YANKEE BLOWS SEND HUNS INTO RETREAT

the bridges.

Build Bridges Rapidly
Six of these bridges formed a lattice work and rapidly joined the banks on either side. Two of the bridges were most substantial structures and between twenty and thirty feet in width.

French airplanes played great havoc in the German ranks while the bridges were under construction. One bombing squadron, flying at a height of 200 meters, dropped bonbs on two of these bridges while enemy troops were crossing. The enemy troops were crossing. The bridges were broken and the soldier thrown into the river.

Aviators Do Good Execution

Aviators Do Good Execution

The aviators constantly bombed the other bridges and did great execution among the Germans on the bridges as well as on the banks where the enemy was concentrated in great numbers.

When the Germans had crossed the river the fighting which already was heavy became terrific. The French and Americans, holding the southern side, fell back into their principal combat positions. They fought all the way and counterattacked occasionally, creating confusion in the ranks of the advancing foe.

Then, late in the evening, the Americans started a dashing counter blow which resulted in the Germans retiring pell mell to the river.

The impression of the results of the first day's battle in the new German smash on the French front is very good.

Very good.

Nowhere along the stretch of many miles did the enemy succeed in penetrating more than 4,000 yards and that was only on a small sector in the neighborhood of Marfaux, southwest of Rheims, although orders found on German prisoners announced that the first day should take them twenty kilometers from the front line of departure.

the enemy did not even get be-yond the advanced line, the invin-cible resistance of the French troops preventing him from attaining the main combat line. With the French on the section west of Rheims fought American and Italian troops, both of whom vied with the other allies in keenness and 'courage.

SOVIET ENEMIES BURIAN SEES NO PUSH AHEAD FOR SIBERIAN POWER

Finnish People Changing Atti- Austro-Hungarian Foreign tude Toward Hun-Controlled Government

Washington, July 16.—Although overshadowed by the tremendous developments on the western front the situation in Russia and Siberia is daily presenting ne wphases. At no less than three widely separated points have the opposition to the Soviet government greatly strengthened their positions, thus heavily taxing the inadequate military machine of the Bolsheviki.

On the shores of the Arctic and White seas, the small international entente force which has been holding the railroad terminus at Kola and Murmansk has been considerably reinforced and is understood to be advancing southward along the railroad towards Vologda and Moscow It is admitted officially that there are some American sailors and marines in the neighborhood of Kola, but it is doubted whether, in the absence of special instructions, they would participate in this southward movement unless it were necessary as a defensive measure.

Finnish People Change Tune

unless it were necessary as a defensive measure.

Finnish People Change Tune
Reports from reliable sources in Sweden indicate a surprising change of sentiment among the Finnish people toward their German controlled government, making it impossible for that government to raise any volunteer troops to attack the entente forces on the line of the Kola-Moscow railroad. This has greatly relieved the minds of officials who realize that this railroad could be held only by a very large force if attacked from Finland. Cutting off communication in that way would greatly endanger the position of the entente forces on the Murmansk coast when winter comes.

With Finland virtually neutral, and the local population in the Murmansk country coming to the aid of the entente forces it is believed that the allies now arereasonably sure of being able to maintain a channel of communication with Central Russia and Siberia against any German attack.

Entente Ignore the Bolsheviks

Entente Ignore the Bolsheviks The protest of the Lenine govern The protest of the Lenine government against the entente operations in the north is believed to have been a mere formality, made possibly to satisfy the Germans who are endeavoring to control the Bolshevik government. Officials say that it will not be entertained because the entente does not recognize the Bolshevik as the real government of Russia and persists in regarding that nation as still in the war on the side of the entente, regardless of the peace treaty of Brest Litovsk.
