Garfield Issues Orders to Save Gasoline For Army and Our Allies

the patriotism of automobile wners, including those who operate nachines for hire, the fuel admin-machines for hire, the fuel administration here requested the discontinuance of Sunday automobiling until further notice. Motorboating and motorcycling for pleasure also are taboo.

The request, which is effective next Sunday, September 1, and is directed only to the territory east of the Mississippi, resulted from the discover; that the stock of gasoline at Atlantic ports was running low in the face of unexpected demands for shipment overseas.

Motor vehicles used for necessary purposes, which constitute the few exceptions made by the fuel administration, include:

First, Tractors and motortrucks employed in actual transportation of freight.

Second. Vehicles of physicians

OLD OFFENDERS ARRESTED Bars Congressmen

London. Aug. 28.—Correspondents with General Byng's army described an epic fight at night when there was a great clash between the Germans and the British with bayonets and hand grenades in the light of some daming tanks, whose petrol was burning as a result of shell fire. Spurts of flame ninety feet high lighted up hundreds of airmen, who despite the torrential rain, poured a deadly machinegun fire into the enemy, while thousands of men engaged in a deadly and bloody graphe.

Two German divisions were positively annihilated. The ground was strewn with thousands upon thousands of bodies.

One correspondent says: "It was a gigantic tragedy, ending finally in the utter defeat of the enemy."

VETERANS VISIT SOUTHERN PRISON CAMPS WHERE THEY WERE INTERNED

Trip Made to Coroborate Facts to Be Used in Book Written by J. W. Johnston of Rochester, N. Y.; Florence,
Bell Isle and Libby Sites Included

Gettysburg, Pa., Aug. 28.—Theodore McAllister, in company with Dr. J. Nelson Clark, of Mechanicsburg and J. W. Johnston, of Rochaster, N. Y., has just returned from a southern trip, where they had gone to cyroborate facts that are to be used in a book being written by Mr. Johnston. To the two old veterans, McAllister and Clark, the trip was very interesting as they wandcred around the old place that was Andersonville prison during the days of the Civif War and where both of them had been confined as prisoners. Farticular attention was given to the famous Providence Spring, and the author says that the story given by Mr. McAllister is the best he has yet been able to obtain and that the Gettysburgian's story has been found accurate in every particular by the visit to the place where $2,000 Union soldiers were imprisoned, 14,000

UNION DEPOT IN SERVICE

Camp Meigs. Washington, is a model camp and known for its general excellence, writes John C. Harrisotre, a member of the clerical force of the Quartermasters' Corps. Supposed to open next Monday in training there. The men get the best of food and have fine quarters while they make up such a good made that three more will not open and would be cut from the list, and that eight other schools are yet without teachers and that it was more than likely some of these would not be opened.

UNION DEPOT IN SERVICE Gettysburg. Pa., Aug. 28.—The union depot of the two railroads, the Western Maryland and the Philadelphia and Reading, is now being used, the order having gone into effect this week. There are some conjectures that the change 's only temporary and if it proves satisfactory a new and up-to-date union station will be built on the site of the Western Maryland station, which is a little more centrally located.
