President Stops Private Recruiting of Labor After August 1

Washington, June 18.—The President, by proclamation last night called upon the employers and the workers of the nation to co-operate with the government in the adminis tration of lar labor problems by sup porting the program of the Depart ment of Labor to prohibit private re cruiting of unskilled labor after Au-

At the suggestion of Secretary of Labor Wilson, the President gave his unqualified approval to the establishment of a central labor re-cruiting agency—the United States Employment Service-and indorsed Employment Service—and indorsed the regulation of labor supply, which will mean the withdrawal of workers from nonessential industries. Secretary Wilson's statement to the President that the present labor "turnover" is alarmingly great and that there is an increasing shortage of unskilled labor was supplemented by the President with concrete instances of the harm to national interests and the workers themselves in the present indiscriminate competition for workers on the part of employes.

Agency For Handling War-Plant Is Proclaimed by President Wilson

President's Proclamation Washington, June 18. — Washington, June 18. — For more than a year it has been our pride that not our armies and navies only, but our whole people is engaged in arighteouswar. We have said repeatedly that industry plays as essential and honorable a role in this great struggle as do our military armaments. We all recognize the truth of this, but we must also see its necessary implications—namely, that industry, doing a vital task for the nation, must receive the support and assistance of the nation. We must receive the support and assistance of the nation. We must receive the support and assistance of the nation. We must receive the support and assistance of the nation. We must receive the support and assistance of the nation whether employer or employe, to know that his service is being used in the most effective manner possible. In the case of labor this wholesome desire has been not a little thwarted owing to the changed conditions which war has created in the labor market. There has been ignorance of conditions—men have gone hundreds of miles in search of a job and wages which they might have found at their doors. Employers holding government contracts of the highest importance have competed for workers with holders of similar contracts and even with the government itself, and have conducted expensive campaigns for recruiting labor was already exhausted. California draws its unskilled labor from as far east as Buffallo, and New York from as far west as the Mississippi, This labor has been induced to move fruitlessly from one place to another, congesting the railways more than a year it has been our and losing both time and money.

Such a condition is unfair alike to employer and employe, but most of all to the nation itself, whose existence is threatened by any decrease in its productive power. It is obvious that this situation can be clarified and equalized by a central agency—the United States employment service of the Department of Labor, with the counsel of the war labor policies board as the voice of all the individual agencies of the government. Such a central agency must have sole direction of all recruiting of civilian workers in war work; and, in taking over this great responsibility must, at the same time, have power to assure to essential industry an adequate supply of labor, even to the extent of withdrawing workers from nonessential production. It must also protect labor from insincere and thoughtless appeals made to it under the piea of patriotism, and assure it that when it is asked to volunteer in some priority industry the need is real.

Therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States of America, solemnly urge all employers engaged in war work to refrain after August 1, 1918, from recruiting unskilled labor in any manner except through this central agency. I urge labor to respond as loyally as heretofore to any calls issued by this agency for voluntary enlistment in essential industry. And I ask them both alike to remember that to sacrifice will have been in vain if we are able to prove beyond all question that the highest and best form of efficiency is the spontaneous cooperation of a free people.

Funds Begins This Evening

A campaign for funds for the Central Y. M. C. A. will be opened with a dinner to-night at the Central Association building. The dinner is dendered by the finance committee of the Board of Directors to the contributors to the association. Several days ago the members of the finance committee announced that they would contribute $$,000 toward a fund of $16,000 for the local association, provided that a contribution of $$,000 from the public would be secured. Reports of the secretaries of the association will be read at to-night's dinner in order that the contributes of the secretaries of the association will be read at to-night's dinner in order that the contributors may secure a definite idea of the work accomplished during the past several months. Since November 19, 1917, and until May 1, 1918, the eighteen pullets laid a total of 1,684 eggs.

WHAT THE KAISER TELLS HIS DUPES

Amsterdam, June 18.—The war is not a matter of a strategic campaign but a struggle of two views wrestling with one another. Emperor William declared on Saturday at the celebration of the anniversary of his accession at German main headquarters.

"Either German principles of right, freedom, honor and morality must be upheld." he added, "or Angle-Saxon principles with their idolary of mammon ust be victorious."

There are thousands to choose from in the men's store, and they are all better in value than any others we've seen this year.

Our shirtmakers have pioneered in making a shirt an article of refinement instead of a simple something on which to fasten collars and cuffs.

Dives, Pomeroy & Stewart shirts have long been the well-dressed man's standard of style, fabric and dependability—and dependability means more than ever in these changing times. Assured neck bands, long enough in the body to stay put and in colors that are fast. In patterns to please every man's taste.
