perature normal for this time of year. Only twice before since the insti-tution of the United States Weather Bureau in Harrisburg has the city experienced a June summer day as cold on the average as yesterday. Never has their been a colder day. Yesterday's mean temperature was 5% degrees, 14 degrees below the normal mean temperature for June 2%. The other two days since 1889 when the mercury has sagged so low are June 22. 1903, and June 24. 1896, on both of which the same average was reached the first summer days was 52 de-grees, which was renchered at mid-night Saturday. Yesterday the mer-cury hovered somewhat above that, but the cold was rendered more pen-etrating by the brisk breeze that was moving. but the cold was rendered more pen-etrating by the brisk breeze that was moving. The weather of the past three days has produced a deficiency of four-teen degrees in normal June tem-perature and has reduced the excess of temperature since January 31 to inneteen degrees. Saturday had a maximum temperature of 70 de-grees with a minimum of 52, giving a mean temperature of 61 degrees, eleven below normal. Yesterday's maximum temperature was 64, mini-mum 52 and mean 58, fourteen de-grees below normal. The frost, forecasted for early to day, failed to materialize in Harris-burg, so all plants in this section escaped unscathed. Many tillers of this contingency by covering their more tender plants. The cool weath-er of the past few days, however, is expected to retard the growth of all vegetation in this section consider aby.
