CROWD ATTACKS PATROLMAN WINN

Officer Narrowly Escapes Injury When Trying to Disperse Crowd

Patrolman John Winn narrowly escaped serious injury this morning when he made efforts to disperse a crowd causing a disturbance at Main and Francis streets at 12.30 o'clock. The patrolman, approaching the crowd of men, asked them to scatter and discontinue the singing and noisemaking. The patrolman had no sooner given his orders until he was attacked by Archie Hammaker. When he made efforts to place this man under arrest, the twelve men in the crowd began a free-for-all scrap with the patrolman, the chief said. His mace was wrenched from his hand and one of the rowdies proceeded to use it on its owner. After some difficulty Patrolman Winn succeeded in placing Archie Hammaker and George Miller, another man of the crowd, under arrest. These men he took to the borough lockup and returned to the West Side, where he found James Dalley in a street near the scene of the disturbance. He arrested Dalley and took him to the lockup.
