

HOLIDAY CROWDS FILL MAJESTIC

Record Attendance at Vaudeville Theater; Clayton a Big Attraction

Record crowds filled the Majestic yesterday, the management arranging four shows to accommodate the rummy patrons. It is likely the cool, damp weather kept many away from amusement parks and helped to swell the theater crowds. With the exception of Clayton, the Mystic, held over for the entire week, the bill for the last half is an ordinary one.

Three Sports.—This trio follow Clayton in "The Pawnshop." They have some interesting horizontal bar and balancing feats.

Elizabeth Mayne.—Starting with a song about her size, Elizabeth succeeds in keeping the audience amused. Her recitation of a man's chances in the war is good.

Three A. M.—Julia Nash and Charles H. O'Donnell present this skit, which is a fair one for two and better than quite a few similar ones of the season.

Conrad and Mayo.—Comedy efforts of these two entertainers proved successful yesterday, and the audiences enjoyed many laughs at the foolish antics of the pair.

Clayton.—Still answering questions, Clayton has the theater folks completely mystified by his powers. Does he actually see in the crystal the questions and answers? That is a query in the minds of many who go to him. A student of psychology and the work of the Oriental mystics will find Clayton's introductory statements highly interesting.

FAMOUS ATHLETES TO BE WITH CIRCUS

Art of Self Defense Demonstrated by 15-Year-Old Girl, Against Men

Powerful athletes from Iceland, Japan, the South Sea Islands and elsewhere promise to be one of the sensational features of the great strength tournament which is to be given here Tuesday, June 11, as part of Ringling Brothers' circus program.

The Mikado has sent his own company of thirty jiu-jitsu experts to demonstrate the wonders of their art. These companies are composed of the Otawaga and the Tamaki champions.

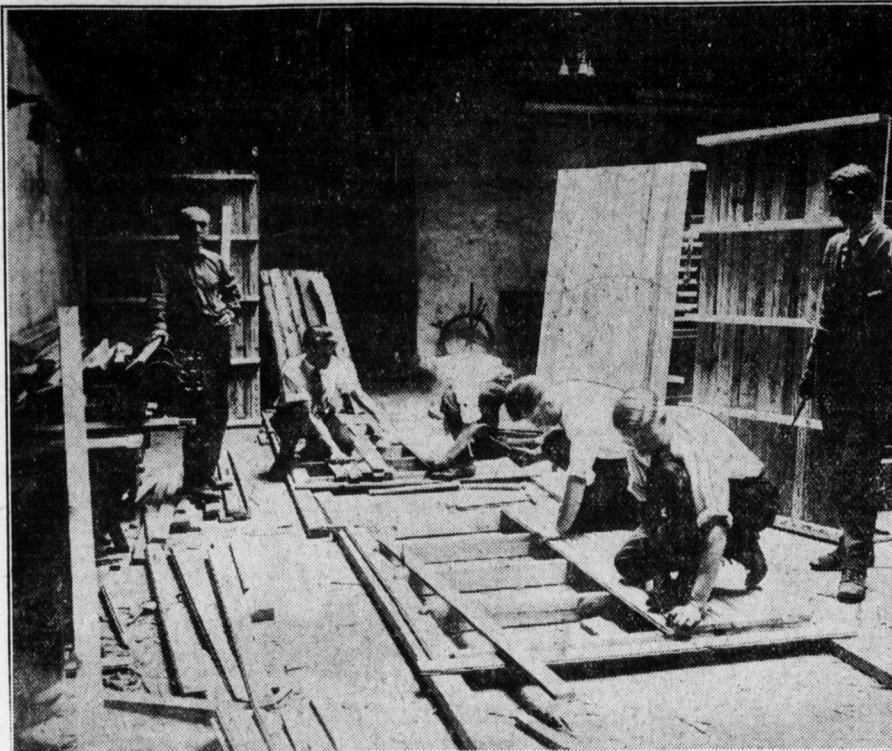

They will demonstrate, during the course of exciting contests and exhibition bouts, the Japanese art of self-defense, broad-sword and lance combats and giving amazing exhibitions in wrestling and strangling.

