"PLAY BALL," SAYS BAKER

War Secretary Allows One Month For Leagues to Close and Men to Get Jobs

It's dollars to crackers that Newt. Baker, Secretary of War for your old Uncle Sam, used to sneak away from working in the garden and play ball over on the old lot. When it came to putting the kibosh on our national pastime last night Newt. weakened. There were sobs in his voice as he gurgled to the National Commission:

weakened. There were sobs in his voice as he gurgled to the National Commission:

"Boys, I think it would be an unfortunate thing to have so wholesome a recreation as baseball destroyed if it can be continued by the use of persons not available for essential war service. But it would be a much more unfortunate thing to preserve even so wholesome an amusement by making an exception in favor of baseball players which is denied to great classes of persons in the United States whose occupations have been held similarly nonessential, although they are immediately associated with the distribution of food and other processes of our daily life more fundamental than any mere amusement.

"It does happen that baseball is more integrated than any other occupation in our country, at least in the sense that its successful conduct depends upon the preservation of all the major league teams scattered throughout the country, while in most occupations the work-oright order has merely a series of local and more or less personal effects.

the present holder in a challenge race.

Mark Arie, of Thomasboro, Ill., won and holds the amateur allaround cup.

The last Grand American in 1917 listed the names of avo contestants at an entrance fee of $10 each. It should be understood by those not conversant with the sport of trapshooting. Every entrant represents a personal contestant, who shoots a gun not to exceed twelve gauge, unlimited load of powder, shot restricted to one and one-fourth ounces.

Over 100,000 shotgun devotees are "over there," fighting for a worldwide democracy. Continuous commendation greets their most efficient work; their ability and efficiency as expert shots has been recognized, by their ranking officers placing them in charge of machine guns and batteries located at important points. Knights of the scattergun have introduced both pump and autoloading guns loaded with buckshot, in trench warfare an afternoon reception was given the Huns who attempted to "come over," which was so disastrous to the Boches that General Pershing personally complimented the skill of the "shotgun artists." At one point a most success attack was made by our boys in khaki, un-with a frontage on Lake Michigan, which will accommodate twelve sets of traps, without conflicting, their shooting arrangements are certainly ideal. Shooting over water guarantees an unobstructed background with sky outline. On shore is ample space for shelter tents, office and accessory buildings.

Elmer E. Shaner, the veteran manager, will be in charge de affairs. E. Reed Shaner, secretary Interstate Association, with a trained office force, will handle scores, cash and statistical details. The Country Club will be represented by R. E. Peacock, Ben (Sport) Donnelley, Walter Peacock, CarlHorlix, George T. French. The shooting grounds will be under supervision of Ben S. Donnelley and will be thrown open to the general public on this occasion.

Interest in trapshooting has so increased in the past year that a record attendance may be expected at the 1918 Grand American. Trapshooting is the patriotic sport of the day; every man, woman and boy should learn to shoot and handle a gun. The Grand American handicap in Chicago, August 5-9, is the logical place for observation and to acquire correct knowledge. The grounds are open free. Every person invited to attend.

Baltimore, Md., July 27. — Manager
Wade, of the baseball team representing the Baltimore Drydocks and Shipbuilding Company, announced yesterday that he had made arranger ments for seven members of the Binghamton team, of the New International League, to go to work at the yards to-morrow. They will immediately become members of the Drydocks team.

It is understood Cam Frock, the Baltimore boy with the Binghamton team, acted as agent for the local concern. A telegram from Frock to the management of the shipbuilders' team yesterday stated he would be there on Sunday and that he would bring with him Kay, Riley, Zimmer man, Haddock, Hooper and a pitcher, whose name was not mentioned.

Frock is one of the pitchers of the Binghamton club, which is the leader in the pennant race of the International League.
