

SCHWAB MADE HEAD OF STEEL SHIP PROGRAM

Chief of Bethlehem Board Gives Up Own Work to Aid Government

Washington, April 17.—Charles M. Schwab, president of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, was yesterday named by President Wilson director-general of the Emergency Fleet Corporation.

In that capacity he will have complete charge of the construction of the American merchant marine. Delay in the ship-building program led to the call upon Mr. Schwab for the huge task.

The following official statement was issued at the White House: "Edward N. Hurley, Charles M. Schwab, Bainbridge Colby and Charles Piez were received by the President at the White House today. It was stated that the subject discussed was the progress and condition of the national shipbuilding program. The carrying forward of the construction work in the 130 shipyards now in operation is so vast that it requires the enforcement of the shipbuilding organization throughout the country.

Schwab Answers Nation's Call "Later in the day Chairman Hurley, of the Shipping Board, announced that a new office with wide powers had been created by the trustees of the Emergency Fleet Corporation. The new position is that of director-general, and Mr. Schwab has been asked and has agreed to accept this position in answer to the call of the nation.

Charles Piez, vice-president of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, recommended that the post of general manager of the corporation be at once abolished, so that Mr. Schwab, as director-general, should be wholly unimpeded in carrying out the large task entrusted to him. Mr. Piez, since the retirement of Admiral Harris, has been filling both the position of vice-president and general manager. "Mr. Schwab will have complete supervision and direction of the work of shipbuilding. "He agreed to take up the work at the sacrifice of his present wishes in the matter. His services were virtually commandeered. His great experience as a steelmaker and builder of ships has been drafted for the nation.

Dissatisfaction on the part of the President with the progress of the shipbuilding program is believed to have been in a measure responsible for the selection of Mr. Schwab to take charge.

The selection of Mr. Schwab for the newly-created post marks the third shakeup in the Shipping Board and Fleet Corporation since the tremendous maritime campaign was launched by William Denman, of California, and Major-General George W. Goethals, builder of the Panama canal, were unable to pull together, and when Admiral Frederick B. Harris, U. S. N., retired, were put in their places.

Admiral Harris was unable to work in harmony with Mr. Hurley, and when Mr. Hurley was elevated to his place.

Yesterday's action is of the very first importance. It reveals a realization on the part of the President that there has been too much theorizing and too little practical work in the execution of war policies. It is the establishment of practical management in experienced hands with a view to obtaining results.

Charles M. Schwab, steelmaker and shipbuilder, newly-appointed director general of the emergency fleet corporation, with unlimited power to put through the vast building program, will assume the duties this week. It was announced here today.

The situation is well in hand, they said.

"We have now the greatest asset in the western front," declared M. Liebert. "Unity in command. The outcome of the struggle is, now in the brain of one man. Had it been so before the rest would have gone different. All we know of General Foch is that we believe in him. French Rifles Speak Death to Bolo Pasha in Forest of Vincennes

Paris, April 17.—Standing before a firing squad in the forest of Vincennes early to-day, Paul Bolo Pasha, condemned traitor, lost entirely the attitude of indifference he had maintained subsequent to and during his trial. When the order was given the rifles spoke and Bolo crumpled up with several bullets in his head.

Escorted by several guards Bolo left the Sante prison forty-five minutes before his execution. After leaving the automobile at Vincennes he listened to the exhortation of a prison chaplain. Then his eyes were bandaged and he went without a struggle to his place before the firing squad.

"So much the better; I am delighted," Bolo exclaimed when awakened this morning by Commandant Julien, of the third court-martial, who told him the hour of execution had arrived. These were the only words spoken by Bolo except for instructions to the chaplain to take from his body a silk lace handkerchief which he placed on his chest and give it to his brother, Monsignor Bolo.

The condemned man went to his execution in a new suit of clothes, and wearing white gloves. When Bolo was taken to the office to go through the formalities of his removal from prison for the execution he refused to sign the register. The officials insisted upon which Bolo cried in a loud tone: "It is I who command here; no one has anything more to impose upon me, I think." The chaplain after the execution found lying over Bolo's heart two embroidered handkerchiefs, which had been pierced by the bullets. One was given to Bolo's brother and the other to his widow.
