INDIANA'S 'DRY' LAW UPHELD BY

Highest State Tribunal Votes Four to One to Sustain State-Wide Prohibition

Indianapolis, June 29.—The Indiana state-wide prohibition law was upheld by the State Supreme Court resterday. The decision was four to one, Judge John W. Spencer, of Evansville, casting the only dissent-

April 2 last, when the "bone dry" prohibition law took effect. The constitutionality of the law had been disputed in the courts before that date, but, pending the decision, the law became effective.

The decision which reverses one siven by a county court.

The trifling expense of this effort, trifling in comparison with the result to be attained, is in every proper sense an investment.

Mayor Bowman, than whom there is no more patriotic or sensible citizent in Harrisburg, has said, 'This is our first reception to the foreigners, to show that they are welcome among yus. Whatever we spend on this reception will be cheap from the standpoint of a national investment, and will inevitably come back to the colored Kinghts of Pythias.

subscriptions, and in contributions to the Red Cross an dthe Y. M. C. A. "The cost of the day's celebration, less by far than the town usually spends for futile fireworks; less than half what it will spend on the same day for tobacco burned and chewed; not as much as it usually spends on soda water and movies, amounts to barely 10 cents per person for the 100,000 people who will thus have opportunity to show that they value patriotic expression to the extent of a bag of peanuts.

"The money for this parade has been cheerfully given, and by persons and organizations who have been most generous to all other causes relating to the war. They believe, as all must believe when the facts come to be understood, that expression, patriotism loses its force.

Show Splendid Spirit
"The finance committee has provided enough money to see that the procession is kept in cheerful marching condition through the presence of sufficient bands, to serve also the great evening meeting." It is a tine thing to note the first council the serve also the colored laborers, who will have their own band. The men will wear semimilitary uniform, including khait shirt and trousers.
