

Reading for Women and all the Family

Daily Fashion Hint
Prepared Especially For This Newspaper

7654

FOR SEMI-FORMAL WEAR.
Among the new silks displayed in the shops bordered designs of unusual beauty have made their appearance. Bordered foulard may be used in the development of this semi-formal model. The belted tunic is divided at the front and falls in points over a straight skirt. The fronts of the waist are gathered to a narrow shoulder yoke while broad revers cut in one with the collar finish the neck. Medium size requires 6 1/2 yards bordered material.

Picture Review Waist No. 7653. Sizes, 34 to 46 inches bust. Price, 20 cents. Skirt No. 7654. Sizes, 24 to 34 inches waist. Price, 20 cents.

"TAKE THE WHEAT: WE WILL RUSTLE!"

"If you need 75,000,000 bushels of wheat for war purposes, take it and let us rustle for ourselves—we have plenty of substitutes," was the telegram recently sent to the Indiana Evansville Real Estate Board as evidence of the willingness of its membership of substantial citizens to back conservation.

MOTHERS
Keep the family free from colds by using
VICK'S VAPORUB

BLISS NATIVE HERB TABLETS THE GREATEST FAMILY MEDICINE

It is very gratifying to receive words of praise every day from all parts of the universe as to the beneficial results experienced by people in all walks of life for taking Bliss Native Herb Tablets. Yet the ingredients used in these tablets contain nothing injurious, consisting of roots, barks, and herbs, scientifically compounded in proper proportions. They assist nature to perform its functions, correcting constipation, indigestion and biliousness, relieving sick headache and rheumatism. They have been serving people for more than thirty years and are the favorite household remedy in many thousands of homes.

Mrs. Mary Jackson, Scott City, Kans., writes: "I know Bliss Native Herb Tablets is the best family medicine in the world and would not be without them. I am now

Bringing Up Father

Appeal of the Women of France

After their years of suffering, grief and privation the women of France are still able to set a notable and pathetic example of courage to the women of other war-stricken lands.

When the rationing of the important foodstuffs was announced recently for that country, the following patriotic appeal was sent out by the National Council of French Women, typifying their noble spirit of endurance.

"These last months of the war will be the hardest. French women know it and bravely they will go through the necessary ordeal. They will accept all restrictions which will allow their children to know the joy of life and beneficent peace.

"Each of us must simplify her mode of life. We deprive ourselves, you and you are working for your country. Let those whose material well-being is assured set an example to the hour less grievous to their sisters.

"Workmen, like us, you are weeping for dear ones, like us, you hate war. It is in order to render war impossible henceforth that we must hold out to the bitter end."

MAPLE SUGAR PRODUCTION BRINGS GERMAN RUMORS

The German grapevine telegraph began sending out rumors with the beginning of the maple sugar season in Ohio, and the northeastern states, stories springing up through all the states that maple-sugar makers must be licensed, and that the Government was going to confiscate their product. Of course, no producer of maple sugar requires a license, and the Ohio Federal Food Administration met, this morning, by issuing a statement, also offering furnish helpers to farmers who were reported to be unable to tap maple trees because of scarcity of labor.

ACORN FLOUR FOR CAKE

Acorns are reported to be bringing $1 a sack in California for food, but a woman, investigator, Mrs. Nellie Taylor, of Plymouth, Amador county, is said to have developed a process for making acorn flour which is a satisfactory substitute for wheat flour. This flour has the coloring matter and bitter taste of the acorn extracted, and Mrs. Taylor pronounces it superior to wheat flour for making cake, being richer and softer.

eighty-five years old and for the past twenty-two years have used Bliss Native Herb Tablets when needed. I live alone, do my own housework, and thank you for your wonderful prescription, for it is due to them that I am able to do my own work.

If you feel run-down, fatigued or have no appetite, take Bliss Native Herb Tablets. Every one will be agreeably surprised at the improvement in your condition. One tablet at night will make the next day bright.

Bliss Native Herb Tablets are put up in a yellow box of 200 tablets. The genuine have the photograph of Alonzo O. Bliss on the wrapper. Every tablet is stamped with the trade mark. Take no other. Price $1 per box, sold by Kennedy's Drug Store and local agents everywhere.

