

JOHN SANDERS
LOSES HIS JOB

New Oxford Policeman Said to Have Exceeded His Authority and Is Fired

New Oxford, Pa., July 2.—By waging war against automobile speeders through the borough, Policeman John Sanders has gotten in bad with the borough officials and has been dismissed from the force. On Sunday and Sunday afternoons the officer stationed himself along the highway and took the numbers of all the machines that passed which were exceeding the speed limit. Some of them went too fast for him to get the numbers with the naked eye and for these he had provided himself with a pair of field glasses. The numbers of seventy-five cars were taken and these were turned over to a justice of the peace, who was to collect a fine of ten dollars and four dollars costs from each one of the offenders. Then Burgess Cashman steps in and says the officer was not ordered by himself or the council to war on speeders, but that he was employed to perform his duties under the supervision of the burgess, and removed the officer from office.

New Oxford Unfurls Flags; Ceremonies and Parade

New Oxford, July 5.—This town celebrated Independence day in royal style, the occasion being the dedication of the new flag pole and the floating of the breeze of a new silk flag, the gift of Joseph H.
Himes, of Canton, Ohio, a former resident. Six bands, a battalion of tankers from Camp Colt, Gettysburg, the Red Cross organization, the school children of the town, the patriotic and secret organizations and others took part in the big parade. At the same time the United States flag was raised to the top of one the hundred-foot pole, the F.
O. S. of A. Camp presented a service flag and flung it beneath Old Glory, the stars, representing New Oxford's contribution in young men to the country. The entire cost of the gala occasion with the exception of the service flag was borne by Mr.
Himes, who was one of the town's young men of just a few years ago and whose people will reside here.

RATTLESNAKE BELT
FOR PERSHING
Benton, Pa., July 5.—What is believed to be the largest rattler ever killed in the North Mountain, where many snakes abound, was slain by Walter Travelette. It was four feet long, as thick around as a man's arm and had seventeen rattles and a button. Travelette will tan the skin, and make it into a belt which he says he will sell to General Pershing.

ica's most fashionable ready-to-wear place us in position to provide for our clientele modes that are in advance.

And as it is necessary for us to have complete openings to start the season or set apart a day to show new models. New models are constantly arriving.

Many new and original creations in women's and misses' ready-to-wear for early Fall are here, moderately priced. Since it is necessary to pay high prices in stores where are shown only a few
