RUSSIA FIRST ·ON LIST FOR KAISER'S PLAN Liberations of Thousands of

Subjects Used as a Mask

New York-There is no longer any doubt that Germany had decided up-on the present war long before 1914. It was to be waged first of all against Russia under the pretext that Germany must liberate thousands of Germans suffering under the yoke of Russia in the Baltic provinces.

Shortly after the outbreak of the war the Kaiser said in one of his war the Kaiser said in one of his speeches: "The will of my fathers is being fulfilled. The day has come when I must cross the Visula and the Nie-men at the head of my armies and add to our empire the crown lands of Foland. The historical mistake of former rulers will be rectified. We will rectify it." One of the Pan-German leaders thus defined the purpose of the war: "We must bring the German ploy to the very heart of the Russian heroes who have for three centuries shed their blood in order to trans-form the Slav marshes into German kultur land."

form the Slav marshes into German kultur land." During the five years preceding the war the German agents in Russia circulated pamphlets and other forms of literature about Pan-Germanism among the Russian Germans. They were told that the German empire would rule the whole world and that Russia would be German as far as the Ural and the Volga. But they did not confine themselves to this sort of literature. They organized German societies to help realize these dreams of the Kaiser, while the Rus-sian authorities kept their eyes closed to all that was happening. The very first rule of the German soci-eties and schools in Russia read as follows:

ollows: Engineers as Laborers "The purpose of the societies is in preserve for Germany her sons broad, to help Germans in every way possible to remain Germans, and wherever they may have lost their iational character, to help restore it o them."

wherever they may have lost their national character, to help restore it to them." German professors who taught at Russian schools and universities have tried for many years to implant in Russian youths a sense of love and respect for Germany and the Kaiser. It appears that Profs. von Ettingen and Kark Schmidt had elab-orated about 40 years ago a system by which to settle Germans in the regions of Russian fortresses and submitted their project to the Ger-man War Department. According to this plan, German officers and en-gineers. They were to be sub-sidized by the German government. They recommended that agricultural implements be manufactured there and that the works be supervised by officers of the German general staff who could speak Russian fluently and who became Russian fluently and who became Russian fluently and who became Russian fluently and so f reservists in Russia, or-ganizing various societies, 'most of them singing societies. There were also athletic clubs, fire brigades and a few military organizations. For instance, in Lodz alone 18 sing-ing societies numbered more than 10,000 German members in 1912. There were 22 other German reservists who were ready to respond to the first signal of the Prussian War Depart-ment and to carry out its orders in Russia. No army in the world ever had such a large number of snies in and-

No army in the world ever had such a large number of sples in an-other country as the German army had in Russia—in Poland, Lithuania and Volhynia—before the outbreak of the present war. The German colo-nists and the reservists planted in Russia for espionage purposes, fought Bussia from within.

Russia for esplonage purposes, tought Russia from within. Nemirovitch Danchenko, the Rus-sian war correspondent, published interesting extracts from letters found on German prisoners of war lauding the German colonists in Rus-

Right!

Right! New York—Draft laws are things beyond David Jackson, colored, who was arrested yesterday for evading them, but bring on your Huns! "Boss." quoth Jackson, when ar-raigned before Judge Garvin ,in the United States district court ,yester-day. "Ah ain' no slacker. Jess to con-vince you, Jedge, bring in fo' Ger-mans. Bring in ten, if yo' feel ilke it. I cert'n'ly will separate 'em. Jess lead me to 'em." "Wy didn't you register, then?" queried his honor. "Boss," replied the would-be war-rior. "I don' know no laws. I'm a dentin' man."

"You certainly are," Judge Garvin acquiesced, "beginning to-morrow."