Footers Dye Works
Removed From
34 North Third Street to
27 N. Second Street

"BLUE BONNETS" - A New Fabric with New Features.
"Blue Bonnets" meets the needs of the woman who wants a beautiful, durable fabric that wears without wrinkling, resists dust and ladders perfectly. Admirably adapted for tailor-made dresses, sport coats and skirts, children's garments, petticoats, etc. Also for dresses, fur-trimmed coverings, etc. Guaranteed dye fast and durable. Wide variety of exquisite patterns.

If your dealer doesn't carry "Blue Bonnets" send us this ad with name of dealer and we will send him samples and notify him of your request.

LESHER WHITMAN & CO., Inc., 881 Broadway, New York

As Age Advances the Liver Requires occasional slight stimulation. CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS correct CONSTIPATION.

Colorless or Pale Faces usually indicate the absence of iron in the blood. Carter's Iron Pills a condition which will be greatly helped by

THEIR MARRIED LIFE

Copyright by International News Service

"All dolled up, aren't you?" said Warren, as they stepped out of the elevator.

"Do you like my cape, dear?"

"Sure, it's all right; you're too crazy about clothes, though; you let them get your goat."

"Why, Warren, what an awful way to put it!"

"Well, it's true; look at the way you fussed with that old coat, and I told you you never could get a cape out of it."

"I thought I could save and not get a spring wrap."

"Of course you did, and if you had taken my advice in the beginning you would have saved paying the tailor anything."

"That's only a dollar."

"That's enough; you paid thirty-five for this, after all—thirty-six, counting that extra dollar."

Helen said nothing to this because Warren was right and she did fret and worry too much about her clothes and her appearance. But this afternoon she did feel as though she looked very smart. They were on their way to Carrie's for Sunday night's supper, and as Carrie often had several friends in on Sunday evening and served supper in buffet style, Helen had planned to look unusually well. She was even hoping that Carrie would notice her new cape and comment upon its extravagance, and then she would tell her that Warren had insisted upon buying it.

"Let's go up in the car, dear," as they got out of the train.

"Not on your life, here, taxi," said Warren, beckoning to one of the station rigs that were designated taxis, although they did not look the part.

A second later they were on their way to Carrie's.

Carrie welcomed them effusively. She looked quite nice, Helen thought, in a blue satin gown made with a soft fichu about the throat. Helen followed her upstairs to the bedroom and saw that there were several women's wraps about. Carrie did not comment on the new cape, nor on Helen's new georgette dress, which surprised Helen, but when Carrie said that she had a friend visiting them, Helen quite understood, although she was curious to see the friend that could so throw Carrie off her balance.

The long livingroom was crowded, but above all the chatter Helen could distinguish a clear voice. She glanced over in its direction, and saw that the voice belonged to a young girl in a rather extreme gown, who was very attractive, but who knew it and was bent on every one else in the room knowing it, too.

"You must meet every one, Helen," Carrie was saying, and began to introduce Helen to the different groups. "We have a little friend staying with us," Carrie went on. "You will be sure to like her, and then to Helen's surprise, Carrie was introducing her to the rather extreme young person, who bowed indifferently to Helen, and to whom Helen took an instantaneous dislike.

"Who is the girl, Carrie?" Helen asked curiously. She was so utterly foreign to Carrie's general run of friends, in fact she was exactly the type of girl that Carrie always objected to and invariably sneered at as "fast."

But Carrie smiled sweetly and said: "Isn't she sweet? I met her while Fred and I were in Florida; she stayed at the same hotel. She's in town for some shopping, and she called us up. Of course, I asked her out here, she would have had to stay alone at a hotel otherwise."

Helen kept her eye on the girl while she sat across the room on the large davenport with some of Carrie's other friends. All of Carrie's friends were stodgy, and to find a butterfly among them was most unusual.

Just before the buffet meal was served, Carrie made an effort to separate the two groups. It was then that Helen noticed Warren go to the girl, take a chair and draw it up, and begin to talk. She was so astounded by this fact that she could hardly believe her eyes. But after a few moments when Warren followed the girl into the other room, Helen began to believe that he was really Warren with the remark that she was going to get ready.

He seemed to be impatient at being interrupted, while the girl viewed Helen with cool, level eyes.

"What's your hurry?" Warren asked.

"Why, it's time to get ready for the train," Helen said confusedly.

"What train, the 3:55? Well, we'll wait until nine to-night. And as Helen turned away, her cheeks burning, she fancied she saw a little malignant glance in the girl's eyes.

(Watch for the next instalment in this interesting series.)

