Senators Quiz Western Union Head Three Hours, Then Endorse House Action

Washington, D. C., July 10.—After a three-hour examination of Newcomb Carlton, president of the Western Union Telegraph Company, the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee yesterday, voted 7 to 3 to report without amendment or further hearings the House resolution authorizing Government control during the war of telegraph, telephone, cable and radio systems.

Chairman Smith is undecided whether to urge immediate consideration and thus replace the $11,000,000 emergency appropriation bill with its war-time prohibition rider. While expecting a bitter contest, Senate leaders believe a vote can be reported soon and that further hearings will not be ordered in view of the President's insistence that early action be taken.

Cartoon Protests Mildly

While President Carlton took the position that advisability of the pending legislation was doubtful, according to committee members, he did not vigorously protest against enactment of the House resolution. He pointed out difficulties attending Government operation and some of the members said they gathered that he regarded Government control as unnecessary and believed his company could successfully cope with labor difficulties. The Western Union's capitalization, bonded debt, physical valuation and other statistics were presented to the committee. President Carlton was said to have insisted that if the Government takes over the company's lines, ample provision should be made for protection of stockholders' interests.

Necessity For Saving Fuel Outlined by State Expert

The necessity for the utmost conservation of coal in order to save the city from a serious shortage, was emphasized by E. C. Coe, state conservation expert, and T. B. Wilcox, Federal director of conservation, at a conference of the heads of the light, power and railway companies and the fuel administrator yesterday.

PEACE AND GUNS WILL BE TAKEN TO AID RUSSIA

American Businessmen to Go With Material Aid and Take Armed Guard Along

Washington, July 10.—Entente governments, through their embassies in Washington, are now fully advised of the views of the Washington administration as to the best means of carrying out President Wilson's pledge to "stand behind Russia." It is understood that a project is taking shape which it is hoped will counteract German influence and lead the people to rehabilitate themselves without exciting distrust of the unselfish motives which lie behind it.

While an official statement of the administration's policy still is withheld, there is reason to believe that the proposal to send American businessmen to Russia to carry material aid to the people, with armed guards to insure the safety of the personnel and supplies from German aggression, is forming the basis of the negotiations now proceeding with unusual rapidity between Washington and the entente capitals.

Entente Won to Milder Means

This measure is far short of the original desires of the entente government, which frankly favored the dispatch into Siberia and perhaps into European Russia through the Archangel or Kola route, of a joint military expedition. But it is believed that in the absence of full American approval of this plan the entente powers have been brought to at least sanction the experiment of peaceful penetration and that negotiations are now in progress to allay any suspicion on the part of the United States.

CITY TO CELEBRATE FALL OF BASTILE AT RESERVOIR PARK

Prominent Speakers Will Address Big Gathering in Natural Auditorium at Reservoir in the Afternoon

Harrisburg in announcing that it will next Sunday join in the worldwide observance of the 129th anniversary of the Fall of the Bastille again sets the pace for the cities of Pennsylvania. Since the beginning of the war the capital of the Keystone state has been foremost in its patriotic endeavors, and next Sunday's city-wide observance will be par with what has gone before.

The Bastille for hundreds of years stood for the right of might. Originally only a pair of small towers erected in the so-called Dark Ages on the banks of the Seine, it received many additions until finally it became a citadel of absolutism. It stood on the Faubourg St. Antoine, which was lined with the palaces of the rich and privileged classes who detested the protection which the Bastille afforded against possible onslaughts by the masses.

It was first a fortress, but finally became a prison where hundreds of thousands of men were crowded together in squalid conditions. The Bastille represented the whims of tyrants as opposed to the just decisions of the courts. Prisoners of state were thrown into its dungeons without process of law. The only warrant for their detention was a letter of cachet, bearing the seal of the sovereign. Frequent attempts had been made to free the prisoners. The schemes of wily politicians, the petty revenges of royal favorites who had been disgraced, and the intrigues of a man and many a woman to be lost to the world of the living.

