of potatoes last year and the Food Administration is trying to help out these farmers who still have a supply of potatoes on hand.

Farmers who will sell their potatoes will do so subject to these rules:

- 1. Potatoes shall be No. 1 grade, first-class potatoes.
2. Potatoes shall be sold by weight, fifty pounds to the bushel.
3. Grocers will pay 90 cents per bushel of sixty pounds, cash upon delivery.
4. Farmers will be notified by mail at which grocery store they shall make delivery.
5. Grocers may reject any potatoes which are frozen, in bad condition or under-size.
6. Potatoes are to be delivered April 15, 16 or 17, as designated.
Fill out and return the following blank to H. G. Nisley, Dauphin County Farm Bureau, 205 Dauphin Building, Harrisburg, Pa., before Wednesday, April 10:

I hereby agree to deliver to the grocery store that may be designated by the County Agent of the Dauphin County Farm Bureau... bushels of potatoes, following the above rules, for which I am to receive the sum of 90 cents per bushel, delivered.

Lenroot Pledges Aid to Wilson in War's Conduct; Will Push Loan Campaign

Milwaukee, Wis., April 5.—United States Senator-elect Irvine L. Lenroot declared in a statement to-day that he would support President Wilson in the Senate as he did in the House in all measures helpful in the prosecution of the war. He said Victor L. Berger, the Socialist candidate, received too many votes and that the campaign of patriotic education must go on. "But the combined loyalty vote demonstrates beyond all question the quality of Wisconsin as a state," he said. "I hope all Republicans and Democrats will work together and make the third Liberty Loan campaign the most successful of any we have had."

Young Brakeman Falls From Train; Is Killed

Joseph C. Eicher, aged 50 years, 1816 Wood street, was thrown under a train at Bellwood yesterday and instantly killed. Eicher, who was employed as a Pennsylvania brakeman, was working with a crew in charge of a freight train bound for Bellwood. He was riding a box car when the train was hurled to the tracks. Trainmen found his body lying between the tracks. Death had been instantaneous. A hole in his side and other injuries were found. Brakeman Eicher was an employee for several years. He was a member of the B. O. E. and Pennsylvania Railroad Relief Department.

THE HUN OUTWITTED BY "PAT" O'BRIEN

With a period, the chat we began at three. And I felt very unworthy when he replied simply and unaffectedly to my question about the lecture I supposed he was going to deliver in Toronto.

"No—I'm going to attend a funeral. You see they are bringing Tommy Oskinson home to bury him. He was my pal over there. We were together for a long time—longer than most. A chap you know sits on your right at breakfast and at lunch there's a new pilot there—perhaps a new man on your left at supper. When you keep seeing new faces you know pretty soon some one else is going to see a new face where yours had been."

"Weren't you frightened?" I asked rather breathlessly. Then my eyes fell on the hero's hands—he was twiddling his thumbs like a frightened school-boy. "I asked the hero a bit scornfully. Then his eyes followed mine to his hands and he had an ice-thawing laugh at the thought of how much more terrible than the Hunnish 'Archies,' a few fusillades of question marks might seem."

He Sees 'Em Coming Some of your brave adventurers are brave because they have no imagination. But Pat visualizes things—he sees them coming. He has a bit of that "seventh son of a seventh son" psychic quality that your blue-eyed, black-haired son of Erin often possesses. But we dwell upon the blue eyes and black hair, a few lines to the rear. We are now thinking about that train to Toronto.

"How splendid of you to go up to pay last honors to your friend," said I. "I suppose you'll come back Sunday."

"Oh no, I'll be gone three or four days. Tommy doesn't know I'm coming to say good-by. I'm just doing that for myself—selfish like. But there is a youngster in one of the hospitals, a young cadet; I taught him a bit about flying. Now he's sick, I'll have to give him a bit of cheering up, don't you think? And then there is his commission to see about. Poor kid, he's had a bad time. He needs his friends to stand by him."

They tell appealing little tales about the "chivalry of the air." I have seen it face to face. It is not that. It is the face of Pat O'Brien going to Toronto to pay last honors to a pal he loved—Pat O'Brien going to cheer a sick cadet—and still another—Pat O'Brien—the boy who offered him a bit about flying. Now he's put it that way—such a statement would sound like "swank" to one who has been trained in British. He says he went over to get into the biggest scrap in the world and to stand by the Allies because they were fighting against bad odds!

"I didn't hate the Germans to start with. Of course I didn't like them or their methods, but hating doesn't make you fight very well. You see red when you hate and you can't see through the red to what you want to do. I just disliked them at the start, let's say. I didn't hate them when I woke up in their hospital and they probed the bullet that got me, out of my throat."

When Hate Began "I began to hate them the day I sat in front of the hospital taking a sun bath and down-on-the-ground-air-bath. There was a fight overhead; two of our machines fell. I saw them hit and I felt all the smile go out of me. Then they brought me a picture they had found in the pocket of one of the dead aviators. They brought me that picture because it was one of me—and of the man who fell. He was my chum; my friend Paul. He had 40; him; snapped him off all in a minute. I began to hate them then all right—you see it of course?"