For Cause and Country

At no time during the war has the importance of wheat been greater than at this moment. Every ounce of saved wheat is a contribution to our fighting forces. Never before has it been so possible for the civilian to lend such direct and vital aid to his cause.

Direct orders for the family should be formulated by every patriotic housekeeper. In place of bread for dinner she should demand of her household that they eat more potatoes, or—for variety—rice, as a vegetable, or hominy grits.

Breakfast should begin the day not by the breaking of bread, but by the serving of oatmeal, cornmeal mush or prepared non-wheat products. And the housewife must serve these breakfast cereals not apart from the eggs or coffee, but with them, so that the lack of bread will be met quite obviously.

At luncheon, any bread served should be quite wheatless, and if potatoes are served, bread can be easily omitted.

These are only a few of the ways that can be found by the housekeeper who wants to eliminate wheat entirely from her menu and so make a high contribution to cause and country.

MENU SYSTEM DISCLOSES TWO MEAT VIOLATIONS

"A careless or disloyal restaurateur is going to get small consideration for his hands for the next few months," said Alfred Atkinson, Federal food administrator for Montana, when two cafes in Missoula were brought to book for offering a full line of meats on a meatless day. This violation was discovered through examination of bills of fare collected by the Federal Food Administration for that purpose, which revealed the fact that on a meatless Tuesday neither of the cafes observed the regulations. The proprietors were asked by telegraph if they proposed to observe the rules, and replied that service of meat on that day had been an error, and that they would observe regulations. These two establishments, however, will be closely watched.

CHILDREN A PART OF WAR-GARDEN WINDOW

"One merchant in Texas who is making a low display along war-garden lines used vegetable children with little hoes and rakes, having them go through the motions of planting a garden. This novel window was devised by a piano house.

(Copyright, 1918, by British Canadian Recruiting Mission, which maintains depots in all large cities where men, except Americans, may volunteer.)

Identification Patrol: A patrol sent out into No Man's Land for the purpose of getting a prisoner and identifying the enemy troops holding the line opposite.

Recognition: A survey of the enemy line by a patrol to learn the "lay of the land," and gather information about the entire position.

Rail Head: The central station for collecting troops and wounded men from the trenches is called the "rail head." At this place are concentration camps or base hospitals and the headquarters of the General Base Hospital staff.

French Wire: It is a plain coiled wire, on which bars for wire entanglements, may be placed. It is very pliable.

Minor Operations: Are small-scale operations or attacks with a definite object in view. It may take the form of a trench raid to secure information, or capture prisoners, without any idea of holding the captured trenches, but destroy their morale.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
"RIGHT" OR "WRONG"
DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:
We have just been married, only three months ago. I am in a position proper for my wife to go to the theater with a man for whom she formerly worked. He sometimes takes her out to lunch while I'm at business. I do not know the man. I am not jealous, but I do not think it is right.

O. R.

Convention is on your side. It does not approve of a situation such as you describe. Probably there is nothing actually "wrong" about it; but your wife is putting herself in a position where people will criticize her and pity you, and that is not fair to either of you. Why have you not met this man? If your wife is on sufficiently friendly terms with her former employer to accept his invitations to theater and luncheon, she ought to arrange for her husband to meet so good a friend. It is rather pathetic that so soon after your marriage she can find joy in the expensive pleasures another man buys her. To her I would like to say, "Careful, little girl! This is a dangerous game you are playing. Don't risk love and loyalty for the sake of a few good times which probably mean very little to you after all."

Daily Dot Puzzle

Trace the dots to fifty-eight and you'll see my sister Kate. Draw from one to two and so on to

Copyright, 1917, International News Service

By McManus

For Cause and Country

At no time during the war has the importance of wheat been greater than at this moment. Every ounce of saved wheat is a contribution to our fighting forces. Never before has it been so possible for the civilian to lend such direct and vital aid to his cause.

Direct orders for the family should be formulated by every patriotic housekeeper. In place of bread for dinner she should demand of her household that they eat more potatoes, or—for variety—rice, as a vegetable, or hominy grits.

Breakfast should begin the day not by the breaking of bread, but by the serving of oatmeal, cornmeal mush or prepared non-wheat products. And the housewife must serve these breakfast cereals not apart from the eggs or coffee, but with them, so that the lack of bread will be met quite obviously.

At luncheon, any bread served should be quite wheatless, and if potatoes are served, bread can be easily omitted.

These are only a few of the ways that can be found by the housekeeper who wants to eliminate wheat entirely from her menu and so make a high contribution to cause and country.

