Pullage Throne
Raid Embassy Building After News of Victory Over the Austrians

Rome, June 27.—During a celebration of the Italian success, on the Plave, a crowd rushed to Capitoline
Hill and burst into the Caffarelli Palace, which before the war was the seat of the German embassy and which is still German property. All portraits of the German embassy and which is still German property. All portraits of the German emperor were town down and the Italian flag was hoisted over the building.

The fact that the palace is still owned by Germany has been the cause of great indignation among the people of Rome, who since the entry of Italy into the war, have demanded that Capitoline hill be freed from its Teutonic stain."

The rage with which the people invaded the palace can, therefore be readily understood. They overturned the throne placed there by the German emperor himself, tore some of the furniture to pieces and after tearing down the portraits of the emperor aid raising the Italian flag paraded the main streets of the city with fragments of the emperor's picture at trophies.

Paris, June 27.—Austria is in serious difficulties, but there is great danger in hopping too much, says a French official statement. Little hope is seen in the possibility of a successful revolt. Austria cannot negotiate a 'separate peace and it will be "a bad policy to extend a hand to her now."

Vessels Off England

An Atlantic Port, June 27.—The Canadian Pacific steamships Pomeranian and Medora have been sunk by German submarines off the British coast, according to the captain of a vessel arriving here from England. Both ships were bound for American ports.

Only the second engineer, of a crew of sixty, was saved from the Pomeranian, it was declared.

The crew of the Medora took to the boats and the U-boat commander is said to have made the captain, wireless operator and chief gunner prisoners.

The arrest of these boys is the first since a campaign has been started by the police department and members of the food conservation committee of the borough to break up the practice of boys destroying the crops of war gardeners on the hill. No damage to the gardens was reported to the police **partment since the arrests.

Chief Grove said this morning that he believed the boys destroyed the crops unthinkingly. "The boys have a swimming hole at the lower end of Mohn street, and I believe they went into the gardens to get some potatoes to roast instead of just destroying them. At any rate the boys are old enough to know better and they will be given a chance to explain their