The mysterious prisoner, "The Man With the Ivory comb," who suffered for years in one of the towers; the infamous Balue, who suffered in a cruel cage of his own invention; the Duke de Nemours, condemned to death for having killed the human Louis XI; Cagliostro, champion charlatan of Europe; the knaves who fleeced the diamond necklace which Dubarry wore; the hundreds of victims of the craft of Richelieu and Mazarin were among those brought to book.

Prussian Intrigue

The common people in the Eighteenth century, had begun to pray for justice; and they struggled for the rights of man as against a despotic and extravagant court. They were sustained by the great thinkers of the time. Teutonic influences at the court of Versailles are declared to have been the cause of their prayers. Louis XVI, weak, irresolute, was under the domination of his queen, Marie Antoinette, a daughter of the House of Austria. The French army, the sympathy of the French people and that of the courts of Vienna and Berlin brought German mercenary troops into France.

On all highways," says Carlyle, "there hovered dust clouds, with the march of regiments, with the trailing of cannon; foreign Pandours of the French army, the queen's influence and that of the courts of Vienna and Berlin brought German mercenary troops into France. The French army, the sympathy of the French people and that of the courts of Vienna and Berlin brought German mercenary troops into France.

THE WALLS YIELD

The walls of the Bastille yielded to the onslaughts of the wreckers, but the spirit which the Bastille represented was kept alive through the interference of the French Guard under arrest in barracks; regiment after regiment of Boche hirelings were aligned to the Field of Mars. All were of no avail in the storm which swept over Paris and on to the Bastille, which fell before the attack of the enraged people. Within a few months the crime-steeped pile had been demolished; and in its stead stands a column upon which are recorded the deeds done on July 14, 1789.

Hun Agents Flock to Jassy, Moldavian Capital, Thrust Industry on City

By Associated Press

Paris, July 10.—There has been an influx of German commercial agents and businessmen into Jassy, the little Moldavian capital. Five new moving picture theaters have been opened and many retail establishments reopened, but with extremely slender stocks.

There are forty to fifty German military officers in Jassy, seeing that the Rumanian army is properly demoralized, and they are gradually preparing the people for complete German domination. The German officers are losing no chance to create a friendly feeling among the Rumanian military, German majors and even colonels invariably saluting Rumanian officers, oftentimes when the latter are merely subalterns.

Reserve Officers Get Commissions

Washington, July 10.—Appointments in the officers' reserve corps and National Army announced yesterday include the following Pennsylvanians: Second lieutenant, engineer reserve corps—John D. Sieber, Philadelphia. Captain, medical reserve corps—Thomas Evans, Jr., Pittsburgh, and Joseph Leot Gallagher, Steelton.

Workmen's League Comes to Jitney-men's Aid

Claiming that "again the Harrisburg Railways Company impugns the authority of the city to conduct its affairs under the law," the Workmen's League has entered the arena on the side of the Harrisburg Jitney-men in the fight on them by the traction company.

The organization has addressed a letter to Mayor Keister asking that Jitney-men be given a fair deal and that the City Solicitor be sent before the Public Service Commission in the hearing. They maintain that the act giving power to any City Council to regulate the use of jitneys within its environs was passed two years following the passage of the act which granted similar powers to the Public Service Commission. They point out that the Jitney-men have been granted permission under the last act to operate for two years in Harrisburg. The Jitney-men believe that it is beyond the power of the commission to pass upon the matter.

PEACH CROP MAY FALL AWAY DOWN

State Reports Show That It Does Not Amount to Much; Some Other Figures

Pennsylvania's peach crop of 1918 is estimated at 1,251,000 bushels and the apple crop at 16,140,000 bushels by the State Agricultural Department statisticians, who have been getting reports on the fruit prospects. The peach crop is declared to be close to a record, amounting to 993,000 pounds, with 440,000 gallons of syrup taken from 1,250,000 trees. The number of trees tallied is 100,000 ahead of last year, and the sugar is 5,000 pounds greater, with a big increase in the syrup. The value of the crop is greater than ever known before owing to the scarcity of sugar.
