Dillsburg, Pa., April 16.—The Rev. Mr. Crow, the new pastor of the Methodist Church here, arrived on Saturday with his family. There are two boys, beside Mr. and Mrs. Crow. They made the trip from Cunningham, Luzerne county in their automobile, stopping Friday night at Liverpool.

SAVE DAD'S LIFE GET IT FOR HIM

Says it is suicide to cut corns and tells how they lift right out.

You simply say to the drug store man, "Give me a quarter of an ounce of Freezone." This will cost very little but is sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn from one's feet.

A few drops applied directly upon a tender, aching corn should relieve the soreness instantly, and soon the entire corn, root and all, can be lifted out with the fingers without pain.

This new drug called Freezone is an ether compound discovered by a Cincinnati man, who says that white Freezone is sticky it dries in a moment, and simply shrivels up the corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin.

Don't let father die of infection or lockjaw from whitening at his corns, but cut this out and make him try it.

FORCE OF DRIVE ON THE WANE, EXPERTS SAY

British Obey Call of Field Marshal Haig to Stand as Wall

Washington, April 16.—Hope that the force of the German stroke toward the Channel ports has largely spent itself grew here yesterday as the British lines stood fast under repeated shocks. The day's advice indicated again that Field Marshal Haig's men were obeying to the letter his call for yielding resistance.

The weekly review published by the War Department, although it carried operations only up to last Saturday, showed that War College opinion saw, then indications that the German wave was reaching its crest. In Allied diplomatic and military circles the same impression prevailed yesterday, strengthened by more recent reports from the front.

Dispatches indicate that the fiercest fighting is on the northern line of the new salient driven into the British front north of Arras. The struggle for possession of Neuve Eglise and towns in that region looks to observers here like an effort by the enemy to force a way behind Xpres and the consequent abandonment of that place and a withdrawal of a large section of the British line.

The Germans were in possession of Neuve Eglise by last accounts, but they had previously captured it, only to be driven out again. The situation had not stabilized on this particular front further than to show that the enemy is meeting with stubborn resistance to his effort to widen his fighting front to the north.

Time Helps Allies Every line gains with the British in holding this ground means increased probability that they will hold it permanently. Time allows the assembling of supporting forces of sufficient strength to meet any shock. Or should a withdrawal and readjustment on better positions be judged desirable, time will give opportunity for the preparation of these positions.

It is possible that the plans of General Foch, commander-in-chief of the Allied and American armies in France, hinge upon developments in this narrow sector of the broad battlefield. Such moves as he may be contemplating may well depend, it is said, upon the stabilization of the Allied left flank.

On the right the French appear to have succeeded in effecting such a stabilization. Presumably any plans for a counter-offensive would be dependent upon these two positions.

There is no question that many officers here view the situation as serious, but not all share the outlook indicated by the War College review for last week. Even if the present thrust toward Bethune is checked, they believe, a third assault at some other portion of the British front is to be expected, coming with the suddenness of a storm from a clear sky.

Expect Drive by Austria There have been many reports indicating that the Austro-Hungarian forces were preparing for a drive against the Italians. When it will be started cannot be foretold, but some observers think that in case of a definite check to the German movement the Austrians would launch their effort.

In that case the scene of operations on the west front might shift farther to the south to the area where American troops are on the front. The railway junction through which French or British forces sent to Italy naturally would pass lies behind that sector. It is believed possible that the Germans might throw their weight in that direction in an effort to prevent any support reaching Italy.

Domestic Rugs

The figures quoted below represent values in rugs in many instances below the wholesale price of to-day. Looms have been commandeered for military needs. Materials have been requisitioned and remaining materials have risen tremendously. Consequently rugs have been going up rapidly in price and the production getting less every day, because of scarcity of materials and labor. As most the large stock we are displaying on the fourth floor was purchased about a year ago, we cannot advise too strongly the advantage of securing your rugs at these prices.
