GROUSE HUNTING STOPPED IN STATE

Policy of Game Protection to Be Followed by Commission

Pennsylvania State Game Commissioners who last week closed all missioners who last week closed all hunting of the ruffed grouse for a year propose to follow up the prohibition of shooting of the great game bird by employing special game protectors during the bird season. These men will be named for counties where there are a number of grouse and where there is ordinarily hunting by many sportsmen and will be empowered to make arrests or to bring informations. Some volunteers to help protect the grouse against illegal or careless hunters have already been heard of.

This policy to protect the grouse against illegal or careless hunters have already been heard of.

This policy to protect the grouse ago as something with which it was felt the sportsmen who brought about the closing of practically all of the state to grouse would heartily support. The special men will work with regular protectors and will be on duty from October 20 to November 30.

Lehigh and Montour counties have filed their petitions to be already to the state of the state to grouse would heartily support. The special men will work with regular protectors and will be on duty from October 20 to November 30.

Lehigh and Montour counties have filed their petitions to be closed to grouse hunting and are now included in the list, but the attitude of some men in York and Adams will likely prevent any action there with the result that hunters from any other part of the state will be free to hunt grouse in those counties. Philadelphia and Delaware will not be included as they have no grouse. Steps to propagate the grouse are being taken and it is hoped to buy some of the birds as will be done with pheasants and quail. However, other states are on the same trail.

The western half of the state has been pretty thoroughly closed to quail hunting this fall, some of the counties being closed for two years, but there will be good quail hunting! Car has happily died. Vive the red in eastern counties, where the win-

The reed bird or bobolink is now protected for ten years by federal act, but there are some farmers getting mad enough to kill off blackbirds which have begun to flock before going south. In southern counties the black birds are yery numerous. And some results are yery numerous. And some results are yery numerous. are very numerous. And some re-reports tell of much destruction caused by them.

Food Crisis in History

Berne, Via London, July 22.—The most critical food situation yet experienced is now faced by Austria. Bakers are demanding an increase in the price of bread to twenty cents a loaf. Flour is unobtainable at any price and it has been impossible to obtain vegetables in the big cities since June 15.

The Austrian food situation is worse than that in hunger-stricken Turkey, declares the Vorwaerts.

Fry Gets a Treat—Howard W. Fry, chief clerk of the State Highway Department left Saturday morning for a three-weeks' vacation, which will be the first he has taken in the entire four and a half years that he has been connected with the department. A portion of the time will be spent at Atlantic coast resorts.

Huntingdon's Record—Every second-class township in Huntingdon county will receive a portion of the 1911 cash road tax bonus, which will be distributed among them during the year, having filed all necessary papers with the Bureau of Township Highways, of the State Highway Department. State Highway Commissioner J. Denny O'Neil has certified amounts totaling $12,227.73 for distribution to the townships, and this money may be spent by the supervisors for various road and bridge improvement purposes.

Jefferson county will get $11,572.27 having 1284 miles of road and Laurence county $9,508.40.

The commission in a statement says:

"The decision recognizes that changes in conditions require changes in rates and that the rates fixed by municipal ordinances, many of which are perpetual, may at a later date be found to be higher than the public should be compelled to pay, or lower than the company should receive in order to maintain its property, so as to be able at all times to render the service to which the public is entitled. The ability of the company to make extensions and improvements is so dependent upon the public is entitled. The ability of the company to make extensions and improvements is so dependent upon the return which it is entitled to receive that the regulation of each much be placed in one body and the Legislature has designated the Public Service Commission as this body. The power of the commission to regulate rates will also result in eliminating discriminations which are bound to exist where rates are fixed by a number of municipalities, all served by one street railway system. The street railway business has so developed that large numbers of municipalities are now served by one company and as each municipality has imposed fare conditions, designed for its particular benefit, inevitable discriminations have arisen between the various localities, and the only way to remove the same is to place the regulation of fares in the hands of the commission, which can see to it that justice is done to all."

Militiamen Paid—The 3,250 men of the Pennsylvania Reserve Militia who were in camp for ten days at Mount Gretna, were paid Saturday by Chief Clerk Benjamin W. Demming, of the Adjutant General's office. The pay amounted to $50,215.89.

Success of Allies Astounds Holland

Asstounds Holland
Amsterdam, July 22.—The allied victory has created a deep impression throughout Holland.
The Telegraaf says that anything is possible; that the capture of 400 guns will fill the Germans with consternation. The Handelsblad says the double Franco-American success revives French courage and inspires the Americans, whose young army has proved that it is capable of vigorously tackling the Germans.
The greatest importance of the victory, according to the Nieuws van den Dag, is the scoring of a tactical and strategical success against the German commanders. Even if the Germans recover their advantageous position, the paper says, the fact remains that the spell of the German army commands is broken.
The Tijd emphasizes the great strategical advantages achieved by General Foch within a few hours.
