

REGISTRATION WILL BE PROBED

Major Murdock Will Go to Philadelphia Tomorrow to Start the Work

"An investigation of the low registration of aliens under class C in half a dozen of the local draft board of Philadelphia will be undertaken tomorrow morning. I have received word from General Crowder that the inquiry if it does not conflict with the tabulation of reports of the registration, said Major W. G. Murdock, state chief draft officer, to-day.

"I have been in touch with some of the boards in Philadelphia this morning and they are gathering information and preparing reports as to the reasons for the low registration of aliens. The situation will develop when I get to Philadelphia."

Major Murdock said that the schedules for the movement of the men called to go to Camp Lee, Greenleaf and Sherman would be ready next week. These men are to start on June 24.

When asked as to the statement of General Crowder that he had ordered revision of class I of the draft Major Murdock said: "We have been engaged on the preliminary investigations for that work for two weeks. We have had inspectors in the field looking into this very matter and will be prepared to make reports to General Crowder shortly."

All local boards have been urged to get their lists of new registrants on file at the headquarters by to-morrow night.

Returns from all of the 232 local draft districts in Pennsylvania were completed late last night and show that 60,551 men who attained the age of 21 in the last year registered June 5.

Enlistments and failure of aliens in some of the cities to register are given as reasons why the registration was not larger. Inquiries into causes of light registration of aliens in Philadelphia will be inaugurated.

The registration by groups was as follows:

Group A, native and naturalized white men, 49,980.

Group B, colored men, 3,373.

Group C, aliens, 7,198.

"Our Boys in Camp," Presbyterian Topic

The spring meeting of the Presbyterian Association of Harrisburg and vicinity will be held at the Olivet Presbyterian Church next Thursday evening at 6 o'clock. The Rev. Dr. L. S. Mudge will address the meeting on "Our Boys in Camp." Dr. Mudge has spent considerable time in the various camps of the American Army and his message is of more than usual interest.

"Work or Fight" Word to Man Who Would Sell Toy Balloons

That the "Work or Fight" ruling and anti-loafing edict will be rigidly enforced in Harrisburg was evinced by the following letter sent by the police department to Thomas Zingaro, of York, who requested the chief of police to allow him to sell balloons or other wares of a similar character on the streets of Harrisburg is strictly prohibited, particularly at this time, when all able-bodied men should be serving their country in some useful way.

"Our slogan here is 'Go to work or go to jail.' Therefore, there is nothing doing along your line in Harrisburg."

The Hague, June 7.—The hospital ship Koaling Regenes, having on board the English delegates to the Anglo-German war prisoners conference at the Hague, struck a mine off the English coast. Four firemen were killed, but all others were saved by the hospital ship Sindoro.

busily engaged in selecting the winning blooms. Hundreds of other beautiful blooms are on exhibition.

The judges are: Miss Bess Trump and H. Riebe, of the Berryhill nurseries; Charles Utley, florist; Mrs. Margaret Cumber, of Highspire, and Mrs. S. F. Dunkle.

Awards are being made for the following exhibits: Best general display of roses, best individual specimen blooms, best hybrid tea, or hybrid perpetual roses, best roses of climbing variety, three red roses, three white roses and three pink roses.

Blue, red and yellow ribbons will be awarded as first, second and third prizes in the different classes. Two memberships in the American Rose Society will be given—one of the best general display and the other for the best specimen bloom. These memberships are the gifts of J. Horace McFarland and the Berryhill nursery.

Entries for the exhibit closed promptly at 1 o'clock with some two hundred roses in their vases. These exhibits, together with the flowers, roses and others, exhibited by professional nurserymen of Harrisburg, in their white, pink, deep scarlet and blue splendor, scattered throughout the lobby, presented a gorgeous appearance. Just enough green-leaved plants were displayed to sufficiently diversify the exhibits.

With many rose bushes past the blooming stage as a result of the early spring weather and in view of the fact that this is the first rose exhibition ever held in Harrisburg, the committees in charge of the two-day show feel that the first annual Harrisburg Rose Show will be recorded as a success.