MENU SYSTEM DISCLOSES TWO MEAT VIOLATIONS

"A careless or disloyal restaurateur is going to get small consideration for his hands for the next few months," said Alfred Atkinson, Federal food administrator for Montana, when two cafes in Missoula were brought to book for offering a full line of meats on a meatless day. This violation was discovered through examination of bills of fare collected by the Federal Food Administration for that purpose, which revealed the fact that on a meatless Tuesday neither of the cafes observed the regulations. The proprietors were asked by telegraph if they proposed to observe the rules, and replied that service of meat on that day had been an error, and that they would observe regulations. These two establishments, however, will be closely watched.

CHILDREN A PART OF WAR-GARDEN WINDOW

"One merchant in Texas who is making a low display along war-garden lines used vegetable children with little hoes and rakes, having them go through the motions of planting a garden. This novel window was devised by a piano house.

(Copyright, 1918, by British Canadian Recruiting Mission, which maintains depots in all large cities where men, except Americans, may volunteer.)

Identification Patrol: A patrol sent out into No Man's Land for the purpose of getting a prisoner and identifying the enemy troops holding the line opposite.

Recognition: A survey of the enemy line by a patrol to learn the "lay of the land," and gather information about the entire position.

Rail Head: The central station for collecting troops and wounded men from the trenches is called the "rail head." At this place are concentration camps or base hospitals and the headquarters of the General Base Hospital staff.

French Wire: It is a plain coiled wire, on which bars for wire entanglements, may be placed. It is very pliable.

Minor Operations: Are small-scale operations or attacks with a definite object in view. It may take the form of a trench raid to secure information, or capture prisoners, without any idea of holding the captured trenches, but destroy their morale.

War Time Lexicon

(Copyright, 1918, by British Canadian Recruiting Mission, which maintains depots in all large cities where men, except Americans, may volunteer.)

Identification Patrol: A patrol sent out into No Man's Land for the purpose of getting a prisoner and identifying the enemy troops holding the line opposite.

Recognition: A survey of the enemy line by a patrol to learn the "lay of the land," and gather information about the entire position.

Rail Head: The central station for collecting troops and wounded men from the trenches is called the "rail head." At this place are concentration camps or base hospitals and the headquarters of the General Base Hospital staff.

French Wire: It is a plain coiled wire, on which bars for wire entanglements, may be placed. It is very pliable.

Minor Operations: Are small-scale operations or attacks with a definite object in view. It may take the form of a trench raid to secure information, or capture prisoners, without any idea of holding the captured trenches, but destroy their morale.

A CARD-INDEXED COUNTY
The head of every family, as well as every taxpayer and every voter in the county around Tiffin, Ohio, has been listed and card indexed by the chamber of commerce and his or her name included in a mailing list as the basis for a complete war-work organization. In making the list solicitors were appointed in each school district and directed to make a return on everyone in his territory. In the card index, family heads, voters and taxpayers are classified in ten groups, according to wealth.

POUND-FOR-POUND SALES CARD
An eastern Indiana wholesale grocery house has provided its salesmen with a special advance announcement to customers calling attention to the pound-for-pound plan of selling wheat flour and substitutes and commencing the wheatless and meatless days and wheatless meal-

If the Man Worked in the Kitchen He Would Buy a McDougall

because the McDougall offers the utmost in utility and efficiency—because it is not an ordinary kitchen cabinet, but a veritable method of better kitchen management.

He would buy a McDougall because it is the first kitchen cabinet, and has ever led in quality and convenience. We are having a special display of McDougall Kitchen Cabinets this week. Come to see them and let us demonstrate their many ingenious labor-saving devices to you.

Easy Payment Plan
The McDougall Kitchen Cabinet is easy to buy. A cabinet will be delivered to your home on approval if you wish. It may be purchased on the easy payment plan. Terms arranged for your convenience.

McDougall
THE FIRST KITCHEN CABINET

Special Sale Prices
$28.00, $35.00, $38.00, $40.00, $50.00

Any Cabinet $1.00 Per Week

BROWN & CO.
1217-1219 North Third Street
The Big Up Town Home Furnishers

KEEP YOUR SHOES NEAT

BROWN'S SHOE POLISHES
PRESERVE THE LEATHER

LIQUIDS & PASTES FOR BLACK, WHITE, TAN, DARK BROWN OR OX-BLOOD SHOES.

THE F. FADALY CORPORATION, LTD.
BUFFALO, N. Y.