Washington, April 30.—The German Army has taken precautions against Alsace-Lorrainers, according to a Basle diplomatic dispatch yesterday.

"Last Friday," the dispatch stated, "the chief committee of the Reichstag discussed the regulations sent out by the military authorities for the purpose of preventing the giving to any Alsatians or Lorrainers positions where they might gather important information.

"Deputy Groeder, of the Center party, having declared that he did not consider this action as good policy, the government representative insisted upon the necessity of taking precautions against the Alsatians and Lorrainers, as many pass into the enemy camp and give out information and have some times been the cause of serious losses in the German army.

the region of Locre the Germans are making their heaviest strokes but each assault has been thrown back brilliantly. Especially bitter is the fighting in and around the villages of Voormezeele and Locre which still are held by the British and French.

Huns Meet With No Success

From the 12-mile front between Bailleul and Zillebeke the enemy has extended his attacks to the north of Ypres against the Belgians along the Yser. But he is meeting with no more success here than elsewhere in Flanders, the Belgians hurling the Germans from positions they had occupied by counterattacks.

Types is yet to be attacked attacks against the French at Handirectly from the east, but from the intensity of the enemy assaults south and southwest it is evident the Germans desire most to take the hill positions west of Mont Kemmel. To hold these hills would not only menace the entire allied position in Flanders and eastward toward Dunkfirk but would virtually compel the evacuation of Ypres.

Plan Flank Movement
German progress westward from Voormezeele would, if carried to any depth, outflank the hill positions west of Mont Kemmel which must be taken separately. The attacks against the French at Locre are an attempt to get between Scherpenberg and Mont Rouge and outflank them as was done at Mont Kemmel. Held by the French at Locre, the Germans are essaying frontal attacks against Scherpenberg and Mont Rouge but these also have been disastrous.
