

KUEHLMANN FALL PLOTTED BY HUN MILITARY PACT

Regarded as Wedge to Open Pan-German Regime Under Army Control

By Associated Press
 London, July 11.—The fall of Foreign Secretary Von Kuehlmann was arranged by German army headquarters and is regarded in Germany as the introduction of an open pan-German regime under the control of the military leaders, dispatches from Holland say. It is described as the biggest of a series of pan-German victories.

Van Hintze Pan-German
 Reports of the appointment of Admiral Von Hintze as Foreign Secretary are accepted as final by the pan-German papers which contend this involves no change of policy. This contention, however, as well as the assurance that Von Hintze is not a pan-German, is false, according to the correspondent of the Daily Telegraph. Von

SWISS PUT BIGGER HOLES IN CHEESE

New York, July 11.—One of the ways the Swiss are practicing economy is by making the holes in their famous cheese larger, according to John W. Leggett, of Detroit, who had been in Switzerland and reached an American port yesterday on a French liner. He also said that sugar is so scarce in Switzerland that what there is of it is mixed in water before being used to sweeten coffee.

Hintze is described by him as a snobbish and an intimate and creature of Admiral Von Tirpitz, the pan-German leader.

Appointment Causes Excitement
 Much excitement was caused in the corridors of the Reichstag on Tuesday by a rumor that Von Hintze had been appointed Foreign Secretary. After the Socialists had informed the president they were not prepared to vote the war credit until they knew what foreign policy Von Hintze was going to pursue it was agreed, as a way out of a threatening situation which possibly would result from the majority Socialists joining the minority group in rejecting the war credit, that the full sitting should be adjourned so the house could go into committee for a confidential discussion.

The result of this gathering was that the semiformal announcement of Von Hintze's appointment took a tentative form, merely saying he had been "named" as Von Kuehlmann's successor.

LOCAL GIRL APPOINTED

STEELTON NEWS ITEMS

PLANT BENEFITED BY COOL WEATHER

Six Furnaces Running in Full Blast; New Records Expected

The Steelton plant of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation is among those of the many steel plants throughout the country which are helped by the cool weather to make an unexpectedly good response to the call for war steel. With six furnaces running in full blast and the use of a large amount of coke produced by the new battery of coke ovens which were placed into use this week, the local plant should surpass all records in the coming months.

Commenting on the steel industry the Iron Age to-day says: "The steel industry, helped by cool weather, continues to make an unexpectedly good response to the call for war steel. At a number of coke works and steel mills employees kept at work on July 4 in response to government appeals. Due to the good stocks of finished steel various manufacturing consumers had on hand and the efforts at Washington to prevent drastic curtailments, shut-downs for lack of iron and steel have been rare in metalworking lines. However, this week, like others, has brought fresh warnings of impending restrictions."

"Recently signs have increased of a better morale at iron and steel works, the stimulus to ship production having apparently worked back to raw material sources. The conferences of steel manufacturers and a special price-fixing committee at Washington July 3 brought disagreement on all the products considered. On rails the makers themselves were at odds. The $57 price for open hearth rails, which some sales have been made this year, was favored by large interests, while others held out for $60. Government representatives proposed a figure much lower than either. The steel makers will meet July 15 in New York in an effort to agree among themselves."

Highspire Man Killed Working at Steel Plant
 Harry Dayhoff, of Highspire, an employe of the Steelton and Highspire Railroad, was instantly killed last night when run down by a train of cars while at work. It was brought out at an investigation, conducted by Coroner Eckinger, that Dayhoff had turned a switch and signaled the engineer to move the train. It is believed that after Dayhoff gave the signal he fell across the tracks. His body was cut in two by the train. He was a widely-known Highspire resident and is survived by his wife and several children.

Rudy was arrested by Patrolman Behman and placed in the borough lockup. Davis said the fight took place near "murderer's row" in South Third street.

FAILS TO PAY ALIMONY OR GROW BEANS; JAIL
 Detroit—Fred Butzin's patriotism did not amount to a "hill of beans" and therefore he must serve 30 days in the county jail. Butzin appeared before Judge Collins in circuit court to explain why he had not paid his divorced wife $355 in back alimony. Butzin is a farmer.

"What have you planted?" asked the court.
 "Corn and oats," was the answer.
 "Nothing for the army, no beans?" asked the court.
 "No," answered Butzin, "the stuff is for my cows and horses."
 "You better go to jail for 30 days and think it over," was the court's ruling. He is already under bond for $55 of the back alimony at once.

CAPTAIN ROUVIER TO SPEAK HERE

Rouvier displayed unusual brilliance and valor and was advanced to a captaincy. He is the youngest officer on the staff of the French High Commission, being twenty-five years of age. Captain Rouvier will wear his uniform as a captain of French infantry.

President Patterson, of the Chamber of Commerce, has mailed letters to all Harrisburg clergymen relative to next Sunday's observance, asking that they call attention to it in their sermon or special address to the day and its meaning. He also suggests that the French tricolor be displayed in the churches; and that members of the congregations attend the mass meeting at Reservoir Park.

Music a Feature
 Music will be a feature of the park observance, and for this reason John Fox Weiss, assistant counsel for the Public Service Commission, has urged that all Harrisburg singers be present. A band will assist the singers, as well as render an extensive musical program of its own.

