

TECH BOYS OFF TO EASTON TRACK MEET---MIDDLETOWN HAS CHAMPION SPIKE DRIVER

FLIERS FROLIC AT MIDDLETOWN

Champion Spike Driver Challenges World For $1,000 Bet

A rare and varied program of athletic events at the Middletown aviation plant was scheduled for to-day, cash prizes being an incentive. Not the least important feature was a challenge issued by Robert E. Epps, colored foreman, and widely known about here for his phenomenal skill at driving spikes. While Lieutenant Flood, the man responsible for to-day's big event, was getting the different units lined up the spike demon called out his battle cry so that all could hear: "I done challenge the whole civilized and heathen world, I do, fo' a wagar of $100 to $1,000."

The first event this morning was a shooting match open to all members of the camp, and this especially attracted the fliers. The afternoon saw track and field events, boxing, sack races and tug-of-war, broad jump, 100-yard dash, three-legged race, relay race, pole vault and shoe race. The attraction of the afternoon was a ball game between officers of the post and the enlisted men of the 63th Aero Squadron.

TECH STARS OFF TO EASTON

Will Compete With Pick of the State in Big Meet

Technical High school champion track team left this morning for Easton on the Queen of the Valley, where they took part in the Lafayette interscholastic meet. The event is the last athletic contest of the year, and marks the close of the best series of records in the history of Tech.

The Maroon athletes lost but one football game, and two basketball contests to other High schools. Chances are that Tech has the best High school track team in the East. Coach Hill was in charge of the squad which included John Beck, Mallick, Hoffsommer, Carl Beck, Wilsbach, Garrett, Oscar Miller, Sparrow, Boyer, Heagy and Hinkle. The Tech champions' last victory was at Pittsburgh, where they romped away with victory from some of the best schools in the state. With perfectly balanced team the Maroon gobbled up 52 1/2 points. The chief heroes were Carl Beck and "Toney" Wilsbach, with John Beck close on their heels, while Garrett, Mallick, Sparrow and Boyer each tallied.

Beck and Garrett finished third and fourth respectively in the 100-yard dash when the time of 10 3/5 was made. Mallick won the 440-yard dash making the distance in 51 2/5. He was hard pressed by Covalt, of Wilkes-Barre. Sparrow finished fifth in the half-mile run.

Carl Beck won his trial heat in the 120-yard hurdles and then captured the final. It was a hard race. Boyer finished third in this event. Tech's points in the field events were tallied by Beck and Wilsbach. The former captured the 12-pound shot put when he hurled it 45.7 feet and "Toney" carried away the discus prize when he threw it a distance of 98.8 feet.

The eyes of all interested in college and track events will be on this contest to-day at Lafayette, the home of General March. Tech will have to maintain her ascendancy for the crack teams of Pennsylvania are entered.

SAND LOTS BOY A WINNER IN BIG LEAGUE

HERBERT E. THORNALLEN

Herbert Thornahlen, taken from the sand lots of Baltimore in 1916 by the International League club of that city, has just caused a sensation in the American League by pitching for the New York American score a run. The last fourteen of these innings were against the champions of the world, the Chicago White Sox, when Cloutie, their greatest pitcher, was the Baltimore boy's opponent.

Weeping Bride Pleads That Husband Be Not Sent to Fighting Front

Philadelphia.—"I give it up—you can't argue with a crying woman." Outside the door of Lieutenant Newsom's office at the British recruiting mission, Sixteenth and Chestnut streets, sat a weeping bride of a few weeks. She had come to plead with the mission. "Please don't send my husband away from me," she sobbed.

"Gosh! I felt like a terrible rascal for a moment," said the recruiting officer who had retired in confusion behind the shelter of the private office. "But, blast my boots, I didn't kidnap her husband. It's the government that wants him. He is going to do a little job for himself, for ain't we the government, despite what our Sinn Feiner says?"

"Not me," said Lieutenant Skidmore as he held up both hands. "I'll go over the top, but nix on tackling the weeping woman." "My wife loved me as much as any of these weeping women, but back in the days before she was Mrs. Skidmore, when I went away, I knew she was especially strong for me the way she kept back the tears until I was out of sight so she wouldn't make me feel blue. "But you ought to see the French soldiers and their wives. They say the French soldier is a good fighter because he has something that no other soldier has—the women of France."

