ceeds the total casualties of the allied troops since the victorious advance began.

The correspondent has seen a large column of these prisoners coming in and, from their appearance, they were certainly picked

The number of undamaged cannon which has been taken by the allies is very large and constantly increasing, while at the same time large quantities of ammunition have been captured.

Every in Full Retreat

The advance of the armies commanded by General Mangin and General de Goutte on this flank averages ten kilometers, while General Berthelot who is smashing at the other side of the pocket containing the defeated Germans also is progressing appreciably. The French, Americans and British are working in closest cooperation and with absolute confidence.

Rear guard actions are being fought by the Germans north of Chateau Thierry. These probably were organized for the purpose of delaying the relentless pursuit of the fleeing enemy by the French and Americans, who on Sunday morning passed through Chateau Thierry and advanced northeast of that cornerstone of German conquest in eastern France. The reaction of the Germans is said to have been marked between Grisolles and Bezu-St. Germain, two villages northwest and north of Chateau Thierry at distance of approximately seven and four miles, respectively. The distance between Grisolles and Bezu-St. Germain is about four miles. Along this line, German attacks were broken and the allied line was maintained throughout. Americans Advance One and a Quarter Mile North of the Ourcq river the reaction of the enemy was limited to artillery fire.

This also was the case between the Marne and Rheims, notably in the region west of the Rheims mountain and in the Courton and Roi woods.

Since the Germans have been ousted from Chateau Thierry under conditions which suggest that the withdrawal was precipitated, the most interesting movements in the battle are south of Soissons, where the Americans are reported to have advanced a distance of a mile and a quarter; the Ourcq valley, where the allies are steadily pounding their wa ytoward Nanteuil-Notre Dame and southwest of Rheims, where there seems to be an indication that the allies have initiated a new drive for the purpose of out-flanking the Germans between Marfaux and Chatillion.

Allies Work "Nutcracker"

If this last movement develops, the allies' "nutcracker" will be in full motion. Between the known allied front south of Soissons to the town of Bouilly, southwest of Rheims, there is a gap of about 24 miles. This gap, however, probably is much smaller at present, for the allies' positions south of Soissons seem likely to have been advanced materially since they were reported at Hartenns-et-Taux on Saturday. If the French, Italian and British troops southwest of Rheims make an advance of any importance the position of the Germans further south will be made even more critical than it is known to be at present.

There appear to be at least two, and possible three, enveloping operations along the western side of the salient south of Soissons. The first of these, evidenced by the breaking through of the allies northwest of Chateau Thierry on Sunday morning, had immediate results in forcing the Germans back from the extreme top of the salient. The second enveloping movement is proceding up the Ourcq valley and at last accounts was very near Oulchy-Le-Chateau. The third is the advance of the allies south of Soissons.

Chateau. The third is the advance of the allies south of Soissons.

German Line May Be Withdrawn

Thus Foch has projected tentacles eastwards to catch the Germans retreating from the Marne. If another claw is thrust out from the Rheims salient, the situation will become much more perilous for the enemy.

There are few details of the fighting between the Aisne and the Ourcq. It appears, however, that the reported advance of the allies south of the Aisne, below Soissons is simply the carrying out of the French strategic plan of keeping the the Aisne on the French left flank. The actual occupation of Soissons will be a matter of slight importance in comparison to the demoralization or capture of the German flank was begun by General Mangin on Thursday morning.

Despite German Line May Be Withdrawn

Despite German resistance, especially from artillery and machine guns, the allies are steadily pressing forward and indication that the Germans finally will have to withdraw to a line from Rheims to Soissons, or along the Vesle, are becoming brighter. Only one small piece of railroad still is in use by the small supplies of food and ammunition and no adequate means of getting more.

In the past 24 hours most progress has been made in the Chateau Thierry sector and the enemy has been driven back there about five miles eastward from Belleau and three miles of the Marne at Chateau Thierry. Arras and in the Lys salient raiding operations characterized the George D. Beck Dies operations o fthe British during the past night.

Increasing allied pressure on the Rheims-Soissons salient is making the German positions more precarious every hour.

Between the Ourcq and the Marne French and American broops are making rapid progress. On the eastern flank a new died Saturday afternoon. Berlin Admits Reverse

Berlin admits a withdrawal north and northeast of Chateau Thierry after that across the Marne. Elsewhere, it says the allies have been repulsed with heavy losses. American troops are mentioned and it is claimed they suffered severe casualties. Admission that General Foch's counter blow was a surprise also is made, but the German staff does not mention definite points where fighting is progressing.

Elsewhere on the western front and in Italy there has been no fighting activity. In Albania in a resumption of their movement northward French and Italian troops have taken the crest of the Mail Siloves, a mountain range in the bend of the Devoli river, south of Elbassan. Rome reports the total prisoners captured up to July 19 as 2,167.

"The Venus Model" will be seen at the Colonial Theater to-day and to-morrow, with pretty Mabel At the Normand. Picture Masel Colonial Normand in a bathing such which is such a work of art that it is named "The Venus Model"—and then add to it a story which is full of fun and just the right vehicle for the little comedients, and there are all the ingredients necessary for a corking good picture, which this one certainly is. Of course, Mabel plays an Irish girl. You all know how perfectly adorable and mischievous she can be. She is rightly called "the girl who never disappoints," and in this latest picture she certainly lives up to her reputation.

Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Clara Kimball Young, the screen queen, has the most dramatic role in her career in "The Claw."

The announcement that the Victoria Theater will present the sensational drama. Within the Law" the Law" the Law" the Law and to-morrow, will be welcome news to all Harrisburg motion picture fans. The famous stage play of the same name was presented to millions of people, and all were loud in their praise of the high-class dramatic production. The screen version is said to be even more convincing, for the reason of the fact that many scenes can be shown which were impossible in the stage production. Alice Joyce and Harry Morey are featured, and are seen at their best. Metropolitan police methods of enforcing confessions, whether true or false, appearing to be necessary, are portrayed with startling realism. Not only is the physical brutality of the third degree is also vividly presented.

Everbody who saw the Krivit Company in their successful production of "Pardon Me." was very much interested in the character of the slavey, or, in other words, the character of many laughs—the maid-of-all-work. Those who have seen "Pardon Me" will be pleased to know that the slavey will be the central figure in "Where There's a Will," and that the opportunities for comedy in the new piece are even greater than they were when Miss Alvina Krause created such a favorable impression in "Pardon Me." Seymour Brown wil play the clerk at the Young Hotel, where the scene is laid, and in the characten of Jim Burns will find many a way of creating hearty and wholesome laughter. Nellie De Grasse will be seen at Mrs. Young, the proprietress of the Young Hotel, and Margie Phillips will play the role of her daughter, Eva. Krivit's beauty chorus, composed of the well-known team of Kobel and Collins, Zeidel Vaughn, Phyliss, Ray Val Griggs and other various musical numbers, and an hour's solid entertainment is promised to all that may visit the Paxtang Park Theater this week.

BATTLE CASUALTIES NOT YET CERTIFIED The casualty lists being printed in the newspapers daily are not those of the big offensive now on. These lists include the casualties of about one month ago.
