

Redeem the World and all the Family

Life's Problems Are Discussed

BY MRS. WILSON WOODROW
To get letters from friends is one thing. They have merely chosen a rather indirect way of talking to us. But letters from strangers are different; one often gets oddly vivid impressions of the character and personality of the writer whom one has never seen. These letters sometimes seem to have a vitality all their own, a quality which I can only describe as haunting.

I received one of these a day or two ago. It was very simply written, and yet it had a force, an individuality, an earnestness which held my attention. I found my mind returning to it again and again.

It was from a little girl only fifteen years old, who worked in a factory all day and received $14 a week. But she was ambitious to become a stenographer and typist, and was consequently taking a course in night school with this end in view.

"But," she continues, "my parents do not wish me to keep on at night school. They say I should not go so because when I complete my course I will have to work for about nine or ten dollars a week. They tell me I should be contented to stay where I am, and stop struggling to be something else."

"But I am not contented. I want to do something and be somebody. It grieves me very much when they insist that I should not keep on going to school, for my teachers and other people tell me I am right in doing so. But I am getting confused and I do not know what to do."

"My parents also call me a spendthrift, because sometimes after I come home from school at night I buy six cents' worth of ice cream, and I usually spend besides ten cents a day."

"I do not know what to do. I do

Bringing Up Father

Copyright, 1918, International News Service By McManus

not want to stop school, for I have only a few months longer to go. Hoping you will answer, I remain,
"P. L."

What a plucky little girl! Only fifteen, and yet with a native energy and ambition which refuses to be smothered by opposition or eclipsed by bodily fatigue.

She works long hours in the factory by day. She must naturally be tired when evening comes, and yet in response to the something in her that demands a freer scope for her powers and wider opportunity she spends her leisure time—the time that others are giving to recreation and amusement—in study.

To her I would say: My dear, the secret of all success is to know what you want, and then so after it. Any girl who has a definite idea of what she wishes to become and takes herself in hand at fifteen can accomplish almost anything she desires.

Your parents are under a misapprehension. From what you say I gather that they object to your exchanging your dollars for a week for nine or ten. But for a girl of your energy and initiative ten would be a very temporary remuneration. You could very soon command much more than that.

It is a crime for a girl of your inclinations and ambitions not to improve yourself in every way you can. This is a world of opportunities, but to grasp these opportunities you've got to possess certain qualities, and the first of these is an unflagging ambition, the second the ability to keep one's eyes fixed upon the goal rather than upon the way which leads to it, and the others are patience and perseverance and the undefeated spirit.

You are a very splendid type of spendthrift, for your pathetic little waste of six cents' worth of ice cream and your ten cents extra a day, and your prodigal but uncounted expenditure of force and energy, harmful acid and prevent the formation of gas, sourness or premature fermentation by the use of a little Bisurated Magnesia at their meals.

There is probably no better, safer or more reliable stomach antacid than Bisurated Magnesia and it is widely used for this purpose. It has no direct action on the stomach, but acts as a digestant. But a teaspoonful of the powder or a couple of five-grain tablets taken in a little water with the food will neutralize the excess acidity which may be present and prevent its further formation. The water with the food will neutralize the excess acidity which may be present and prevent its further formation. The water with the food will neutralize the excess acidity which may be present and prevent its further formation.

To them will come greater opportunities than are even dreamed of at present.

We are seeing right now the passing of the idle, trivial girls and women. It is they who are to be pitied, not girls like you who are working to make yourselves intelligent, useful citizens of real service to your country. It is your kind who raise the whole standard of woman and woman's work, and I salute you very reverently and bid you Godspeed.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM

FIRE COMPANY VS. COUNCIL

To the Editor of the Telegraph:
Several days ago you published a communication entitled "The Firemen's Side," signed by Robert E. Cahill, president of the Camp Hill Fire Company. I read it with interest for the reason that it was an attempted reply to a former communication of my own, signed "Truth," which appeared in your paper.

After reading and considering Mr. Cahill's communication I measured it with the foot-rule and found that it covered sixteen inches of space. I will explain for like space, but desire to comment upon several features of said article.

I avow myself the author of the brief communication signed "Truth," which appeared in your paper. I did not sign my name mainly because my communication was not a public communication, but a private one, and I desired to remain anonymous.

There is a homey adage, "You can't have your cake and eat it, too." I submit this for Mr. Cahill's consideration. I regard it as applicable to the present situation. The councilmen are not "flies," but ordinary human beings, who are honestly trying to serve the community. They receive no compensation for their time and effort, and are subjected to criticism, just and unjust, from all sources.

