

Marshal Foch Compliments United States Printers For Their Devotion to Duty

Scranton, Aug. 12.—At the opening session of the International Typographical Union in this city yesterday President Marsden G. Scott read a cablegram from Marshal Foch addressed to the printers of the United States, saying: "The factory, like the trench, is a post of combat. The duty is not to abandon it before the enemy. My compliments to your union for having understood it so well." Reports presented during the day were to the effect that there are now 62,661 members in the Union. This is an increase over last year of 1,811.

Stomach troubles are due to acidity. Tells safe, certain, speedy relief for acid indigestion. So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, gas, sourness, stomach-ache and inability to retain food are in probably nine cases out of ten, simply evidence that excessive secretion of acid is taking place in the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acid indigestion.

U-BOAT MAKES GAS ATTACK ON COAST STATION

U-BOAT MAKES GAS ATTACK ON COAST STATION

Six Men Overcome; U. S. Destroyer Sinks Hun Craft, Is Report

Washington, Aug. 12.—Germany is seeking to bring one of her favorite brands of frightfulness direct to America's shores. A gas attack was made on the North Carolina coast late Saturday afternoon. Six of the coast guard and lighthouse personnel on Smith Island, near the entrance to Wilmington harbor, were overcome by the gas but the mustard gas, according to a Navy Department statement last night.

The gas was generated from three large patches of oil, each more than an acre in extent, which the submarine spread on the water. The gas was described by the Navy Department reports as having about the same effect as the mustard gas which was used against the Allies in France. It was effective for about thirty-five or forty minutes. The gas was generated from the oil about forty minutes after the appearance of the patches were noted.

This is the first time in the history of submarine warfare that such gas has been employed. The attacked naval officers to consider steps to meet it.

It raised the question of equipping coast guard crews of the crewed submarine chasers with masks. It was said at the department last night that this subject would be given immediate consideration.

Details of Attack Following is the Navy Department's statement on the North Carolina attack:

The Navy Department has received a dispatch from the commandant of the Sixth Naval District, Charleston, S. C., stating that an attack on the coast guard station on the North Carolina coast about 9 o'clock Saturday afternoon with the result of temporarily putting out of business the coast guard station and lighthouse personnel on Smith Island. The report goes on to say:

About forty minutes after the attack three large oil spots, each more than an acre in extent, were observed passing by Smith Island to the north. This oil, from which the gas was no doubt generated, must have been released from a submarine in the vicinity of the entrance to the channel with the hope that it would come in with the tide, but the tide, fortunately, set along Smith Island.

Report was made to Colonel Chase, coast artillery corps, Fort Caswell, N. C., by Captain Willis, of the Smith Island coast guard immediately after the effects of the gas were noticed. Six men were gassed, but no deaths resulted. The gas had effective effect of thirty-five or forty minutes. The color of the gas had not yet been ascertained, and its effects on trees and shrubbery not yet investigated and full report made.

The incident was reported by Colonel Chase to the naval district commandant.

Smith Island is off the mouth of the Cape Fear river, near the entrance to the channel to Wilmington, N. C.

The first real encounter between an American destroyer and a German submarine since the U-boats began their raids on shipping in American waters was announced yesterday by the Secretary of the Navy.

Believe U-Boat Sunk Indications pointed to the sinking or serious damaging of a submarine operating off the Virginia coast when the Navy Department entered no official claim to the destruction of the enemy vessel, Secretary Daniels authorized the following:

"The Navy Department has received a report that an American destroyer sighted an enemy submarine in the waters of the Virginia coast and dropped fifteen depth bombs on the spot where the U-boat submerged.

"The submarine was not seen again, but an oil slick appeared and two more depth charges were dropped on the spot."

Secretary Daniels said yesterday that at least two or three or more submarines are operating in American waters. He made this statement in announcing the report of the crew of the schooner Katie Palmer, which was sunk late Saturday afternoon in New England waters.

Particular interest was attached to statements of the crew of the schooner, who were taken aboard the U-boat, to the effect that the German commander stated he was equipped to stay in American waters six months "if he desired."

"Just Talking" "Of course, if he could obtain supplies and fuel he might do so," said the skipper, "but it is the general view that he was just talking."

Unbidden Guest Ejected From Trolley Car; Was Waiting For His Owner

Car 628 of the Fourth and Sixth streets line of the Harrisburg Railways Company was pretty well crowded and waiting in the Square to pursue its journey up town about 10.15 last night. Both doors were open. In violation of all the rules of the company and the Public Service Commission a passenger entered by the front door, unbidden and penniless, in the center of the aisle the unwelcome guest of the railways company stood waiting, looking this way and that, head in air, anxious, expectant and not a little peculiar.

The conductor looked daggers while passengers smiled. Indeed, one of them whistled. Seconds fled and a car ahead moved forward. The passenger waited, now impatient. Still there was no welcome, no moving aside to make room.

There was a stir among the five-centers and curiosity to know what would happen the interloper. The conductor glanced at the fare register, then at the motorman, who stood smiling, read to start. "Get out of the car," the conductor said, pointing to the door and getting no response, took the passenger by the back of the neck and shoved him into the unfriendly outside.

A white and brown fox terrier, missing his master, had entered the car hoping to find his owner. He had tarried too long and the inexorable hand of fate had snatched him and claimed him for its own. There was no word to-day that other and vagrant had found each other.

Conducting a store, supplying a large number of people daily with the necessities of life—in short, playing the game of business—is a real pleasure to us. We enjoy the friendly opposition of our competitors because it spurs us on to greater achievements in service and value-giving, and you benefit thereby.

Operating this store is a pleasure. We resort to no "shady" methods. The fear of being detected in some underhanded transaction is never present. Honesty dominates here. We play the game of business under rules that permit no exaggeration of values, no extravagant claims, no comparative price quotations, no trickery and no "knocking" our competitors. Our merchandise and our methods of price-marking and selling must stand upon their own merits—by all of them we are willing to be judged.

We play the game of business with a clear conscience. That is why we enjoy it.