I saw it. And there was another thing to see: Pat O'Brien not bitter about it when "they" (that's what he always calls the Hun) got him; hating when his friend was snuffed out by the giant German lie-catcher. And there is Pat O'Brien for you: fierce and yet gentle; fine and strong. "What a thing friendship is! How it gives the heart And soul a strap!"

The Kind of Man He Is That Pat O'Brien's heart and soul are stirred and keyed up, I will warrant. I took a little mental inventory of him and this is the way it reads: "Smiling Pat" O'Brien were your son he would adore you. If he were your pal he would

THOUSANDS TO HEAR AIR HERO HERE MONDAY

Lieutenant O'Brien to Open Liberty Campaign With Patriotic Address

When Lieutenant Pat O'Brien speaks in Chestnut Street Auditorium Monday night the 2,000 seats in that audience room will be filled and 500 people will be standing.

That was indicated at a meeting at noon to-day of Henderson Gilbert, A. S. Patterson, J. C. Jessup and other Liberty Loan workers. The demand for tickets has been tremendous.

The Rev. Dr. Robert Bagnell will be another speaker Monday night. Dr. Bagnell will require no introduction to Harrisburg.

Participating in the celebration will be a number of outside meetings held in various parts of the city, to be held between 4 and 6 o'clock. The places will be announced later.

When Lieutenant O'Brien, an American in the Royal Flying Corps, was taken prisoner, the aviators used to say that they did not want to fall within the German lines, because "the war bread was bad in Germany." And when, after his arduous escape from a German prison camp, he reached a place where he could telegraph his comrades of his safety, he wired: "War bread bad, so I came home." That gay spirit is typical of the whole story.

Deaths and Funerals MRS. LILLIE V. JOHNSON The funeral of Mrs. Lillie V. Johnson, wife of Charles G. Johnson, who died Thursday at the family home on the State Hospital grounds, will be held to-morrow with services at her late residence. The Rev. Richards, 1122 Morgan street. Burial will be made in the Harrisburg Cemetery. Mr. Bollinger is survived by his wife, two sons and three daughters.

MRS. JOHN RICHARDS Mrs. John Richards, aged 68 years, died yesterday afternoon at the home of her son, Roy Richards, in Frackville, Pa. Burial will be made at Frackville, Sunday.

OBJECTIONS ARE NOT SUSTAINED

Judge Kunkel Dismisses Suit Against Town Meeting Candidate

Ruling that the town meeting party in Philadelphia county has the right to nominate candidates for office who are to be voted for only by the electors of the county or of a political district thereof, President Judge George Kunkel, of the Dauphin county has today dismissed objections to the nomination petition of George J. Campbell, a candidate for Representative from the Sixteenth legislative district in Philadelphia.

The objections to Campbell's petition for nomination were made by the pre-emptors of the Town Meeting party in the Sixteenth district. The case was argued last Thursday before Judge Kunkel. The contention was raised that the Town Meeting party had no right to make nominations for anyone for a state office and the right of the local court to set aside the nomination petition in the case was questioned also.

In his opinion Judge Kunkel quotes the act of July 12, 1913, which provides in mandatory language under what conditions a nomination petition shall be refused or set aside. The objections in the Campbell case are not found among the reasons given in the act, the court continues.

Judge Kunkel, however, goes into the other facts in the case in the controversy over the meaning of the clause "all political districts within the county." The Town Meeting party having fulfilled the requirements to become a party there has acquired the right to nominate in accordance with the provisions of an act of 1913, all its candidates for office in that county and in all political districts within that county and of which the county forms a part. The court rules that this gives the right to make a nomination in a representative senatorial or congressional district within the county in which the party is established or of which the county is a part, but prevents any nomination for which electors of the state at large vote.

Penn State's Senior Class To Buy Liberty Bonds The senior class at the Pennsylvania State College is going to buy about $1,500 worth of Liberty Loan bonds instead of spending the money for a class memorial to ornament the campus. This decision was made to-day at a meeting of the graduating class.

For the last twenty years, each outgoing class has given its rebate from the college damage fund for the purpose of leaving a substantial memento. The boys of 1918 decided the government needed the money to fight Germany more than the campus needed an imposing limestone gateway.

A Dead Stomach

Of What Use Is It? Thousands? yes hundreds of thousands of people throughout America are taking the slow death treatment daily. They are murdering their own stomachs, the best friend they have, and in their sublime ignorance they think they are putting aside the laws of nature. This is no sensational statement; it is a startling fact, the truth of which any honorable physician will not deny. These thousands of people are swallowing daily huge quantities of pepsin and other strong digestors, made especially to digest the food in the stomach without any aid at all from the digestive members of the stomach. Mi-o-na stomach tablets relieve distressed stomach in five minutes; take more. Taken regularly for a few weeks will build up the run-down stomach and make it strong enough to digest its own food. Then indigestion, belching, sour stomach and headache will go. Mi-o-na stomach tablets are sold by druggists everywhere and by H. C. Kennedy, who guarantees them.—Advertisement.