Gardens of many rose growers throughout the city and surrounding territory contributed their share to make the event a success. While some rose lover with but few bushes contributed probably only a single specimen, other growers with larger space for the cultivation of the "queen of flowers" contributed dozens of blooms. All of the exhibits that are being entered for prizes were those produced by amateurs for this event is for amateur blooms alone. No flowers of nurserymen, florists or their employes were accepted for prizes.

More than a score of varieties of roses contributed their share in making the lobby of the Y. M. C. A. a literal bower of fragrance.

But professional nurserymen and florists of Harrisburg, while their entries were barred from entry for prizes, made exhibits and lent every effort to make the amateur show a success. Their exhibits were especially valuable in producing such a pleasing appearance. The exhibit of the Berryhill nursery, especially the handsome floral mantle decoration, was quite pleasing.

The especially rare varieties of plants were among the exhibits of the professional nurseries. The Berryhill concern showed a flowering mullen, technically a member of the Verbascum family. This particular variety, the Ellen Willmott, named after the daughter of an English nurseryman, was grown in Harrisburg, or in fact in Central Pennsylvania, for the first time this year. Only a few other varieties in the United States produce this flower. The plants are especially hard and grow to the height of six feet.

The Incarvillea Delavayi, with no common name as yet, is another plant grown in Harrisburg for the first time this year. Its seed was imported from Germany. The leaves of the plant are of the fern type with the flowers resembling the rich pink Gloxinia. The New Philadelphia, a mock orange imported from China, and the Cornelia, are two other varieties of plants best produced for the first time here this year.

This show, which is being held under the auspices of the Woman's Advisory Board of the Y. M. C. A., is being held for the benefit of the war work of the Y. M. C. A. A nominal admission fee is being charged each visitor. All of the exhibits that are in satisfactory condition at the conclusion of the show will be sent to the several Harrisburg hospitals to cheer the patients of the institutions.

The show will close to-night at 8 o'clock. To-morrow it will be open from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m.

SCHWAB ASSERTS SHIPYARDS ARE TO RACE BRITAIN

Tells Hog Island Engineers Progress Will Make the World "Sit Up"

Philadelphia, June 7.—Great Britain and the Emergency Fleet Corporation will vyingly conduct an international race to see who will put the greatest number of new ships on the seas the coming year. To equalize the struggle which is coming, the United Kingdom has just authorized the construction of twelve yards, with 100 ways, to meet the problem.

This is the gist of the message which Charles M. Schwab, the master shipbuilder, gave to the "Pull-Together" Club of Hog Island engineers, affiliated with the American International Shipbuilding Corporation, at the Adelphi last night.

"I received this news from Great Britain by cable to-day," continued Mr. Schwab, "and I've just got sporting blood enough to want to see Hog Island and the other yards lick our greatest ally, who has never been rival in this shipbuilding contest."

"Will Make World Sit Up" "And when Hog Island gets running I know that it will make the whole world sit up and take notice. You know there has been much criticism of Hog Island, and I often think of it when I see the fellows who do the most criticizing has the idea in mind, I often think, that he wants you to think he is a hell of a fellow."

Mr. Schwab, after assuring his hearers that there wasn't anything of Orchard White, shake well, and try to obtain for Hog Island, told of a conference he had with Secretary Daniels, of the Navy Department, on Wednesday. Mr. Schwab said: "I told him that he ought to give us those two big turbine factories and plants at Buffalo, and that if we had them we could go ahead pretty confident that everything was leveled for us. The Secretary told me that if I sent along my engineers to-day—and they have been down there all right—that he guessed some way might be found to let us have the plants for the turbines.

"But that isn't all. Rear Admiral Bowles told me a few days ago that if Hog Island only got enough steel to go ahead in fine shape the plant would surprise the nation. Then I got busy right. I went to one firm and I asked them to come along and help us, and they said that they would build a couple of fabricating plants to cost $6,000,000, one of them is to be at Pottsville, and they would give me 10,000 tons more steel a month than was guaranteed, starting December first.

"Then I saw the American Bridge Company and they told me that inside of two months they would give me 20,000 tons more steel than was contracted for, while the two car companies, the Standard and the Pressed Steel, also said that I could count on 20,000 tons more—10,000 apiece—that they had been obligated to deliver. This will come after two months more."