Abner W. Hartman, well known because of his success in putting "rump" into community songsters, will be in charge of the park singing. Song sheets will be distributed in the audience. Four numbers will be sung—"Marseilles," "Star Spangled Banner," "America," and "Onward, Christian Soldiers."

Mr. Weiss is urgent in his request that patriotic men and women singers of Harrisburg join in the big chorus which is to lead the parade on Sunday afternoon.

Bishop Presents Crucifix

When Archbishop Dougherty reached the Cathedral door, the procession halted. Bishop John J. McCort, who has been administrator for the diocese since the death of Archbishop Prendergast, presented the new prelate with a crucifix. He knelt and kissed it. When he arose the new archbishop was given an aspergillum containing holy water. He anointed himself and those around him. A thurible was brought, and the archbishop filled it with incense. He blessed it. He was incensed then by Bishop McCort.

Cardinal Yields Throne

Cardinal Gibbons solemnly yielded the archiepiscopal throne to the new prelate and inducted the new archbishop. Solemn pontifical mass followed, and the archbishop stood at the altar rail with the officers of the mass, who were the Rev. William T. McNally, the Rev. Thomas F. McNally and Henry McCormick.

Music is Impressive Feature

An impressive feature of the service was the music, sung by a choir of priests and a selected chorus composed of eighty students of the Overbrook Seminary. The chorus, directed by the Rev. Dr. James A. Boylan, of the seminary faculty, sang the "Kyrie," "Sanctus," "Benedictus" and "Agnus Dei." The "Agnus Dei" was sung by the Rev. William P. Kane, of the Church of Our Mother of Sorrows.

NEW ARCHBISHOP OF PENNSYLVANIA ASSUMES OFFICE

Solemn Ceremony Witnessed by Thousands Yesterday in Philadelphia Cathedral

Philadelphia, July 11.—The Most Rev. D. J. Dougherty was enthroned yesterday as archbishop of Philadelphia in the Cathedral of St. Peter and Paul. In the ceremony there was all the high and exalted solemnity that marks the ritual of the Catholic Church. Nearly 3,000 persons crowded the Cathedral and knelt humbly outside the doors during the mighty sweep of prayer and music that forms the solemn pontifical mass.

There were men of national prominence among the worshipers, as well as prelates from every part of the country. Mayor Smith attended, and many prominent society people were present.

The honored visitors of the day who were crushed into the pews somehow were the 500 who came from Schuylkill county, where the archbishop spent his boyhood in days less scarcity, and more especially the residents of Girardville, Pa., where the prelate was born.

It was a matter of great disappointment to the archbishop that his mother, who is 88 years old, was too ill to attend the installation. Sitting in the front pews, however, were his four sisters and two brothers, who watched the ceremony intently.

Cardinal Gibbons Inducts

Cardinal Gibbons, frail bent, white-haired under his brilliant biretta and lifted triumphantly by a fraternal spirit under the weight of his robes, formally inducted the new prelate into office. The successor to the Most Reverend Edmund F. Prendergast is fourth archbishop of the diocese, and is to reside on the see of Philadelphia, which is regarded as among the largest and most important in the country.

Shortly before 10 o'clock, the hour set for the enthronement, the procession came from the Cathedral Chapel in Summer street, crossed Eighteenth street and walked slowly around the lower paths of Logan Square.

The colored vestments shone against the background of young grass and foliage, and the sun struck darning lights from the golden crosses.

Archbishop Dougherty was a commanding figure that radiated splendor. All the varied beauty of the other ecclesiastics was dimly behind the gleaming cope made of cloth-of-gold that enveloped the prelate's entire figure. Upon his head was a "mitre" made also of cloth-of-gold, and lined with vivid red. He bore in his hand a crozier, rounded at the top like a shepherd's crook, and the staff is literally significant of the new office, the archbishop has assumed over some 800,000 Catholics and 800 priests for whom, by virtue of the token, he is "leader of the flock."

U. S. WITHHOLDS TROOP FIGURES AS PRECAUTION

Men Sent to France, Baker Says

Washington, July 11.—The number of American troops transported to France no longer will be announced by the War Department, Secretary Baker said yesterday. His decision caused surprise, as for several months approximate figures have been furnished, and lately this has taken the form of weekly announcements by General March, Chief of Staff. These culminated in the official statement of Secretary Baker, issued just before July 4, that 1,000,000 men had sailed overseas and giving the number transported each month.

While no specific reason was given for the change in policy, Secretary Baker said that it should by no means be taken to imply that there was to be any reduction in the number of troops being dispatched. Mr. Baker said that possibly at some time in the future a statement might be made indicating approximately the number of soldiers in France, but it is likely that this will not be for several months, if then.

None of the other belligerents has followed the practice of indicating even roughly the troops it had, on the theory that this is information of great value to the enemy. Reports from Germany have shown pretty conclusively that until the official announcements the Germans had only the wildest notion of the total strength of the expeditionary force and had been inclined greatly to minimize it. Even now the German newspapers are trying to convince their readers that Mr. Baker's statement was a case of gross exaggeration.

The fact that the contracts from the British and French transports which have been helping to carry American troops are about to expire may have something to do with the War Department's change in policy. It is believed new schedules for troop movements are in preparation and a readjustment of shipping facilities is under way. American ships, of which there is now a steadily growing number, will in some cases be substituted for the British and French transports employed in the last few months.
