Kiss From Miss Clark Gives Him Mumps

Chicago, May 22.—Mumps, two whole weeks! What! Would you be willing to pay that penalty for one kiss from Marguerite Clark? Charles C. Ayres got the kiss and the mumps from Miss Clark when she was here selling Liberty Bonds. Charles says it was worth it, too.

Charles is eleven years old and a pupil in the Lincoln school. He lives at No. 221 Wrightwood avenue. Miss Clark was trying to induce the crowd she was addressing at Marshall Field's to sing "Over There," but the crowd didn't know the song. Young Mr. Ayres called up, "Why don't you try 'What Are You Going to Do to Help the Boys?'"

"You don't mind if I kiss you, you dear boy? I've just had the mumps. You're not afraid of them, are you?" Miss Clark said.

Well, I should say not," the youngster promptly replied. "He was so proud of those mumps that yesterday, when they were making four-minute speeches in the seventh grade of the Lincoln school, he told of them so enthusiastically that he was awarded the certificate for the best speech."

"All dressed up with a hole in his shoe," was a bit of sarcasm a girl flung at a young man friend whose entire outfit was new except his punctured shoes. "Right," he said. "Either to man or woman a shabby pair of shoes would spoil the appearance of the most elegant garments ever worn."

DR. YATES TO TALK ON ARMY AND NAVY TEMPERANCE BEFORE W. C. T. U. MEMORIAL MEETING

"Temperance in Our Army and Navy" will be the subject of an address by the Rev. Dr. William N. Yates at the memorial services of the Harrisburg W. C. T. U. in the Fourth Street Church of God tomorrow evening.

Dr. Yates is well known as a temperance champion and is noted as a pulpit orator. The members of the union feel that they are fortunate in procuring his services as he has made a special study of the subject on which he will talk and what he says regarding this very interesting topic will be based upon official records and his own researches.

An attractive program has been prepared, including readings and music.

A very large attendance is anticipated, a number of the soldiers stationed hereabouts are to be present and all the Christian Endeavor and some other local societies having been invited.

The W. C. T. U. of Harrisburg, is one of the pioneer temperance organizations of Central Pennsylvania. It has made its good work felt in many causes and its activities have been largely responsible for the growth of the prohibition sentiment in the city and county.

PRICE OF COAL FIXED BY TIME OF DELIVERY

Higher Freight Rates to Give Fuel Another Boost in City

Consumers who are now ordering coal for future delivery will pay for it at the price rates prevailing when the coal is delivered, according to the Dauphin county fuel administrator today.

Twelve thousand consumers have already placed their orders for next winter's supply in the hands of their dealers. Many other consumers have been holding back, and the Dauphin fuel administrator urges that all these come forward and file their orders with their dealers.

The payment for the coal now being ordered but which may not be delivered for months, is a matter to be settled between the dealers and consumers. It is up to the dealer to decide if the consumer must pay for the coal before it is delivered.

That the coal will cost more in the near future is conceded by dealers, as the government has announced its intention of raising freight rates, an item which will make for increased coal costs.

The county fuel administrator today repeated his request to consumers to file their orders at once. He declared that the amount of coal ordered now will form the basis of the calculations by which the fuel administrator will request coal from the operators and state administrators. One hundred and twenty thousand tons is estimated as the normal demand for Harrisburg per year, and orders approximating $7,000 tons have been placed to date. The fuel administrator urges that people send only a ton or half a ton place their orders at once.

FLYING WITH SHAFFER

Some Hard Luck

Somewhere in France, under his control, and can do what he wishes with the least touch.

Dear Mother: Your last letter contained one from Dad in which he called me for not getting more exciting news and pep in my letters during the last few months. He even was unkind enough to blame it on a poor girl—just as if there was such a troublesome animal around here, and even suggested I marry her, which would let my genius shine forth again in all its glory.