"They go with their men to the trains. There is no weeping; every eye is dry. Mothers, sisters, daughters, sweethearts and wives put their men on the train almost as nonchalantly as if they were going to work. And they are. The train pulls slowly out, and the women stand on the platform watching. There are forms, looking back and straining their eyes for the last look. Then after the train has gone the women return to their homes, their faces lighted with what seems a holy and religious exaltation. "That is the spirit of the women of France. They are the ones who have sacrificed their all—they are the ones who we are asked to help. Why shouldn't a woman be proud of a man that fights for the rights of women like that?"

KNIGHTS OF KHORASSAN INSTITUTED LAST EVENING

The fourth temple of the Dramatic Order, Knights of Khorassan in Pennsylvania was instituted last evening when the Koras Temple, No. 104, was instituted at the Knights of Pythias Castle, 1365 Howard street. Several hundred out-of-town persons attended the event.

A. L. Fry, of Columbus, O., imperial secretary of the Knights of Khorassan, was the instituting officer. He also made the installation address, in which he highly commended the new branch on its excellent start with 130 active members already enrolled. A luncheon was afterward served to the visiting members of the order.

CALL ARTISANS TO SERVICE State Draft Headquarters has just issued a call for wagonmakers, colored bricklayers, veterinarians and wheelwrights. Men fitted for this kind of work may be inducted to the service at once by making application to their local boards.

TRAPSHOOTING TITLES IN 16 STATES TO BE DECIDED

June—the month of sweet girl graduates and brides—is also an important season of the year for trapshooters. No less than ninety-four tournaments have been granted registration by the Interstate Trapshooting Association, including sixteen state championships and the annual gatherings of the American Indians and the Sportsman's Association of the northwest.

Trapshooting Championship tournaments were held in Arizona, Arkansas, Washington, North Carolina, Missouri, New Jersey, Oregon, Delaware, Nebraska, Mississippi, California, Nevada, Florida and Tennessee during the month of May, and with the number to be contested in June the still remains some 16 State championships to be decided. These more than likely will be held during July, for as a usual thing all State tournaments are conducted prior to the running of the Grand American Handicap Trapshooting tournament, which this year will take place the first week in August. The State tournaments are run prior to the G. A. H., so that the new State title holders can participate in the National Championship event, and if the tournaments are conducted prior to the G. A. H. none will carry over into the hunting season.

Back Troch Against the World Considerable interest is attached all championship tournaments, but there is more interest in some than others. For instance, in the Iowa State tournament, William Ridley, of What Cheer, and B. P. Eldred, of Des Moines, will shoot for the Hazard Doubles Championship trophy, emblematic of the world's title. H. J. Perkowski, of Phoenix, has won the New York State title three years in succession, each time making 100 straight. The question now before the shooters is—how long will Pennsylvania keep its title?

BAKERS TRYING TO PREVENT A FAMINE

local bakeries in the territory to which some of the Schmitz plant was shipped. In most cases these small bakeries can take care of the entire demand in the towns in which they are located, so no inconvenience can be expected in their territory. Officials of the West Shore Bakery this morning said that the capacity of their plant will be doubled to aid in meeting the shortage. Eleven new men, most of them master bakers and most of them coming from the Schmitz plants, have been employed at the prospecting plant that the plant may be operated at full capacity for twenty-four hours per day instead of the twelve hours per day of ordinary times with ordinary conditions.

The capacity of this plant is 25,000 "counts" per day which is all served in Harrisburg and West Shore territory. The prospecting plant "counts" will be produced each twenty-four hours during the next four weeks and all of this will be sent to Harrisburg to help fill the hole in the Harrisburg supply. To help meet conditions officials of the company this morning said that they expected to add several new delivery teams within the next several days.

Concentrate Efforts Due to the concentrated effort which it is now putting forth, the West Shore plant may be unable during the next several weeks to produce some of the prospecting plant of bread that it is now producing. The Pullman loaf, used very much by hotels and restaurants for making sandwiches, is one of the first brands of bread that may be discontinued, officials said this morning.

The Standard Baking Company, like the West Shore Bakery, is operating its plant at full capacity during the entire twenty-four hours. Additional employees have been added and additional delivery teams will be put on.
