

LABOR SHORTAGE DOES NOT RETARD CITY PARK WORK

Workmen Are Busy at Island, River Front, Wildwood and Reservoir

Although the shortage of labor is proving a handicap in important park maintenance work this summer it has failed to interfere greatly with the usual midsummer activities, workmen being kept busy at the island, along the River Front and in Wildwood and Reservoir parks.

Front street in the park is the laying of hundreds of feet of gravel walk. Here the need for men and delay in getting materials as fast as they were needed held back the work for weeks but it will soon be finished. Many loads of cinder and crushed stone have been used to make this permanent pathway along the edge of the river slope looking out over the broad stretch of the Susquehanna. Each summer during heavy rains the path was damaged by the wash of the water but now it has been constructed with a small angle toward the street level so that the water can drain quickly.

Park Commissioner E. Z. Gross has issued warnings to owners of automobiles who are storing them during the day in the park at Front and Paxton streets and damaging the lawn. At Wildwood park Assistant Superintendent of Parks V. Grant Forrer has men engaged in clearing the winding paths through the woods and in keeping the roadway in repair. Recently it was necessary to clean the pipes to one of the springs in the park which furnishes water for the large picnic grounds. Other road repair work and training of bushes and trees will require several weeks to complete.

Much favorable comment has been heard at Reservoir park where the golf links are being kept in the best of condition at all times. Two large triple mowers are used to keep the grass short and players are having little trouble in finding balls after long drives. The tennis courts also are constantly in use. Preparations for the opening of the playground season and repairs to equipment in use during the summer also require much attention. A new bathroom to be used at Seneca street is about completed and may be opened in a few days. At the city island it is planned to use a large frame building left there by the construction company which erected the Cumberland Valley railroad bridge for a carpenter shop and to store extra equipment. At present the smaller supplies used for park and playground repairs are scattered in several buildings.

Three Suits Against P. R. R., Result of Royaltan Smashup

Three damage suits have been filed against the Pennsylvania Railroad Company as a result of the grade crossing accident east of Royaltan, July 21, 1917, when Mr. and Mrs. Carroll S. Gould, and their 12-year old son, Kennard, all of this city, and a younger daughter, Caryl, and a chauffeur, seriously injured, as the result of a collision between their automobile and a train.

The actions were filed in the Dauphin county court, but no statements of claims have been reported. One suit is bought by Raymond L. Ayars, the chauffeur; the second by William E. Bailey, administrator of the Gould estate, and the third, by him for Caryl Gould, the 5-year old daughter and the only one of the Gould family to survive the accident. The collision occurred at Young's crossing.

150 MILITIAMEN WILL JOIN ARMY

Guardsmen Get First Taste of Military Life and Grow Fond of It

One hundred and fifty men and officers of the Pennsylvania Reserve Militia, encamped at Mt. Gretna will enlist in the United States Army for the war. This was brought out during the visit of Governor Brumbaugh to the camp yesterday. The men, many of them beneath the draft age, have felt the call and they are preparing to go. The taste of camp life has much increased their longing and yesterday they announced their intention of going.

The Governor will conduct the state's business from a summer resort for the larger part of the summer.

Many Queries.—The Public Service Commission has received many queries as to when some decision may be reached on the many trolley increased fare cases now before it. The commission expects to make a report in the near future, it is understood.

Seize Explosives.—Police officers are authorized by the law to seize explosives or other substances dangerous to the life and property of the community, in the opinion of the attorney general. Kun rendered to-day to the State Game Commission. The question was raised in order to ascertain the legal status of game commissioners who chance upon explosives while searching the houses of foreigners for weapons.

Troop Six Is a Very Busy Little Organization

Another star has been added to the service flag of Troop Six, Lewis Seigel, of the Eagle Patrol, enlisted in the United States Army and is the third representative of the troop to offer his service to his country. "Lew" is an all around Scout and will be missed by his troop; especially next fall as he is a valuable man on the football squad. In last year's all scout team "Lew" was chosen as "the best offensive end in Scout ranks."

For a period of eight weeks the Troop conducted an efficiency contest with points given for attendance at meeting, the wearing of the uniform, personal appearance and "good turns." The first prize won by Harry Fox was two dollars worth of Scout equipment to be chosen by the winner. The second prize won by Harry Larson, was one dollar and fifty cents worth of equipment; while the third and fourth prizes, won by John Black and Charles Peters were each one dollar in equipment. Arthur Zimmerman, leader of the Eagle Patrol, won the prize for Patrol efficiency.

The contest was well worth while and it is expected that more of its kind will inaugurate. Last Saturday a number of scouts enjoyed the fifth over-night hike held by the Troop. The party rode to Hummelstown on Saturday night cooked supper on the high bluff overlooking the Swatara Creek and prepared their camp for the night in an open field nearby. A flag pole was erected and a flag raised with due ceremonies. The camp fire was lighted and the Scouts settled down in the circle of its ruddy light to pass the evening with songs and stories. A party of visitors from Stoverdale were guests of the evening. They joined in the singing of patriotic and old favorite songs and were interested spectators of a demonstration of semaphore and international Morse signaling. Flags were used in the first and flashlights were used to transmit the letters in the Morse code.

Assistant Scoutmaster Sparrow pointed out different constellations in the heavens and related Indian legends connected with each one. It was close to midnight when the scouts rolled in their blankets and fell to sleep. A hearty breakfast on Sunday morning was followed by an hour's rest and then came a morning swim in the Swatara. The trip was voted the best yet by the members of the troop.

The second annual camp of the troop will most likely be held during the third week of August. Details will be given out at Monday night's meeting.

prisoners. Brown took charge of them all. His companions left him to "get some more Germans," and he herded his prisoners fourteen kilometers from the front and then marched them to headquarters, making a total hike of nearly twenty-five miles. "Come Out," Orders Brown "All right, come out," Brown replied between shots. One of the Germans numbering nearly a hundred, dropped their guns and surrendered. Brown and Pipp again started for the rear and encountered other members of their platoons with

SERGEANT BROWN HAS A LIVELY DAY IN WAR PROGRAM

American Officer Walks Into Headquarters With 159 German Prisoners; Four Died

With the American Army in the Champagne, July 19--After killing or capturing the crews of four machine guns and raking a German filled trench with his automatic rifle until the survivors surrendered, Sergeant J. F. Brown walked into American headquarters with 159 prisoners.

"I am sorry, sir, that I was unable to bring in all I had," he said, in reporting, "but four of the wounded died on me." Brown, separated from his platoon, encountered the captain of another company. Pointing at four enemy machine guns, the captain said, "Let's get 'em."

The pair charged the nest, seemingly impervious to the hail of bullets, and killed or captured the crews of two of the guns. The prisoners were in their way, so Brown turned them over to the captain and cleared up the other two guns alone, smashing the pieces.

The captain had started back to the American lines with his captives. Brown followed some distance in his wake. The sergeant encountered a comrade, Corporal Pipp, who volunteered to guard the prisoners. Brown rapidly accepted, as he just caught sight of a shallow section of trench half filled with dead Germans. The other half was filled with Germans, too, very much alive. Brown's rifle had become so hot

Resinol would clear her skin

"What a pity she doesn't know!" "She would be a pretty girl, if it wasn't for that pimply, blotchy complexion!" But the regular use of Resinol Soap, aided at first by a little Resinol Ointment, would probably make it clear, fresh and charming. If a poor skin is your handicap, begin using the Resinol treatment and see how quickly it improves.
