GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia to Overcome Trouble, Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids.

Judge McCarrell Resigns as School Superintendent After 40 Years Service

Firmly convinced that the general superintendency of such a large organization as the Market Square Presbyterian Sunday School required a large amount of time for the mapping out and execution of necessary programs and feeling his lack of time because of his judicial duties, Judge Samuel J. McCarrell has resigned as general superintendent after serving in that capacity for over two score years.

Affiliating with the church in 1864 when it was a mere babe as compared to the present institution, Judge McCarrell became its superintendent fourteen years later, succeeding the late James A. Weir. Since then he has been quite active in affairs of the congregation, especially those concerned with the Sunday school.

London, May 16.—Foreign Secretary Balfour was asked in the House of Commons to-day whether Prince Sixtus of Bourbon, to whom Emperor Charles of Austria addressed the letters last year in which peace was offered to France, paid two visits to England, in connection with the peace proposals and whether he was in communication on this subject with Premier Lloyd George. The question was brought up by Robert Outwaite, Liberal member of the House of Commons for Hantsley. Mr. Balfour replied that the subject was not one which could be dealt with by question and answer. The whole topic of Emperor Charles' proposals was discussed to-day in the House of Commons, on the initiative of the pacifists and advocates of peace by negotiations.

War Aim of Allies Referring to the statement made by Walter Runciman, formerly president of the board of trade, that France had asked for a bigger Alsace-Lorraine than that of 1870, Mr. Balfour said there was no question of this bigger Alsace-Lorraine being the war aim of the allies. "If any representative of any belligerent country," the foreign minister then declared, "desires seriously to lay before us any proposals we are ready to listen to them."

ENGLAND READY TO HEAR OFFER FOR REAL PEACE

Balfour Tells Commons England Has No Secrets From the United States

London, May 16.—Foreign Secretary Balfour was asked in the House of Commons to-day whether Prince Sixtus of Bourbon, to whom Emperor Charles of Austria addressed the letters last year in which peace was offered to France, paid two visits to England, in connection with the peace proposals and whether he was in communication on this subject with Premier Lloyd George. The question was brought up by Robert Outwaite, Liberal member of the House of Commons for Hantsley. Mr. Balfour replied that the subject was not one which could be dealt with by question and answer. The whole topic of Emperor Charles' proposals was discussed to-day in the House of Commons, on the initiative of the pacifists and advocates of peace by negotiations.

No Secrets From Wilson Mr. Balfour said he had no secrets from President Wilson. Every thought he had on the war or in regard to questions of diplomacy connected with the war was open to the President.

The foreign minister said he did not think it would be possible for the United States and Great Britain to carry on the great work in which they were engaged or to deal with the complicated day to day problems without complete confidence. So far as he was concerned complete confidence would always be given.

There was no one more desirous than the British government, he continued, that the war should be brought to an honorable termination. If any method could be shown the government whereby that would be accomplished, it would of course be accepted. He added, however, that no effort at negotiations which had been made by the central powers had ever been made in the interests of fair and honorable peace; to the contrary, they had been put forward in order to divide the allies.

War Aim of Allies Referring to the statement made by Walter Runciman, formerly president of the board of trade, that France had asked for a bigger Alsace-Lorraine than that of 1870, Mr. Balfour said there was no question of this bigger Alsace-Lorraine being the war aim of the allies.
