

MORE ACTIVITY DUE IN REALTY

Harrisburg May Have One of the Busiest Autumns in Its History This Year

Real estate not only in Harrisburg, but in the suburban sections which are grouped as the "capital district" has gone through a period of activity as marked as it was unexpected in some quarters during the first half of the year and there is every sign that more money "will go into ground" to use an old expression, in the next six months. The stimulation of industries in this community engaged in manufacture of what are classed as munitions and the speeding up of transportation completed what had been started by Capitol Park extension and although many Themed were munitions people who feared that there is a demand for homes far in excess of a year ago. One of the interesting facts in connection with the buying of properties is that not only are houses in demand, but there is purchase of unimproved tracts for future development. Recent purchases in the business part of the city establish the permanence of the central section as the locality where affairs will center. There were no people who feared that Capitol Park extension would drive the heart of things uptown. Uptown will have half a dozen centers of its own, just as three or four are now developing in the Hill section. In the next few months our people will see buying which will result when times are normal in residential sections being created blocks beyond the present limits of the "built up" Hill that time every house that becomes vacant will have a dozen applicants and properties will be sold at figures which would have caused astonishment at this time in 1916.

MARKETS

By Associated Press
New York, July 6.—Wall Street.—Nominal and irregular changes were recorded at the listless opening of today's stock market, leaders showing no decided tone. Dealings were of the usual week-end character, including the settlement of outstanding contracts for both accounts. Equipments developed firmness, but shipments and oils yielded substantial fractions, while rails again were ignored. Liberty Bonds held steady.