The Camp Hill councilmen are a fair type of men in boroughs such as Camp Hill. We have no Theodore Roosevelt, Elihu Root, Charles M. Schwab, or William H. Taft in Camp Hill borough or in Council. The present councilmen are honestly striving to do their duty under the oaths, and under the laws of the state, and more than this no reasonable citizen can expect.

The National Liquor Dealers' Journal in its latest issue seems to be very greatly concerned over the finding of the twenty-five barrels (thirty-eight later were found) all in the lavatory which adjoins Room 4 of the House of Representatives in Washington. Its article is headed "Sherlock Holmes Stopped and it goes on to say, 'Washington, D. C., boast of the finest barroom on earth.'"

We presume that if the shock of this marvelous barroom, "twenty-five barrels," with the thirty-eight later found, were put up for sale at retail in the barroom, it would be a magnificent fortune for him. It is the National Liquor Dealers' Journal puts into the mouth of the janitor, who is "between the first and last of the empty whisky bottles in the marbled halls," how crushing is the blow to the liquor dealer, and how the "dry" capital of the United States, can be "boast of the finest barroom on earth."

Mr. Cahill states that he is "prepared to prove" that money which was withheld by the Camp Hill fire company was not used for that purpose. I beg to remind my aggressor that the same comment is made above this accusation of councilmen's wrongdoing. It is possible that the borough at the time, without funds and unable to pay for the repairs, it might be called "slow motion" in the firehouse. Camp Hill is chronically "slow motion."

These charges made by the president of the fire company are serious ones and involve the honor and credit, and I here challenge him, if he is a good citizen, and in possession of the evidence to prosecute the offenders, to do so. He declares that he has the evidence, therefore let him at once proceed.

Mr. Cahill ridicules the Council as a body because of its inefficiency. This is a common complaint against councilmen. I question whether the administration of borough affairs, in part at least, by a council, is as efficient as that by the commission form of government in vogue in some of the cities of the land. I submit that Mr. Cahill expects too much of these poor, inefficient councilmen. He expects borough affairs to be conducted in the brisk, aggressive and thorough manner in which he operates his factory. This cannot be done. The head of a manufactory is an autocrat, selects his assistants and places them where they are the most effective. They in turn hire the help. Councilmen are elected by popular vote for a term of years, and can only be removed for malfeasance. I do not believe that Mr. Cahill would seriously claim that the Camp Hill councilmen, however inefficient, have broken their oaths of office, as related the law. If he knows of any official malfeasance on the part of these gentlemen, it is his duty as a good citizen to proceed criminally or civilly against them. If they are honest, but inefficient, it becomes his duty at the time of the next primary to see to it that proper men are first nominated and afterwards elected to take the place of the present inefficient councilmen.

I have no criticism of Mr. Cahill as a man and citizen, but I respectfully submit that the aggressive methods which have contributed largely to his deserved success as a businessman may not be equally potential in securing the success of a public official. It is necessary for the company.

There is a homey adage, "You can't have your cake and eat it, too." I submit this for Mr. Cahill's consideration. I regard it as applicable to the present situation. The councilmen are not "flies," but ordinary human beings, who are honestly trying to serve the community. They receive no compensation for their time and effort, and are subjected to criticism, just and unjust, from all sources.

The National Liquor Dealers' Journal in its latest issue seems to be very greatly concerned over the finding of the twenty-five barrels (thirty-eight later were found) all in the lavatory which adjoins Room 4 of the House of Representatives in Washington. Its article is headed "Sherlock Holmes Stopped and it goes on to say, 'Washington, D. C., boast of the finest barroom on earth.'"

We presume that if the shock of this marvelous barroom, "twenty-five barrels," with the thirty-eight later found, were put up for sale at retail in the barroom, it would be a magnificent fortune for him. It is the National Liquor Dealers' Journal puts into the mouth of the janitor, who is "between the first and last of the empty whisky bottles in the marbled halls," how crushing is the blow to the liquor dealer, and how the "dry" capital of the United States, can be "boast of the finest barroom on earth."

Mr. Cahill states that he is "prepared to prove" that money which was withheld by the Camp Hill fire company was not used for that purpose. I beg to remind my aggressor that the same comment is made above this accusation of councilmen's wrongdoing. It is possible that the borough at the time, without funds and unable to pay for the repairs, it might be called "slow motion" in the firehouse. Camp Hill is chronically "slow motion."

