"Hit-the-Trail Holliday," at the Regent to-day and to-morrow, brings forth George M. Co-Hit-the-Trail Han in the role of Holliday, "at "Billy" Holliday, the the Regent champion drink-mixer of the world, behind a New York bat. "Billy" has made his reputation by playing the game square and he will not sell liquor to minors. One day he refuses several boys something to drink and is discharged for doing so. With his aged mother, he goes to the country in search of an goes to the country in the cou

Theda Bara, in the role of a gently bred Spanish girl, who fights to save the life of her American sweetheart, is the imulative of the Yoke." Which was shown yesterday as the stellar attraction of the program at the Victoria Theater, and will be shown again to-day and to-morrow.

Departing for the time from the delineation of the vampire roles that made her famous, Miss Bara gives an appealing yet forceful portrayal of the fight of a woman for the man she loves. The scene of the nicture is laid in the Philippines in the early days of American occupation.

The picture is, beyond doubt, one of the best in which the William Fox star has been seen.

Don't think that because the Harry P. Krivit Musical Comedy Company is playing the third week of their engagement at the Park that they Park Theater that they produces a new show and a. Seymour Brown presents a brandnew line of catchy musical numbers for the bill.

And the best part of it is that every new show seems better than its predecessor. This week the Krivit Company is playing a one-act musical comedy entitled, "Pardon Me." "Pardon Me" af a farce comedy, with a wonderful line of musical numbers and a little story all through that holds the interest of the audience until the grand finale.

A. Seymour Brown, in the leading role, is repeating his success of the past two weeks. This happy-golucky song writer and comedian is becoming very popular with local theater patrons. The Paxtang playhouse was completely filled when the curtain rose on "Pardon Me" last evening, and the reception given Mr. Brown and his co-players clearly showed how popular the Krivit Company has become in Harrisburg.
