DEMOCRATS TURN TAX COLLECTORS PROHIBITION INTO PARTISAN PATH

Burleson, Lobbying Against Bill, Summoned to Appear Before Senate Committee

Washington, June 22.-Democratic Cabinet leaders and men high in party councils are making a real political issue out of the agitation for a dry nation during the war period. The issue which has been more or passed a bill prohibiting the manufacture of beer to conserve food, has been fanned into a partisan struggle, promising to benefit Republican candidates for Congress.

didates for Congress.

Former Sceretary of State Bryan came out for the bill in appearing before the Senate Committee on Agriculture, but recently has been quiescent since the belief became strong among Democratic candidates for Congress that the nassage of the bill would injure them politically. Those favoring a wet nation thought that the matter would be allowed to rest until after election, at least, because of the opposition of President Wilson and others.

It came sharply to the fore yesterday by the action of the Prohibition members of the Agriculture Committee insisting that Postmaster General Burleson, Secretary Danlels and E.

rleson, Secretary Daniels and E. Hurley, chairman of the United States Shipping Board, be requested o appear and give their views on he subject.

to appear and give their views on the subject.

It was asserted in the committee that Mr. Burleson had been lobbying and exerting his influences secretly against the bill and that it was only proper that he should give his opinions to the country openly.

Mr. Hurley has gone on record against the ban on beer, asserting that if the nation becomes beerless during the war it would interfere greatly with the efficiency of shipyards. He contends that men now engaged at shipyards would not remain if they had their beer taken away from them. The same position is taken by Bainbridge Colby, of the Shipping Board.

Representative Randall, of California, Prohibitionist, said in an interview yesterday:

"I received confirmation through confidential sources that high authority in the Democratic party had planned to postone at all hazards a war prohibition enactment until after the election. The party in powers is threatened by the brewery and ris threatened by the brewery and iquor interests in the large cities with the loss of the next House of Representatives if prohibition is enucted now.

COAL FOR SCHOOLS TRAILROAD DEWST YANKEES MAKE READING LINES

Gives Rise to Rumors; Is Now Corporate Head

The retirement of E. T. Stotesbury from the presidency of the Reading Company and the election of Agnew T. Dice, president, acquires significance in view of the information which was had simultaneously in higher financial quarters in New York to the effect that there is a plan worked out on paper for a corporate separation of the coal and railway properties now owned by the Reading Company. It is said that the plan awaits the return of Attorney J. Reynolds, vice-president of the First National Bank of New York, who is now in California.

A few days ago the United States Supreme Court agreed that there should be a second reargument of the Reading case. The idea seems to be that before next October where succe new argument is scheduled to make the court of the Reading case. The idea seems to be that before next October where succe new argument is scheduled to make the contention in which it has had no success so far, a basis also satisfactory to the owner of the Reading properties.

Dice is Corporate Head
President Dice has been in the position of corporate head of the Philadelphia and Reading since the appointment of Charles H. Ewing as federal manager of that system. The limitation of President Dice's duties to corporate matters made possible his assumption of like obligations as executive head of the holding company.