These charges made by the president of the fire company are serious ones and involve the honor and credit, and I here challenge him, if he is a good citizen, and in possession of the evidence to prosecute the offenders, to do so. He declares that he has the evidence, therefore let him at once proceed.

Mr. Cahill ridicules the Council as a body because of its inefficiency. This is a common complaint against councilmen. I question whether the administration of borough affairs, in part at least, by a council, is as efficient as that by the commission form of government in vogue in some of the cities of the land. I submit that Mr. Cahill expects too much of these poor, inefficient councilmen. He expects borough affairs to be conducted in the brisk, aggressive and thorough to the yardarm of the ship of state and as our grandchildren gaze back at the corpse they will wonder what sort of people we were that we did not hang it long before we did. Sherlock Holmes can find the embezzlers along other lines.

BOOZE AND THE WAR

To the Editor of the Telegraph:
There is much to commend in your stand on the booze question and for war-time prohibition. It is good to let your readers know just where the responsibility rests for the waste now going on in foodstuffs, fuel, labor and transportation. If the Kaiser had the power, would he not uphold the brewing industry of the United States as our President has done? If it were true that wartime prohibition would decrease efficiency in shipbuilding, then why apply it to our soldiers and sailors? If it were true that the distillation of whisky would put the country on a whisky basis, then why not stop the sale of whisky? Why was not the brewing of beer stopped at the same time that the distillation of whisky was stopped? Beer is the worse of the two, because it is considered so innocent by some. But it is on beer that the young man begins. If any old drunkard began on anything but beer, he is the exception. I know what I am writing about and undoubtedly know by hard experience more about all kinds of booze drinking than the food administration.

Why do the liquor dealers gloat over the fact that Mr. Wilson and Mr. Hoover have failed to put the ban on beer? The leading editorials of a June number of the "National Liquor Dealers' Journal" are headed: "President and Hoover oppose stoppage of the breweries—Hoover sees no necessity for stopping sale of liquor—Brewing should be continued." If the action of those that rule over us so pleases the liquor gang it ought to be all the more evidence of a great wrong. How much service and patriotism and loyalty are inspired by the action?

If it is true that food will win the war, or in any way help win it why is it not a crime, little short of treason, to waste foodstuffs in the making of this German slop—beer? It is so much worse than wasted. Beer never has and never will serve one food purpose or one worthy interest. It is always bad and only bad. It is an ally of the Kaiser and of the devil.

We are so grateful however, for the good men in the President's Cabinet and in Congress who have the moral courage to advocate absolute, home-dry, nation-wide, war-time prohibition for native land and God's sake.

TRIBUTE TO DEPARTED

To the Editor of the Telegraph:
After a stay of a few days in the Harrisburg Hospital, Mrs. Ph. Michlovitz, of 532 North street, breathed her last Sunday morning, July 21. She was 72 years old and lived for eighteen years in this city where she came direct from Russia. The deceased is survived by her husband Ph. Michlovitz, five children, grandchildren and great grandchildren.

Her three daughters are Mrs. A. Abramson, Mrs. F. Lack and Mrs. D. Furman. Her two sons are Mr. Simon and Abe Michlovitz, the well-known wholesale dealers in iron and steel.

The deceased mother possessed all the virtues of a noble Jewish woman. She was pious, kind and charitable. She was a friend to all in distress and in need. Her mental serenity did not forsake her to the last minute.

Her good children follow in the footsteps of their mother. The generosity, liberality and philanthropy of the Michlovitz family are known to Jew and non-Jew alike. In this city the name Michlovitz is mentioned with respect and love by the entire Jewish community, and on account of the prominence and popularity of the family, all Jews turned out last Sunday to pay the last tribute to "the good grandmother," as the departed Mrs. Ph. Michlovitz was called.

In accordance with Jewish practice the Michlovitz family observe "Shiva" or "the week of mourning." The father and both sons passed the week in the Chisuk Amuna synagogue, Sixth and Forster streets, which, by reason of its munificent contributions towards its building and maintenance, has the name Simon Michlovitz engraved on its cornerstone.

The numerous friends of the Michlovitz family visited the mourners in the said synagogue.

MOSES RUMANOFF.

Cuticura Stops Itching and Saves the Hair

All druggists. Soap 25¢. Ointment 25¢. 40¢. Talcum 25¢. Sample each free of "Cuticura, Dept. 2, Boston."

TELLS DYSEPHTICS WHAT TO EAT

Avoid Indigestion, Sour Acid Stomach, Heartburn, Gas On Stomach, Etc.

Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach troubles, say medical authorities, are due nine times out of ten to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. Chronic "acid stomach" is exceedingly dangerous and sufferers should do either one of two things:

Either they can go on a limited and often disagreeable diet, avoiding foods that disagree with them, that irritate the stomach and lead to excess acid secretion or they can eat as they please in reason and make it a practice to counteract the effect of the harmful acid and prevent the formation of gas, sourness or premature fermentation by the use of a little Bisurated Magnesia at their meals.

There is probably no better, safer or more reliable stomach antacid than Bisurated Magnesia and it is widely used for this purpose. It has no direct action on the stomach, but acts as a digestant. But a teaspoonful of the powder or a couple of five-grain tablets taken in a little water with the food will neutralize the excess acidity which may be present and prevent its further formation. The water with the food will neutralize the excess acidity which may be present and prevent its further formation.

To them will come greater opportunities than are even dreamed of at present.

We are seeing right now the passing of the idle, trivial girls and women. It is they who are to be pitied, not girls like you who are working to make yourselves intelligent, useful citizens of real service to your country. It is your kind who raise the whole standard of woman and woman's work, and I salute you very reverently and bid you Godspeed.

BEECHAM'S PILLS

When your head aches, it is usually caused by your liver or stomach getting out of order. These "sick headaches" quickly disappear as soon as the stomach is relieved of its bilious contents. Right your stomach and regulate and tone the liver with Beecham's Pills, which rapidly improve conditions and promptly

Hep Headache

Directions of Special Value to Women are with Every Box. Sold by druggists throughout the world. In boxes, 10c., 25c.

Your Best Opportunity Now to Serve Your Country and Earn Big Money

This applies to Business as well as Government Work. Both need young men and women badly, and are willing to pay splendid salaries to those who are capable of doing efficient work.

IS IT WORTH WHILE?

A number of our graduates, boys and girls, some of them grammar school graduates only, who passed the Civil Service examination, accepted positions at $1,100.00 a year. In six months they have advanced to $1,400.00 and $1,600.00.

SCHOOL OF COMMERCE

Well 455 15 SOUTH MARKET SQUARE Dial 4393 Harrisburg's Leading and Accredited Business College

Mold Offers For One Week Only—Lifetime Gifts See Offer Below—Also Coupon

Save Sugar—Save Flour Yet Serve Luscious Fruit Desserts

Facts to Know
In these times every housewife should know Jiffy-Jell. It means rich, fruity desserts, instantly made, without the addition of sugar.

It means supreme desserts, without the use of flour or sugar, at half the cost of pastry.

It means a way to serve fresh fruit, mixed in jell, to save many ounces of sugar.

It means zesty salads made with vegetable left-overs, and jellied meat loaves made with scraps. All delightful products.

Sugar is needed now for canning. Your supply is restricted. Wastes must be utilized, flour must be conserved. So we make these offers to let every woman see how Jiffy-Jell can serve her.

We urge you, for your own sake, to learn how folks enjoy it.

Pure Aluminum Molds

Molds a salad for six, made with one package of Lime Jiffy-Jell with vegetables mixed in. Indented in six divisions. Value 50c.

Assorted styles. Six of them serve a full package of Jiffy-Jell. Value 60c for six.

Buy from your grocer two packages of Jiffy-Jell, then send this coupon to us.

Enclose 10c—cost of mailing only—and we will send you the Vegetable Salad Mold as pictured above, in size to serve six people. The value is 50c.

Or enclose 10c—cost of mailing only—and we will mail you three Individual Dessert Molds in assorted styles as pictured.

Or enclose 20c and we will mail you six Individual Dessert Molds assorted—enough to serve a full package of Jiffy-Jell. The value is 60c per set.

Jiffy-Jell

For Quick, Fruity Desserts and Salads

Fruit-Juice Flavors Sealed in Glass

No Sugar Need Be Added

10 Flavors in Vials

- A Bottle in Each Package
- Strawberry
- Raspberry
- Loganberry
- Pineapple
- Cherry
- Lemon
- Lime
- Orange
- Coffee
- Mint

Write plainly and give full address.

Waukesha Pure Food Co., Waukesha, Wisconsin

Mail Us This Coupon

When You Buy Jiffy-Jell in a Year Grocer I have today received two packages of Jiffy-Jell as pictured here from

(Name of Grocer)

Now I mail this coupon with

- 10c for Vegetable Salad Mold
- 10c for 3 Individual Molds, or
- 20c for 6 Individual Molds. (Check which)