Can Make Sugarless Apple Butter; Receipt by College Experts

Sugarless applebutter may sound as impossible as hamless ham and eggs, but the Food Administrator, who declares that applebutter made without sugar can be as good as the kind grandmother used to make, if the proper procedure is followed in using the substitute he herewith suggests. At the same time he sounds a hopeful note for the future of the sugar situation. "Applebutter isn't going to be a minus quantity this year even though sugar is," he said. "Pennsylvania State College has come to the rescue of the applebutter makers this season, through the Department of Home Economics, which issues the following tried and tested receipt: "Take one-half as much white corn syrup as thick apple pulp, add one teaspoonful of cinnamon to each quart of the mixture and make otherwise exactly as the applebutter is made with sugar. "Simple, isn't it? But it produces the right result," the Food Administrator added this morning, all kinds of canning may be done without sugar, the system being what is known as "sugar pack." The local Food Administrator will supply information in details upon request, and the newspapers have carried full information. Fruits canned without sugar are readily sweetened when used, and the supply of sugar promises to be more plentiful later in the fall and early winter. Hotel and restaurants are also urged to use no sugar in canning, as they will be able to use the sugar they use each year in this manner. Not using it at this time will greatly aid the local situation.

More Than 200 Plan to Turn Out For Big Picnic

"I enclose herewith a check for $1.50 which I understand is enough to become a member of the bunch. Skinnay." This is the note received by the secretary of the Harrisburg Chamber of Commerce from a West Shore bank president this morning. It shows the spirit of the local businessmen who have received the invitation to attend the annual picnic at Guadalupe, the summer home of John W. Reilly, Thursday. The automobile which will furnish transportation to the members will leave the Square Thursday at 1:30, and they won't return to the city of care and worry until evening. A businessman has forgotten his troubles for at least seven or eight hours of unconfined joy. "If you ain't sent in your 'seption, you better do it right away. It costs a dollar and a half now, and if you don't tell 'em your goin' till the day of the picnic, they may soak you two dollars and a half, an' then you may not get nothing to eat, and besides there may not be any room left in the carriages, an' you can't get there by train you know." is the message. "Skinnay" is addressed to "Skinnay". Bunch, has added to the "Skinnay" list, and more than 200 "Skinnays" have heeded the urgency of the invitation inviting them back to the "Land of Real Sport."

NO ACTION YET TO MAKE TOWN DRY

terfered in anyway with the work of the Harrisburg police department. We thought it our duty to confine the duties of the ordinance police to the necessities of the Middletown ordinance depot.

"When the question arose regarding a five-mile zone to include Harrisburg in certain restrictions, we did not favor it, out of regard for the people of Harrisburg and that it involved police matters concerning the Harrisburg police force with whom we desired to work in harmony. Notwithstanding our kindly feelings toward Harrisburg police and an ever-readiness to co-operate, we not only failed to receive co-operation, but on a number of occasions our police and employees here have been treated discourteously.

"Existing conditions in Harrisburg are just the kind that result in placing a commissioned officer and provost guard in charge. Harrisburg is fortunate in having important military depots in close proximity to the city. It is necessary to have soldiers and police guards, important to preserve order, and is an encouragement to well-behaved, orderly laborers and mechanics. No rowdiness is allowed. Liquor is barred and there is no gambling.

"The police and firemen employed at the ordinance depot are carefully selected men. They are uniformed, and well disciplined, and have had Regular Army, National Guard, State Constabulary training. Men of this caliber are always given first consideration.

"The police and firemen employed formed so they could be distinguished from civilians, and we have personal pride in their work and feel personally responsible for their behavior. No one ever need question as to where they belong. The uniform tells it distinctly. The lieutenants and sergeants are sworn and bonded deputy sheriffs of Dauphin county, to where they belong. This, and instead of lending their aid have on a number of occasions made it unpleasant for ordinance depot men, and shown no inclination to co-operate in keeping good order."
