

REA IS REMOVED AS HEAD OF THE PENNSYLVANIA

Willard, Too, Relinquishes Direction of the Baltimore and Ohio

Washington, May 24.—Samuel Rea, president of the Pennsylvania, and Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio, removed as operating heads of their respective roads by Director General McAdoo's sweeping order of Tuesday, will not be reappointed.

retain their places as presidents of the corporations owning their respective lines, but they will have no place in the railroad administration and no jurisdiction outside of the corporate interests of their respective organizations. Mr. Rea and Mr. Willard are both operating men, having come up from the ranks, but in recent years they have engaged themselves as corporate heads rather than as operating officers. Mr. Rea, however, was one of the most conspicuous members of the railway war boards which attempted to operate the railroads as a continental system before Mr. McAdoo took hold.

Sure to Create Stir
The fact that these two men will not be named as Federal managers is certain to arouse comment, but it is understood that it is agreeable to the directors and stockholders of both railroads that they should continue to protect them rather than to relinquish their services to the railroad administration.

No reason was forthcoming from the railroad administration last night to explain why two such conspicuous railroad managers as Mr. Rea and Willard should not have a place in the railway administration. There have been rumors Mr. Rea has not been in entire sympathy with government control and operation. It is known that he was disappointed when the plans of the Railroad War Board were discarded in favor of government control. Friends of Mr. Rea, however, insist that since then he has co-operated with the government.

It is understood that both men have not aspired to be Federal managers of the railroad systems over which for so many years they had exercised absolute control. Realizing this and the situation in which both were placed Director General McAdoo has deemed it wise to pick other men for the job of managing two of the biggest railroads in his united system.

Markham to Decide
He has left it to C. H. Markham, the new regional director for the Allegheny region, to nominate from the organizations of these two systems.

Don't Hide Them With a Veil; Remove Them With Othine—Double Strength
This preparation for the removal of freckles is usually so successful in removing freckles and giving a clear, beautiful complexion that it is sold by any druggist under guarantee to refund the money if it fails. Don't hide your freckles under a veil; get an ounce of Othine and remove them. Even the first few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely. Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength Othine; it is this that is sold on the money back guarantee.

ARGUMENT COURT LIST IS ISSUED

Philadelphia, May 24.—The salary of the Pennsylvania president will be considered by the directors when they meet to take official action on the new turn of events. Generally supposed to be $75,000, that will be reduced now that the executive is shorn of a large part of his duties. By those who know Mr. Rea personally it is believed he will insist on a reduction, as his private income is independent of his salary.

Officials at Broad Street Station were unanimous in refusing to discuss the situation yesterday. According to advices from Washington, however, the story of Mr. Rea's fall from power is a bit of railroad history. A week ago last Wednesday he started on an inspection trip over the lines of the system. He received word in Pittsburgh on Sunday to report to Director General McAdoo on Monday morning on an important matter.

Mr. Rea was there as specified. In the anteroom was Daniel Willard, equally at sea regarding a similar summons. A request for Mr. McAdoo elicited the information that the director general would not see them. However, Walker D. Hines, assistant director general, would transact Mr. McAdoo's business, it was said.

Mr. Hines appeared and diplomatically explained that the services of neither executive were required under the government program. It was explained that the Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio system were to be cut in two at Pittsburgh with Charles H. Markham as regional director for this territory. An interesting feature was that the duty of dismissing the two presidents was the first act of Mr. Hines as assistant director general of the railroads. Mr. Hines formerly had been assistant to Mr. McAdoo. On Monday he was made the assistant director with a much wider range of power.

No Reason Assigned
Much speculation has arisen concerning the actual reason for the discharge of Mr. Rea, and rumors have been advanced of a possible clash of authority such as was attributed as the reason for the removal of C. W. Huntington, president of the Virginian Railway.

