COLLEGE TOSSERS IN HOT CONTEST

Platt, of Dartmouth, Out-pitches Vreeland in Allison Hill Game

Table with columns: Reading, W, L, Pct. Rows include Allison Hill League and TONIGHT'S SCHEDULE.

Two former college pitchers engaged in a great battle last evening in an Allison Hill contest in which the Reading team won out over Rosewood by a 19 to 7 score.

The losers played a plucky game and did not give up until the last batter was retired. The railroaders played the more consistent game and deserved to win.

PLANK TO PITCH ON SATURDAY

Famous Tosser Will Open the Season; Steelton Smothers College Team

With Eddie Plank, Lew Ritter, Steve Yerkes and half a dozen other former big leaguers on the bench, the Steelton ball park yesterday afternoon suggested the Polo Grounds in days of prosperity.

If more and more men from fast company drift into this Steel League the fans who patronize it will see just as easily before the last man was retired Steelton had run up seventeen tallies while the college lads were never able to cross the marble.

Sitting on the home bench, carefully wrapped up like an Indian chief on the war path sat Eddie Plank, left hand Nestor of baseball, whose name is familiar pretty much all over the world.

The price has changed to six cents, but the quality holds. JOHN C. HERMAN & CO. Makers

It has looked to me from the beginning as if the present difficulty between Germany and Holland would work out on some sort of compromise. The latest reports in the newspapers indicate that this is the case, but no man knows what may happen next month or next year.

AROUND THE BASES

Capt. "Ted" Meredith of the aviation corps, now overseas, writes to a Philadelphia friend that he took several pairs of spiked shoes with him when he went across and that when he finds time he does a bit of limbering up.

This week should furnish the first of the X-ray photographs on the baseball situation in both the National and American leagues. Ever since the season opened and the Giants and Red Sox broke from the barrier to flying starts the fans have awaited the intermission clashes between the representative clubs of the East and those of the West to furnish them with a real line of what is to be expected—to furnish them with a real line on where the true strength of the leagues rests.

Harry Greb, Pittsburgh's great middleweight boxer, has given up the glove game as a regular business in order to fight for Uncle Sam in the Naval Reserves, and when he comes back to Pittsburgh, for his 10-round bout with Soldier Martfield, at Forbes Field, Saturday night.

George Garmen, Robert Bush and Roy Rounjman, of Harrisburg, returned yesterday from a fishing trip to McCall's Ferry, York county. They caught a number of shad at Hugh McCall's fishery, one weighing almost seven pounds.

The Rainbow Division bowlers swamped the Machine Gunners in a duckpin match last evening at Richards & Brashears' alleys, Steelton. One game, the first, the Gunners grabbed, but the Machine Gunners won the pennant in both the high singles and high triples with scores of 141 and 357 pins, respectively.

Next week will see many of the dare-devil motor racers in America competing at Uniontown, the home of millionaires who give the suffering populace heart disease with a colossal financial failure and then bring 'em back to life when the courts get busy.

Quite a number of Harrisburgers interested in boxing made the trip to-day to Weehawken, N. J., just across from New York, where will be opened to-night the New Jersey Sportsman's Club, the most de luxe establishment of its kind in the country.

MORE HONORS FOR CARL BECK

Tech Athlete Again Leads in Track Events; Preparing For Saturday's Classic

In the third day of the Tech interclass meet, Carl Beck captured two of the three events run off by Coach Hill assisted by W. D. Melkie. Beck won the broad jump and also the high hurdles, "Zip" Malick was the winner of the 440-yard dash, making the quarter in 55 seconds.

Beck leaped 20 feet in the broad jump, followed by Malick, Shadler, Kohlman and Strawhecker. The pole vault was postponed because of the high wind. This afternoon the coach contemplates completing the events with the pole vault, javelin throw, half-mile run, hammer throw and the class relay race.

The events this week have been in preparation for the meet at Pittsburgh, Saturday a week, while the following Saturday will see the big classic over on the island. On Decoration Day the entire squad will go to Lafayette, where they will meet stiff opposition from the Mercersburg Academy team, as well as other leading prep schools from this section.

Tallest Hotel Ever Will Be Murray Hill

New York—The tallest hotel building in the world is projected for the block covering Fortieth and Forty-first streets and Park and Madison Avenues, in this city. The high structure will be the Murray Hill Hotel, which will be a unit of the five-part group of hotels which surround the Grand Central Terminal—The Baltimore, Belmont, Manhattan, Murray Hill and Commodore—which are now under the direction of John McE. Bowman and B. L. M. Bates.

Sufficient information as to the projected structure has been given out to make it plain that it will overtop the highest hotel building now extant and may even rear its head above the Woolworth pile.

The new hotel will be thirty-two stories in height in its main structure, and from its quadrangular center will rise a tower, the height of which has not yet been determined.

The Murray Hill is the oldest and smallest of the five hotels involved in Sunday's amalgamation. It was about 600 rooms.

The Belmont extends five floors underground and the new Murray Hill will have the same depth. There will be between them central distribution points for everything in the way of service.

The 125,000 sq. ft. of rooms which the new Murray Hill will have could not be leased from Mr. Bates, but he did say that there would be more than 1,200 rooms having a southern exposure.
