warious parts. Throughout the play the work of Miss Lillian Speakman stood out most prominently. Her natural, easy manner and charming facial expressions received favorable comment from the Interested audience. She was most decidedly the star of the performance. George Teck as "Little Hemachus Spliggot" keek as "cittle Hemachus Spliggot" keek as Miss Ethel Forney characterization of Lulu, the maid was very delightful. Another of the especially good characters was Miss Fannie Ness, as Mrs. Perrington-Shine, with the accent on the "Perrington." Mrs. Perrington-Shine, was the haughty mamma who spoiled things for her daughter, Gwendolyn; Miss Helen Hargest Hoffman, Ben Wolfe, as Billy Jackson, proved himself to be a true heartbreaker and lady killer. The proceeds of the play will be devoted to the class endowment and Red Cross funds.

Senior Class Play, "The
