

YANKEE LOSS HEAVY, HUNS MAKE REPORT

Germans Claim Repulse of Strong American Patrols With Severe Casualties

Amsterdam, May 27.—"Heavy losses" were inflicted upon the Americans on the Picardy front in the repulse of strong American patrols on Saturday west of Montdidier, it is claimed in a semi-official German report received yesterday in a Berlin telegram.

Without the assistance of the artillery, the Americans slipped into the enemy trenches and quickly accomplished their work.

It was announced last night that the issuance of communiques had been discontinued on orders to headquarters from Washington.

ROOSEVELT AND TAFT MEET IN A CHICAGO HOTEL

The Former Presidents Grip Hands and Have Half Hour's Lively Talk

Chicago, May 27.—Theodore Roosevelt and William H. Taft, former Presidents of the United States, met last night in a Chicago hotel and held their first extended amicable conversation since the National Republican Convention in 1912.

After the greeting, the former Presidents sat down and engaged in animated conversation for half an hour. Finally, as Mr. Taft rose to go, they shook hands and each seemingly was in the best of spirits.

The meeting followed publication here this morning of the news of their exchange of telegrams last winter, when Mr. Taft telegraphed a hope of the Colonel's speedy recovery while the latter lay ill in a New York hospital.

WHILE HUNS DRIVE PRESIDENT EXHORTS

us to act for them in the weighty and anxious matters that crowd upon us in these days of critical choice and action.

"But we dare not go to the elections until we have done our duty to the full. These are days when duty stands stark and naked and even with closed eyes we know it is there. Excuses are unavailing. We have either done our duty or we have not. The fact will be as gross and plain as the duty itself. In such a case lassitude and fatigue seem negligible enough. The facts are tonic and sufficient to freshen the labor."

Must Advise People

"And the facts are these. Additional revenues must manifestly be provided for. It would be a most unsound policy to raise too large a proportion of them by taxation and it is evident that the four billion now provided for by taxation will not of themselves sustain the greatly enlarged budget to which we must definitely look forward. We cannot in fairness wait until the end of the fiscal year is at hand to apprise our people of the taxes they must pay on their earnings of the present calendar year, whose accountings and expenditures will then be closed. We cannot get increased taxes unless the country knows what they are to be and practices the necessary economy to make them available."

"Definiteness, early definiteness, as to what its tasks are to be, is absolutely necessary for the successful administration of the treasury. It cannot frame fair and workable regulations in haste; and it must frame its regulations in haste after it has not to know its exact task until the very eve of its performance. The present tax laws are marred, moreover, by inequities which ought to be remedied by indisputable facts, every one; and we cannot alter or blink them. To state them is argument enough."

Enormous Loans Freely Spent

"And yet, perhaps, you will permit me to dwell for a moment upon the situation they disclose. Enormous loans freely spent in the stimulation of industry of almost every sort produce inflations and extravagances which presently make the whole economic structure questionable and insecure, and the very basis of credit is cut away."

Only fair, equitably distributed taxation on the widest incidence and drawing evenly from the sources which would be likely to deny credit by their very abundance can prevent inflation and keep our industrial system free of speculation and waste. While the war profits and incomes and luxuries for the additional taxes. But the war profits and incomes upon which the increased taxes will be levied will be the profits and income of the calendar year 1918. It would be manifestly unfair to wait until the early months of 1919 to say what they are to be. It might be difficult, I should imagine, to run the mill with water that had already run through the wheel."

Treasurer Must Anticipate

Moreover, taxes of that sort will not be paid until the June of next year. The Treasury must anticipate them. It must use the money they are to produce before it is due. They will sell short time certificates of debtedness. In the autumn of much larger sales of time bonds of protest be effected than has yet been attempted. What are the bankers to think of the certificates if they do not certainly know where the money is to come from which is to take them up. And how are investors to approach the purchase of bonds with any sort of confidence or knowledge of their own affairs if they do not know what taxes they are to pay and what economies and adjustments of their business they must effect? I cannot assure the country of a successful administration of the Treasury in 1918 if the question of further taxation is to be left undecided until 1919.

Winning War Dominant

"The consideration that dominates every other now and makes every other seem trivial and negligible, is the winning of the war. We are not only in the midst of the war, we are at the very peak and crisis of it; hundreds of thousands of our men, carrying our hearts with them and our fortunes, are in the field and ships are crowding faster and faster to the ports of France and England with regiment after regiment, thousands after thousands, to join them until the enemy shall be beaten and brought to a reckoning with mankind. There can be no pause or intermission. The great enterprise must, on the contrary, be pushed with greater and greater energy. The volume of our might must steadily and rapidly be augmented until there can be no question of resisting it. If that is to be accomplished, gentlemen, money must sustain it to the utmost. Our financial program must not more be left in doubt or suffered to lag than our ordnance program or our ship program or our munitions program or our program for making provisions of men ready. These others are no programs, indeed, but mere plans upon paper, unless there is to be an unquestionable supply of money."

But One Way to Meet Duty

That is the situation, and it is the situation which creates the duty, no choice of preference of ours. There is only one way to meet the duty. We must meet it without selfishness or fear of consequences. Politics is adjourned. The elections will go to those who think least of it. To those who go to the contingencies without explanations or excuses, with a plain record of duty faithfully and disinterestedly performed, I, for one, am always confident that the people of this country will give a just verdict upon the service of the men who act for them when the facts are such that no man can disguise or conceal them."

There is no danger of deceit now.

An intense and pitiless light beats upon every man and every action in this tragic plot of war that is now upon the stage. If lobbyists hurry to Washington to attempt to turn what you do in the matter of taxation to their procreation or advantage, the light will be also upon them. There is abundant fuel for the light in the records of the Treasury with regard to profits of every sort."
