VOLOGDA AGAIN IN LIMELIGHT

FRIDAY EVENING,

Once One of the Most Important Cities in Russia-Takes on New Life

Ru-sia-The German drive and the peace treaty signed by the Bolsheviki have brought back to Vologda some of the importance which it had in the days of Peter

When the American Ambassador David R. Francis, selected Vologda for the site of his embassy to Russia during the period when Petrograd was threatened by German oc-sia during the period when Petrograd was threatened by German occupation, the little city took on new life.

Prices of foodstuffs soared, and as more and more Americans came to the city, rooms were at such a premium that some members of the embassy staff were forced to use for several weeks the train berths as sleeping quarters.

The only quarters which could be found by Consul Treadwell for the American consulate were rooms in a huge barn-like hotel, known as the Hermitage, which was full of German prisoners and Russian soldiers.

The consulate's room was just across the hall from the German prisoners' headquarters, but some of these prisoners apparently did not know America was in the war. Some of them came into the consulate the first day it opened and asked if the Americans were still handling the matter of prisoners' relief.

The embassy was made welcome and a huge wooden structure formerly used as a merchants' club was turned over for its use.

Vologda, in the days of Peter the Great, was one of the most important cities in Russia. It is the head of navigation of the Vologda River, which empties into the Arctic at Archangel, and for centuries the ships of the European traders sent their cargoes into Russia by this route.

their cargoes into Russia by this route.

Peter the Great lived in Volagda for several years and built here the nucleus of the first first Russian Navy. After the building of Petrograd, Vologda lost most of its importance, though river steamers still ply between here and Archangel.

Vologda is the junction of the Vladivostok-Petrograd and the Archangel-Moscow Railway lines and was selected as the embassy site because of its transportation conveniences.

Country to Succor Sightless Soldiers

New York, — Preparations under the direction of the United States Army authorities to care for all American soldiers and sailors who will be blind in the war have been made. The plan of the Government which will be carried out under the direct supervision of Colonel James Bordley, of the Surgeon-General's departmen, is to bring the American blinded soldiers and sailors to this country as soon as possible after they are blinded. They will then be reducated on the ninety-acre estate of Mrs. T. Harrison Garrett, of Baltimore, which has been donated for this purpose and refitted to represent a complete training school, including workrooms, gymnasium, swimming pool and the necessary recreation equipment. eluding workrooms, gymnasium, swimming pool and the necessary reciuding workrooms, gymnasium, swimming pool and the necessary recreation equipment.

Here the blinded soldiers will undergo a course of careful and wise training along lines which have been successful at St. Dunstan's Hostelfor the blind in London, and a various institution of the American-British-French-Belgian Permanent Blind Relief War Fund in France, so as to fit them to earn their own living as private citizens at some lucrative trade. This training will embrace all the trades and professions to which experience has shown blind persons are adapted, such as broom, mat, mattress and basket making, rag, and carpet-weaving, telephone and telegraph operation, including wireless, piano-tuning, etc. Special attention will be given also to indoor and outdoor recreation.

When this is accomplished the Institution for the Blind, established by the Red Cross, and of which Colonel Bordley also is the head, will assume the care of the blinded soldiers for the rest of their lives. Toward the maintenance of this Institution, the American-British-French-Belgian Permanent Blind Relief War Fund has subscribed $100,000, to be known as the American Permanent Blind Relief War Fund Foundation. This amount will be continuously supplemented by substantial contributions from the money collected by this Fund.

The work of the Institute for the Blind will consist of equipping the

The work of the Institute for the blinded soldiers with tools and materials to carry on the trades they have mastered, establishing labor exchanges for the marketing of their products, and giving the proper supervision to maintain a standard of excellence in the goods they manufacture. The scope of the work is vast and includes also the looking after the families of the blinded soldiers as far as necessary. It is one of the many reconstructive plans inaugurated as a war measure, which will result in permanent and farreaching benefit, not alone to the battle-blinded, but to the great number of those who have suffered this afflicted through other gauses as well.

Gives Up Pigeon Farm To Save Wheat For Allies

Junction City, Kan.—Because of the war E. D. Zellner, of Junction City, is giving up one of the most unique and profitable businesses in the city. Mr. Zellner for years has owned one of the biggest pigeon farms in the state, raising squabs for the Chicago and New York markets, where they commanded one dolar each. However, the pigeons would thrive on nothing but wheat, and Mr. Zellner's †rain bill ran from $60 to $150 a month. Rather than feed wheat to pigeons, when it is needed so badly for the Allies. Mr. Zellner is closing out his business and has shipped one lot of 1000 homers to Boston by express. The cost of transportation was five cents each.

MAY EXTRACT POTASH FROM DUST OF CEMENT

Pittsburgh — Extraction of potash from the dust from cement manufacture is claimed as a possibility. James D. Rhodes, a Pittsburgh manufacturer, claims to have made the discovery, and at his own expense has arranged to erect a large experimental plant adjoining the plant of a cement company, at Castalla, Ohio, for the purpose of experimenting for 120 days. The Castalla plant is in the hands of a receiver and it was necessary to get permission of the United States District Court, before Mr. Rhodes could enter into any agreement with the receivers. This was granted.
