SMERICAN INDEPENDENCE DAY IN PARIS. JULY 4" 1918 (4" Year of War) - Prevident Wiston Avenue Captain John S. Spicer of the ordnance department, now with the troops in France, sends the Telegraph the picture herewith, showing the parade of American troops in Paris on July 4. These troops are passing Jown the "Avenue Du President Wilson." Captain Spicer says "this is a splendid view of the avenue named after the President and the boys who took part in the parade on the Fourth, and they are all just as good as they appear. It was a great sight to see Old Glory floating everywhere. There are a few people left as you can see, notwithstanding German reports to the contrary."
