Barney Oldfield Drives Last Race At Uniontown Today, Meeting Durray

Uniontown, Pa., was put on the map again today with the international championship match automobile race between Barney Oldfield, of Los Angeles, and Arthur Durray, of Rheims, France.

The "Old Master" will be his last race. The old master was not keen for this hair-raising race. "I am not going to risk my title," said he.

Oldfield finally weakened and agreed to the match. He stipulated that the race should be for a side bet of $2,500 each, and this money was posted with the speedway management.

Durray is happy that the match was arranged. He will drive a powerful Frontenac car. Louis Chevrolet, though he is a stranger to the Uniontown crowd, will be the man to take Barney's measure.

Next in importance scheduled is the 100-lap derby which is an awful grind as any one knows who ever saw the stunt. In this Oldfield will be the last half of the twenty-first inning with a scratch infield hit, beating a slow runner to Hemingway.

Marvelous pitching, fine fielding and plenty of hitting marked a notable ball game yesterday at Chicago, where the Cubs beat the Phillies, 2-1, in twenty-one innings.

The National League extra-inning record was established in 1917, when Chicago and Pittsburgh went twenty-two innings.
