MOUNTAIN CLIMB IS MUCH ENJOYED

Enthusiasts From Various Parts of the State Have Delightful Outing

Six members of the Harrisburg Natural History Society accompanied the Pennsylvania Alpine Club on a climb of Mt. Parnell, Saturday morning. Two other Harrisburgers were included in the party which made the ascent of the famous old peak.

A brief meeting was held in Mercersburg Friday evening, following a tour of the town and its environs. The party saw many interesting points in the town, under the guidance of George A. Fleming, editor of the Mercersburg Journal. At the meeting, Benjamin M. Nead, of Harrisburg, was elected as a member of the club.

Saturday morning the club members drove to Loudon where they were met by Mrs. Blanche Swope Sourbier and a number of other Harrisburg people. They motored to the home of W. O. Bingham, and on the lawn, exercises were held. Mrs. Sourbier led community singing and John W. Appel, author of the "Eight Poems of Parnell," read a paper on "The Hermit of the Tuscaraoras." It was an interesting paper which appealed to everyone. Reide Romig, of the editorial staff of the Harrisburg Telegraph, read a paper on the history of Mt. Parnell. When the party began to climb the mountain, they investigated historical landmarks. At the summit about seventy-five people were waiting for the party to arrive. Exercises preceded the raising of a large American flag and the reading of an inspiring patriotic poem by John H. Chatham, "The Mountain Breeze." The luncheon on the summit and retraced their steps to the foot of the mountain.
