Marksmanship of Raider's Gunners Poor in Darkness; Chase Lasted Two Hours

An Atlantic Port, June 13 .- How the American steamer Edward Pierce escaped both shellfire and a torpedo rom a German submarine off the Virginia capes Monday night in a stern chase that ended only when coast lights were sighted, was related here yesterday by Captain Wade, master of the vessel. The attack came soon after the Norwegian steamer Henrik Lund was sunk 120 miles east of Cape Hatteras and probably was made by the same submaster of the vessel. the marksmanship of the gunners in the darkness was poor.

Finding his guns unavailing, the German, according to Captain Wade, launched a torpedo, but it went wide, though the captain and members of the crew saw it pass their vessel at a rapid speed. The chase lasted for two hours, the submarine evidently drawing off when the coast lights came into view.

Captain Wade said his wireless calls were answered by the Cape Sable, Nova Scotia, station and the American steamer Walter D. Noyes. The latter vessel reported on its arrival here that it had sighted what was believed to have been a submarine, but the Noyes was not attacked.

an unusual city. It is noted far and wide for its civic pride, its trees, its parks, its improvements, its wonderful Front street. It is a city that does big things and it is known for that. Why, not only does it get the things that all strive for, but I hear it even patches its own pavements and it has more of those than most cities of larger size.

"Oh, no: I don't think Harrisburg will go wrong in what will be asked of it in this great project."

Mr. Brunner said that if people watched the way Superintendent Schreiner is carrying on the filling they could get some idea of what has to be done right at the bottom of Capitol Park. "This work is going on by degrees. Mr. Shreiner is showing intelligence and foresight about it. It all has to be planned out and prepared for. We can't jump right in and do a lot. We will start when we are ready, but meanwhile just watch the way things are being worked out.

"To my mind, it is important that the city should build the bridge as soon as possible. Traffic conditions in your city need it." declared Mr. Brunner. "Everyone knows what the situation is and I feel confident that with the state ready to do its share that all the elements which must figure can be brought together. Present conditions here, and I have been right in them yesterday and today, are a handicapt to your city. To be blunt about it, the bridge ought to be started right away, if it were possible. Get it started and the rest will come easily. It is going to be the natural thing to get a great park. It will be important to the state and it will be important to the started right away, if it were possible. Get it started and the rest will come easily. It is going to be the natural thing to get a great possible. Get it started and the rest will be im state and it will be important to the city.

"This park, which is now the backdoor of your Capitol, is going to be the garden front. Third street side will be the formal entrance. It is going to be splendid with that big entrance and terrace, but here there will be a garden that is to be something people will come to visit. The buildings will be part of the main building. Departments will expand and there must be much room for storage. We have got to plan for the years to come in offices in planning our park and they will be part of each other."

the years to come in offices in planning our park and they will be part of each other."

Care For the Hill

In discussing the plans for the monumental bridge, Mr. Brunner said Auditor General Snyder, who was immensely interested in the developments, had given assurance that he would aid with the legislation and that he was looking out for the interests of all sections of the city. He said: "Royal Terrace will have a proper connection with the bridge and so will there be some means of approach from the Twelfth street playground. We are going to take care of the Hill and the intervening property. It is an interesting problem, but you do not often get a state board that rises to a great occasion and a city with the civic enthusiasm of Harrisburg working together."

Mr. Brunner, who was accompanied by one of his assistants, devoted much time to-day to the details of the plans which he discussed with the Board. He went about the city, especially the Hill, clear out as far as Reservoir Park, to get a line on views, and declared just before leaving this afternoon that he thought things well under way.

Superintendent Shreiner is considering an early start on some of the curbing and preliminary work on the Third and Walnut street sides of the park. There are funds available, but the prices have not been satisfactory. The formal entrance, which Mr. Brunner declared would some day lead to a bridge across the Susquehanna at State street, will likely be authorized by the next Legisla-

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, gas, sourness, stomach-ache and inability to retain food arrin probably nine cases out of ten, simply evidence that excessive secretion of acid is taking place in the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acid indigestion.

Gas distends the stomach and causes that full, oppressive, burning feeling sometimes known as heart-burn, while the acid irritates and indames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the excess development or secretion of acid.
