inder engine, the first to be built commercially on this side of the At-lantic. Throughout this entire period, the characteristics and prin-ciples of this construction have been faithfully retained. Broader exper-lence and increased knowledge have led to the refinements and advance-ments which have been noted from time to time. In adhering for another year to its present type and present models, used parts, tires and so on. The the Cadillac Company is following a policy of long standing. This is to adopt a principle or a type only after the engineers have satisfied themselves completely of its sound-ness, and thereafter to develop it seadily to the highest possible

Many motorists have assumed that they are getting. "satisfaction" because they are driving what is sup-posed to be a "Good Car."

Your idea of real motoring satisfaction will probably change considerably when you first drive your CADILLAC.

Power unlimited, comfort undreamed of, reliability such as no other car can give. That's the CADILLAC.
