NEW CODE ISSUED BY STATE BUREAU

Trades, Occupations and Professions Set Forth in Compilation of Interest

A compilation of the "live" laws of Pennsylvania relative to trades, occupations and professions has just been completed at the State Legislative Bureau, taking almost 850 pages of pamphlet size.

These statutes have been brought together in code form and it represents months of work by John H. Fertig, the assistant director. Mr. Fertig went clear back to early provincial days for some of the acts which he refers to, but the bulk of the laws are of the later century, those no longer applicable having been dropped. Over a dozen codes dealing with other subjects have been heretofore issued.

This latest one of the series of compilations issued by the bureau as a general rule deals with the subjects in private capacity and does not include public employes, so that inspectors, wardens, constables, foresters, tipsters, health officers and the like are not included. Similarly, mining and navigation officers are left out, as they are governed by other codes. In the list published are accountants, attorneys, auctioneers, bakers, bankers and brokers, chauffeurs, factors, surveyors, civil and railway engineers, cooks, farmers, hawkers, fortun tellers, midwives, nurses, junk dealers, pawnbrokers, plumbers, sextons, taxidermists, undertakers, waiters and many others, together with physicians, dentists, pharmacists and the people in various specialized branches of those callings.

Make Inquiry.—State Health Department inspectors are making careful inquiries into outbreaks of infantile paralysis which have been reported lately. The cases have been more or less localized. Efforts are being made to prevent typhoid outbreaks, which have also been reported to happen about this time of the year owing to people traveling more.

Grammar Grade Taken.—The calls for 689 drafted men with grammar school education to go to Philadelphia and other places for special mechanical instruction just issued by State Draft Headquarters will make over 3,000 such young men go to school this summer from Pennsylvania. The men called up are to be entrained September 1.

Penn Not Well.—The oak tree planted in Capitol Park and named for William Penn as the start of the Pennsylvania State tree to be named for the Governors of the state may have to be replaced. The tree was planted last spring by Governor Brumbaugh and the top appears to have died, although there is a fringe of green about the trunk. The next section of "Governors' row" will be planted next year.

To Pay Arrears.—The situation with respect to the arrears of the state in payment of the cash road tax bonus is now being studied at the Capitol and efforts to include $1,148,643.23 in next year's appropriations will be made. The money now being disbursed is for 1910, 1911 and 1912 and the last of 1911 is now being paid. The money to be appropriated for 1913 and 1914. Second class townships of the state receive the money upon complying with certain requirements as to collection of road taxes and reports.

Money For Roads.—Four western counties of Pennsylvania have been certified to the State Treasury for the payment of almost $45,000 as their shares of the cash road tax bonus for 1911 and the counties not yet listed will be taken care of shortly. The payments are under way from the treasury. Highway Commissioner J. Denny O'Neil has certified Fayette county, with almost 1,600 miles of road, for payment of $11,367.43 among its second class townships; Clarion, for $15,548.41; Cambria, which has over 900 miles of second class township road, for $10,152.36, and Clearfield, which has over 1,600 miles, for $17,231.62.

Beary Complimented.—The Philadelphia Press in an extended article written by J. O. Hauser compliments Adjutant General Beary upon the success which had attended the organization of the Pennsylvania Reserve Militia. He tells how General Beary carried through the formation of the Guard and assumed the great task laid down by General Stewart.

MacNelle Named.—Judge Raymond MacNelle, of the Philadelphia municipal court, and who is known here, has been named a member of the Philadelphia Recreation Board.

Harbold Declines.—According to Lancaster people, P. M. Harbold, former head of the Millersville Normal school, has declined a deputyship in the Department of Public Instruction and will become educational director at Camp Meade.

Wayne Gets $17,469.41.—Wayne county has been certified for $17,469.41 as its share of the township cash road tax bonus. Damascus township gets $2,320.

Big Payments.—Register of Wills William Connor, of Allegheny county, paid the state $79,990 as state inheritance taxes.

Object to Calls.—Complaint against the Bell Telephone Company's system of recording outgoing calls in Philadelphia and criticism of the service were made to the Public Service Commission to-day by counsel for the United Business Men's Association of Philadelphia. It is charged that hundreds of complaints have been made against the calls recorded as excessive and that there is no check upon what the company reports. The complaint will be sent to the company for answer. The commission is in executive session to-day with the Philadelphia Rapid Transit lease scheduled for consideration.