So far as is known, there has been no discord between Mr. Rea and the director general. Besides his connection as operating head of his own road, Mr. Rea served the government as a member of the railroads' war board from April, 1917, to January, 1918, when the roads were taken over by the government. Since that time he has been chairman of the Philadelphia-Baltimore-Pittsburgh conference committee of eastern railroads, which administered as one system, the Pennsylvania lines east of Pittsburgh, the Baltimore and Ohio, the Western Maryland and the Philadelphia and Reading. For years the Pennsylvania has not been on good terms with the Interstate Commerce Commission because it invariably took the lead in fighting for increases in freight rates. Mr. Rea usually opened the case for the lines and some of his Lee, proceedings to get possession of park zone property; Commonwealth vs. Harrisburg Light and Power Company, state tax suit; Gettysburg borough council vs. State Highway Commissioner, suit to have road repaired; George P. and Edward N. Cooper vs. Commonwealth suit for payment for park zone property; People's Trust Company vs. Secretary of the Commonwealth, Cyrus E. Woods, equity suit involving change of name of another Pittsburgh banking concern.

Juvenile Court.—Several juvenile defendants, charged with breaking parole while under sentence, will be brought before Judge McCarroll tomorrow for sentence.

City Treasurer Away.—City Treasurer C. E. Weber is on a business trip to Cleveland to-day.

Comments, it is understood, irritated members of the commission. High officials of the Reading asserted yesterday the company had received no intimation of any change on that system. Agnew T. Dice, president, is suffering a slight illness at Atlantic City.

FARE ORDINANCE CASES TO COME UP

Public Service Commission Will Soon Announce Its Policy

Members of the Public Service Commission will probably make early announcements of their plans in regard to complaints against increases of freight rates where cities and individuals have complained that the advances are against contact or franchise ordinances and the expectation is that several from western Pennsylvania and the Scranton district will be scheduled for hearings. The decision given yesterday by the Attorney General Brown wherein he holds that the Legislature under the constitution possesses authority to set aside rates in an ordinance and can constitute the commission for that purpose paves the way for disposing of these cases.

The commission has many street railway complaints on its docket and it is unlikely that there will be any vacation taken this year. Ready to Move.—Reports reaching the adjutant general's office and State Draft headquarters are to the effect that local boards are rapidly preparing their men for the five-day movement which is to start on Saturday. In all 17,622 drafted men will be moved to four camps. Local boards which have been slow in preparing their men have been urged to hasten. The movement will be the largest from Pennsylvania since the draft began.

More to Follow.—A new form of complaint has reached the Public Service Commission. It was against new rates of the Manufacturers Light and Heat Company's new gas rates. It was a printed form and is taken to indicate that more are probable. The first complaint was from the borough of Bellevue, Allegheny county.

Board Meetings.—The State Compensation Board has announced these June dates: June 4 at Harrisburg; June 5, 6 and 7 at Philadelphia and June 12, 13 and 14 at Pittsburgh.

The State Industrial Board will meet May 28 in Philadelphia to consider orders.

The Corn Crop.—Officers at the State Department of Agriculture are watching with interest the effect of the farm labor shortage on the corn crop this year. Last year Pennsylvania harvested 1,600,000 acres of corn and April reports were that farmers were planning to exceed even that record, but late statements have been to the effect that it may not be touched. There are many farmers who have had to cut down their programs for corn in spite of the attractive nature of the price at present and the prospects.

Look Gets Watch.—Ross A. Look, of Linglestown, a clerk in the State Treasury, was honored by fellow workers to-day in the Treasury, as he will leave in a few days for Camp Meade. This morning he was called to the front and presented with a wrist watch on behalf of the attaches by Major Robert Griffiths, who has a son in the service and Major General Sibert is an engineer officer. He built the Gatun locks of the Panama Canal, in recognition of which service Congress promoted him to the rank of brigadier general.

Charles W. Johnson Leaves For Fort Leavenworth

Word has been received by friends of Charles W. Johnson, 2215 Logan street, of his arrival at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., where he is stationed with the Signal Corps. Mr. Johnson attended the radio school of Technical High School and also received preliminary instruction in radio and buzzer work. He hopes to leave for France after a short training course at Fort Leavenworth.

who made a patriotic address. At the same time a service flag was unfurled for the department. Hoke in Artillery.—Russell A. Hoke, son of Howard M. is that of the son of Dairy and Food Commissioner James Foust, who is in the Ordnance Department. To Make Report.—Commissioner L. R. Palmer, Dr. F. D. Patterson and C. A.
