STEELTON CASE DECISION GIVEN

Compensation Board Lays Because of Insufficient Data Down Principle Regarding Compensation Amendments

The State Compensation Board in Bethlehem Steel Company, a Steel-ton case, holds that the board "has Bethlehem Steel Company, a Steelton case, holds that the board "has authority to permit an amended claim petition to be filed when, in its discretion, the facts warrant such action," but also says, "This board will not entertain dilatory motions nor be much influenced by technicalities raised in the pleadings, but will rather be governed by a desire to get all of the facts upon which a proper judgment may be based." The board refused to change the action of Referee Cummings in disallowing compensation, holding there was no proof of accidental injury.

The board fias also ruled in Williams vs. Lackawanna Railroad that there can be no compensation for disability due to miners' asthma because it is an occupational disease, while in allowing compensation in the case of Schatzle vs. Lehigh Valley Railroad, it is declared "the defense of interstate commerce offered by defendants for the purpose of denying compensation to the dependants of men killed in occupation must be established by substantive evidence."
