Men in touch with the trend of lucation in Pennsylvania say that military training, which has been op-principle and because of expense, will likely be a feature of work next many of the grammar schools and virtually all of the private schools except some of those which are against it on religious grounds. And even in some of the latter the run-ments of marching and taking care of self in the fields and woods will be given attention. This is one of the striking results of the great war and it is all the more significant because of the fact that Philadelphia, which furnishes the lead for much of the educational work in the state, is pre-eminently the place where the said that he had been wondering why something was not started long ago. "Ever since we got into the war and we had those parades of everyone last spring and summer the boys have been taking to marching and the girls, too. I saw that it would lead to military training and have been thinking about it. There will be some expense, but, as was said by a prominent man in Philadelphia, boards can cut out 'frills' now." It may be added that one state official made this terse comment "Submarines off the coast will make this a state of soldiers faster than anything else the kaiser could have done."

been "a big month" and we are all glad when some huge improvement is authorized here. Harrisburg railroad men have given demonstrations of their loyalty to Uncle Sam in sticking to their work in the face of the worst winter ever known in this State only a few months ago and in moving coal when they had to buck snowdrifts to do it. Our own railroad men have given of their best to the railway battalions in France and Harrisburg railroad workers are laboring on repairs, tracks and other work close to the front line. One

Smith announced that his men have moved a quarter of a million cars over the Philadelphia division in a nonth and smashed all records we throw up our hats. And now when Superintendent R. Boone Abbott comes along and tells that his men have broken all records for hustling cars over the Reading and out of cars over the Reading and out of Rutherford yards it's cheers for the Reading, too. It is a splendid example of service to the nation that the railroad men of the two big systems are giving in the Harrisburg district.

THE U-BOAT A SPUR

THE appearance of German submarines in American waters should cause no surprise; the wonder is that they did not turn up here months ago. Naval circles have expected raids of the kind ever since the United States entered the war. That they did not develop sooner is doubtless due to the fact that every German submarine available was in German submarine available was in Carbon and the reorganizers a dose of their own medicine. Police officers should be given to understand that their first duty is to study the regulations and then see to it that nothing interferes with their enforcement.

Harrisburg has long since ceased to be a village, and because Tom, Dick or Harry protests against interference with his alleged personal rights is no reason why the police officials should not do their duty under all circumstances. Parking biles along congested busics and the main driveways is little less than an outof the city is little less than an outrage, as is also the failure of the department to compel obedience of that provision of the ordinance which prohibits the use of the cutout and unnecessary blowing of horns.

We have no doubt that the Motor Club of Harrisburg would co-operate heartly with the police department in correcting present conditions, but it ought not to be necessary for any organization to aid those charged with the enforcement of the laws and ordinances of the city.

A few simple regulations, rigidly enforced, would soon cure existing evils.

The more active the total of the ocean, the angrier the American people will become, and the more they will centrate their efforts toward bringing their overwhelming might to bear effectively against the disciples of frightfulness and their war machine.

BE NOT AFRAID

When thou goest out to battle against thine enemies, and seest horses, and charlots, and a people more than thou, be not afraid of them, for the Lord thy God is with thee, which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt.

And it shall be, when ye are come nigh unto the battle, that the priest shall approach and speak unto the people.

And shall say unto them, Hear, O Israel; ye approach this day unto battle against your enemies; let not your hearts faint; fear not, and do not tremble, neither be ye terrified because of them;

For the Lord your God is he that goeth with you, to fight for you against your enemies, to save you.—Deuteronomy 20, 1-5.

In his service in the United States. The political aspect of the whole country was that so fa seething, boiling Niagara. Some gentlemen from the West were explained for his resourcefulness and grasp of affairs. Before America got into the war he was one of the few public officials who appreciated the seriousness of the situation and tried to arouse the country to the danger.

Men of his experience and known ability are few. The Nation can ill afford to lose the service of any of them. But now, without explanation, General Wood is refused assignment to active service to which other most in his class are being sent.

Fair minded men are reluctant to believe that any considerations save the service to which other most in his class are being sent.

Fair minded men are reluctant to the conduct of the war. Only a few days ago any paperal tent the common sent provided the president's announcement that politics was temporarily adjourned. But the conduct of the war hear of the common doubt an

Only those who are familiar with the conditions which have confronted the builders of the Penn-Harris hotel can have any real conception of the difficulties which have been overcome during the last few months. Not only the severe winter, but also a shortage of labor, has conspired to 1 stard the building activities, but the contractors are quite confident that they will finish the structure during the early fall. Already the furniture and equipment have been ordered and during the next two or three weeks the exterior work will have been completed.

German prisoners who have glimpsed the size of America's force in France are reported as amazed. They had been told that the U-boats had kept America out, and that a few thousand English soldiers had been dressed up in American uniforms to make a showing. Even educated German officers believed this invention of the general staff. Thus we may begin to see the results of the once much lauded system of state education in Germany.