The part played by Miss Ai Kishi, a 15-year-old girl with the Tamaki troupe, has keenly interested American women. She repulses masculine attacks with knife, fist and club, demonstrating feminine immunity from harm by masher and marauder.

The early Norseman's method of self-defense will be illustrated by a company of powerful Icelanders headed by the giant champion, Johannes. He and his followers have come out of the North to display his championship prowess at "Glima," the national sport of the Icelanders.

"Glima" is a form of wrestling and self-defense practically unknown in this and other countries, yet has been a sport in Iceland since the eleventh century. While similar to the Japanese method of self-defense, known as jiu-jitsu, it is considered vastly superior to the latter. Johannes has won the championship of Iceland for two successive years. At the last contest there were two hundred aspirants for the honor, each had to wrestle all the others and the title went to the competitor having the highest number of points. Johannes had never once been thrown. He wrestled for six hours and declared at the finish that he did not feel a bit exhausted. "Glima" makes more demand in the way of training and requires more spectacular ability and science than any other form of combat.

Tech Boys Help in Building of Liberty Tents

Fifteen members of the sophomore class of the Technical High School have just completed seventy-three platforms to be used as floors for the Liberty Tent camps in all parts of the state during the summer.

The platforms were to be completed by the first of June, but by hard work the Tech students put out the work the forepart of this week. School Repairman Charles Langlet was in charge of the work, assisted by Mr. Koons. The second-year lads included Wilbur Criswell, Ross Reed, William Pleam, Leon Malick, Calvin Frank, Alfred Dunlap, Alton Rhoads, Henry Klugh, Samuel Leib, Leroy Strawhecker, Alfred Helf, Robert Notestein, Curtis Tripner, Allen Bowman and Charles Johnson, all the work being done in the Tech basement.

Just an even dozen Tech students have finished their preliminary work as members of the Working Reserve and most of them have already received appointments for their summer work. All the local lads were students at Tech and Central. In the above cut are seen (left to right): Assistant Repairman Koons, Ross Reed, Wilbur Criswell, William Pleam, Leon Malick and Repairman Langlet.

perfect and one gives scarcely a thought that it has been staged. The treatment of the Ambassador and the notes of President Wilson are described in detail. The intrigues of the Emperor and his Cabinet are demonstrated in a most convincing way. That the United States was eager to avert war and that Germany was insistent upon carrying on a slaughter is proved by the presentation of facts. The Lusitania sinking, how it was planned and executed, is vividly portrayed. That the Kaiser was deceiving the United States and pretending friendship for this country at the same time proves that Mr. Gerard was alert to the situation, and yet endeavoring to bring about an honorable solution of the problem.

The narrative, for though it is founded on truth it is more like a revolving tale of bloodshed, is presented with excellent effect. The Kaiser on his wooden horse, his insane thirst for power by the sword and his domination of those about him, leaves no doubt as to his brutality and bestiality.

More thrilling than all is the answer to the derisive words of the Germans. This is found in pictures of the soldiers of the allied nations and their indomitable courage and bravery.

CAPTAIN HALL'S "HIGH ADVENTURE" NEARLY READY
Just as the news came to this country that Captain James Norman Hall is not dead but badly wounded and a prisoner in a German hospital, the completing chapters of his book, "High Adventure," a Narrative of the Air Fighting in France, were received by his publishers, Houghton Mifflin Company, making it possible for the book to appear on June 20th. A silent tribute was paid to Captain Hall by his flying comrades after they first heard he had been killed when his aeroplane fell behind the German lines. A new plane, bearing the number of Captain Hall's wrecked machine, "17," appeared on the American front northwest of Toul. Immediately under the pilot's seat, on each side, was placed the inscription, "Old Jimmy." Captain Hall's companions are wishing now that he might come back some day to fly "Old Jimmy," himself.

Academy Not to Finish Schedule in Baseball

Manager Frank Stineman of the Academy nine has decided to cancel the remaining games on the school schedule. The academy is without the services of Esquerro and Thompson, the only two available pitchers at the Riverside institution and would present a hopelessly weak lineup.

