

FLYING THE LOYALTY FLAG

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS

Loyalty first! That is the imperative word of the nation. Disloyalty is dishonor, black and complete. There is no room in this land for divided allegiance. If a person's loyalty be even suspected, he is forced to fly the flag of fealty. As the war goes on, the conviction has grown in the common mind that any failure in full fidelity is simply intolerable. Pro-Germanism, pacifism, "internationalism" are no longer permitted in any degree.

Peter, is the key-truth to the kingdom. His last commission to His disciples was "Ye shall be my witnesses." The tongue of testimony is the principal reliance of the cause of God. Wise words win souls. In the shop talk of business, Christians are to "sell" the Saviour to their associates.

"If you have a friend worth loving, Love him, yes, and let him love you. That you love him, ere life's evening, Times his brow with sunset glow. Why should good words be said of a friend—till he is dead?"

Putting Passion Into It Anybody who has looked at things religious in the large knows full well that it is not the rich or the powerful or the fashionable or the powerful or the sophisticated churches that win recruits. Ecclesiastical correctness does not spell success. Prestige does not convert. A ghastly reality, from the discussion of which we shrink, is the fact that there are many elegant, wealthy, famous church edifices which are echoing emptiness, week after week. The footsteps of the people are never heard on their portals. They have everything a church could ask—except the glow of faith and the enthusiasm of numbers.

"If you hear a song that thrills you, Sing by any child of song. Praise it. Do not let the singer Wait deserved praises long. Why should one who thrills you heart Lack the joy you may impart? If your work is made more easy By a friendly, helping hand, Say so. Speak out brave and truly, Ere the darkness veils the land. Should a brother workman dear Falter for a word of cheer?"

All the exhortations to witness-bearing that can be penned are vain unless there be the reality of an ardent love for Christ. Soldiers slow with the praises of their comrades and of their officers, because that sentiment is so real to them that they cannot hide it. The love betrays his devotion to his beloved inevitably, because it is the overflow of his passion for his life. Christians should be like the Saviour here. He is the very fulfillment of their being. They "say so" because silence would be recalcitancy to the best they are and know.

"I have a friend so precious, So very dear to me. He loves me with such tender love, He loves me so faithfully, I could not live apart from Him, I love to live apart from Him, And so we dwell together, My Lord and I.

He knows how much I love Him, He knows I love Him well. He bids me what I ought to do, He tells me what to try, And so we talk together, My Lord and I.

"I tell him all my sorrows, I tell him all my joys, I tell him all that pains me, I tell him what annoys; He tells me what I ought to do, He tells me what to try, And so we talk together, My Lord and I.

Some weary soul to win, And so He bids me go, and speak The loving word for Him; He bids me tell His wondrous love, And why He came to die, And so we work together, My Lord and I.

"The tongue destroys a greater horde. The Turk assents, 'than does the sword.' The Persian proverb wisely saith, 'length tongue—an early death.' Or sometimes take this form instead, 'Don't let your tongue cut off your head.' The tongue can speak a word whose sense is but self-righteousness. Say the Chinese, 'outstrips the steed.' While Arab sages this impart, 'The tongue's great storehouse is the heart.' From Hebrew wit the maxim sprang, 'Though feet should slip, ne'er let the tongue.' The sacred writers crowns the whole, 'Who keeps his tongue doth keep his soul.' Staggering as the statement may seem, Jesus undertook to build His Church on the words of His friends. 'Thou art the Christ,' spoken by

Numbered in all their limbs by exposure to the cold and the water they were unable to swim for bits of wreckage that from time to time floated by. Two full biscuit tins passed, and when the third came along the men dived in to get it. Convoys were seen daily in the distance and the two officers vainly signaled with their handkerchiefs. They had no lights to signal by night, finally their watches stopped, and they lost all track of time.

Sons, Guests of Father, Given Golf Welcome

Two sons of Dr. Ellis N. Kremer, for many years pastor of Reformed Salem Church, John Kremer and Hiram Kremer, gave their father a most pleasant surprise this week by visiting on the same day. Both sons are well known here, John Kremer, the oldest, has become a prominent insurance man in Philadelphia, and Hiram Kremer, the youngest, is also succeeding in that business in Pittsburgh. Dr. Kremer celebrated the occasion by taking his two stalwart boys out to the Reservoir links and walloping them in golf. Dr. Kremer is one of the most skillful golfers in this game in Harrisburg.

Tired Nervous Mothers Should Profit by the Experience of These Two Women. Buffalo, N. Y.—"I am the mother of four children, and for nearly three years I suffered from a female trouble with pains in my back and side, and a general weakness. I had professional attendance most of that time but did not seem to get well. As a last resort I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which I had seen advertised in the newspapers, and in two weeks noticed a marked improvement. I continued its use and am now free from pain and able to do all my household work."—Mrs. B. B. ZIELINSKA, 302 Weiss Street, Buffalo, N. Y.
