Bill Shafer Cuts Up With Railroaders at Allentown

The Harrisburg Division baseball team went over to Allentown yesterday to play a team there called the Pergola, the meaning of which local boys could not precisely explain.

Playing third base, he leaped high to the left and stopped a liner, whose force, however, quoting a scribe on the spot, "was such that the visiting player was entirely carried off his feet and lay seemingly dead on the grass for a moment or so.

"Bill" hurled himself into the line-up with a terrible blow which should have been a homer. But a miserable error on the Pergola team who is known as "Wing" Dinger managed to cut off the drive for a circus catch and thus beat the railroaders from our home town.

TRAPSHOOTERS AT THE FRONT

Success of Yankee Marksmen Urges All to Train With the Rifle

"Every man who has been drafted and has not reported for duty should waste no time in learning to shoot," declares the veteran Captain A. H. Hardy.

"The government hasn't time to make even accurate shots out of its national army. If you have been drafted and know nothing about the shooting game, go to the nearest rifle, revolver or gun club, and make your wishes known, and you will always find willing and competent instructors ready to do their best to aid you."

He also recommends trapshooting for the young American, because at least it teaches to point the gun, think and pull the trigger in unison.

Breaks champion trapshooter and particularly a squirrel shooter, of Rich Hill, Mo., who was leading a patrol for information. He got up under an enemy machine gun twenty feet away, at the edge of wood, and silenced it.

Another famed marksman of the traps, Private Charles Lloyd, of Newark, N. J., was assigned to another a German machine gun crew, 600 yards away. With the other volunteers killed off he crawled 100 yards alone, started his trusty shooting iron going and so expert was he in dropping the elusive, fluttering birds in the days gone by, that the counted for twenty Germans in as many minutes and silenced the battery.

ALL AMERICANS ASKED TO BUY

Thrift Stamp Sale Necessary to the Purchase of War Supplies

Patriotic citizens who remain at home are reminded by Secretary McAdoo in a statement issued to-day through Postmaster Frank C. Sites that the fighting men must have food, clothing and arms and that the purchase of War Savings Stamps offers direct aid.

Governor Strong, of the Federal Reserve Bank, one of the leading financiers of the country, makes this appeal to war savers:

"The Secretary of the Treasury has designated June 28 as National War Savings Day, and the President has publicly appealed to every man, woman and child, in accordance with the request of the Treasury Department, to pledge himself or herself on or before that date to save constantly, and with such savings to buy as regularly as possible War Savings

Stamps and Liberty Loan Bonds. The President further urges that our people everywhere pledge themselves to the practice of thrift; to serve the Government to the utmost in increasing production in all fields necessary to the winning of the war; to conserve food and fuel and useful materials of every kind, and to buy only those things which are essential to individual health and efficiency.

"The War Savings Stamps offer an ideal medium for the investment from day to day of funds thus saved, and the war savings organization is undertaking a campaign to secure from all the people a written pledge to reduce expenditures for purposes not conducive to winning the war and to invest these savings regularly in specified amounts of War Savings Stamps, doing this as far as possible through membership in War Savings Societies.