There is considerable discussion as to whether the varsity will be given their "H's", but it is expected they will receive them for though the team had a poor record for victories they practiced regularly and were working under the handicap of poor pitching.

GOVERNOR WINS AT GOLF
One of the first to win in the Tombstone Golf Tournament at the Harrisburg Country Club links was Governor Brumbaugh who yesterday left his competitors in his wake, although helped with an eleven stroke handicap. His reward will be a serviceable and handsome golf club.

C. L. Miller was Brumbaugh's nearest rival, but finished a considerable distance in the rear. Harry

Suffered Fifteen Years
With a Disordered Stomach & Nervousness
Tonall Only Medicine Which Gave Him Relief

"When I look back at the suffering that I went through during those awful years I suffered with a disordered stomach and nervousness, it gives me horrors," says Mr. C. Burkholder, of 713 Cumberland St., Lebanon, Pa. "I tried remedy after remedy, but none of them did me any good. I was steadily growing worse; I could not sleep and I could not rest. I had made up my mind my health was gone for fair."

"Reading so much in the paper about Tonall and the different herbs, roots and barks it contained I decided as a last resort to give it a trial. I am growing better every day. I am much stronger, appetite good, bowels regular, am gaining weight and working every day at the age of 48 years."

Tonall is sold at Gorgas' Drug Store, Harrisburg, where its merits are being explained by the Tonall Scientist, and a sample bottle given away free this week, and also at the Hershey Drug Store, Hershey, Pa.

T. Neale placed third, while Robert Forgh finished a close fourth. The first three winners will receive golf clubs as prized while the fourth man will receive one golf ball for his efforts.

VICTORIA
To-day — George Walsh in "Brave and Bold."
To-morrow — William S. Hart in "The Desert Man."
Monday and Tuesday — Theda Bara in "The Soul of Buddha."

Every time George Walsh plays are shown at the Victoria Theater big crowds are the rule. This noted screen artist is the attraction to-day in his latest release, "Brave and Bold," a different sort of motion picture that will be sure to please every movie fan.

There is a fine love story running through the picture, which is well named "Brave and Bold," and the film will appeal to women who are especially admiring of George Walsh and his strong character acting, while the clean-cut, swift-moving drama is sure to arouse the interest and admiration of the stronger sex as well.

For to-morrow the management announces William S. Hart in another great western drama, "The Desert Man." Theda Bara in "The Soul of Buddha" will be shown Monday and Tuesday.

Wallace Reid was seen in his latest Paramount picture, "Believe Me, Xantippe," at the Regent Theater yesterday to a large and appreciative audience.

"The police—they couldn't even catch a cold." That was George Farland's irritated remark after his rooms in New York were robbed. And he offered to back of his opinion with a bet of $20,000 that he could commit a crime, and elude the police for a year. His friends accept the wager, and admit to have MacFarland forge the name of one of them to a check. He does so, disappears, and the game is on. Later a pretty girl comes into the story.

To-morrow — Charlie Chaplin returns in his funniest comedy, "One A. M." "Baree, Son of Kazan," a Vitaphone feature, is on the same program.

The big novelty of the vaudeville stage, "Making Movie Stars," will be seen at the Majestic Theater for the week beginning Monday afternoon. In this highly humorous act actual pictures are taken with casts selected from persons in the audience. Future movie stars may thus be discovered during the engagement, as at each performance a new play will be produced. Now or rivals to Mary Pleckford, Annette Kellermann, Douglas Fairbanks, Charlie Chaplin and other famous stars of the movie world to be discovered.

Fascinating Anna Q. Nilsson will be seen to decided advantage in Rex Beach's "Heart of the Sunset" at the Colonial Theater for the last time to-day, and this is the last opportunity to see this interesting picture. Saturday only, Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne will appear in a rollicking farce melodrama, "Cyclone Higgins, D. D.," a gripping story of love and rugged combat.

The introduction of the various characters of the Kaiser's blood-thirsty official family in "My Four Years in Germany" is done with rare skill. The actors who portray the mad monarch, the Crown Prince and the others whose part in the despicable work is well known, are men of skill and accomplishment. To the stage director there must be accorded a wide measure of praise, for the illusion is