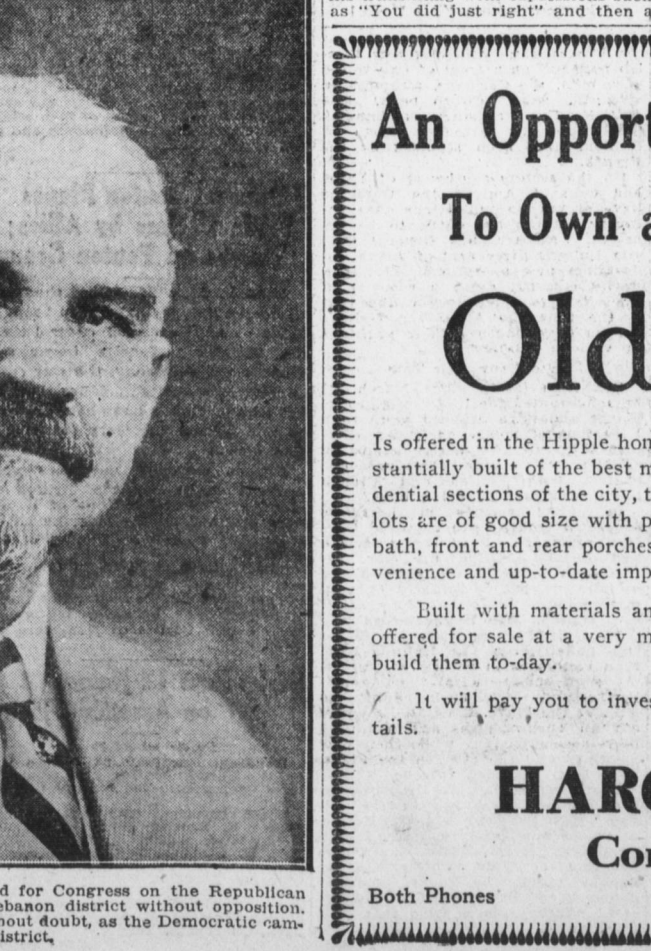

April Showers, I don't know where he gets the genius stuff of the girl, for I have seen neither and besides, I have been trying to write a truthful account of my experience as I went blithly along, but how can I write exciting things when nothing has happened for months. Does he want me to call my imagination into play?

Something I fear is not possible, never having had any. I can trim facts into fairly readable shape, "tis true. That I don't write fictitious tales. Dad has himself to blame—He raised me too well. However, after telling you the little that has happened to me since the last letter, I'll endeavor to spin a few yarns about my comrades.

This is April, you know, and it sure is living up to its name, for the clouds weep so often as some women and for a little reason. After some delay rounding up my after some delay rounding up my mechanic, I was soon sailing around in my one-winged "chic" airplane. It was rather warm, and all I was wearing of my flying costume was helmet and goggles, so the breeze stirred up the nose of my flannel shirt and sky-blue trousers, not having been in the air for so long, I was naturally feeling pretty frisky. The fact that we are forbidden to do acrobatics was the only sad thing about the flight. However, I had gone aloft to shoot, and getting the signal to commence, I was soon hurling down at a 4 foot square target, shooting as I came.

Three successive dives I made and the gun worked without a hitch. After the first dive, I gave up trying to see through the telescope sight, as it was so cloudy or dirty that I could see nothing through it, so corrected my shots by watching the tracer bullets, getting so interested in watching and correcting them that I nearly ran into the ground. Seeing that my gun worked all right, I flew around just for the joy of flying, for it's a great feeling to know one has all this power and terrific speed

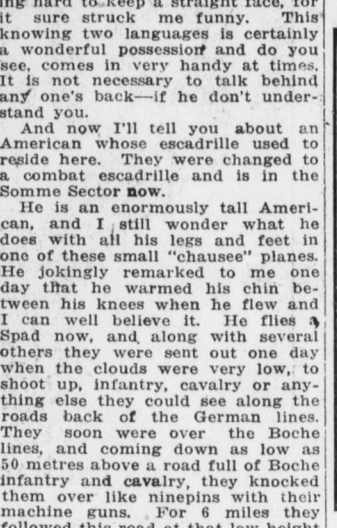

CONGRESSMAN AARON S. KREIDER

The Congressman was remembered for Congress on the Republican ticket in the Dauphin-Cumberland-Lebanon District without opposition. He will be re-elected in November without doubt, as the Democratic campaign will be merely nominal in this district.

Strange Flag Puzzles Kansas City Patriots

Kansas City, Mo., May 22.—The following letter has been received by a local newspaper:

The Post, being such a patriotic paper, will you please print on the front page in letters a foot high, if you have type that large, for the benefit of two "not even" lukewarm Americans in a country club car last evening, what the bright flag which flies under the American flag on the station flagpole stands for?

One man said it must be a service flag, only he didn't understand what the blue bars were for, and the other said it must be a new French flag. They surely belong to Rip Van Winkle's class and are still sleeping, and I leave it to The Post to wake them up.

SHIED FROM DRAFT BY GOVERNMENT JOBS

Washington, May 22.—Congressmen have been investigating the subject charge that thousands of men of draft age are enjoying freedom from military duty through exemptions obtained for them by executives of the House. This situation was uncovered during the discussion on the Food Production bill, when it was shown that the Secretary of Agriculture had 2,000 men exempted from military service. It was asserted that if the same proportion would be found in other Government departments more than 10,000 so-called "Government slackers" would be found in Washington.
