termined effort was made to advance to any extent. The firing was continuous through-out the night on both sides, the Ger-man guns being especially active. Sergeant James K. Boyle, of the Harrisburg reruiting party, who has been stationed at Scranton, received before the ground had been convert-ed into mud, so, when the orders were given to-day, the men moved forward unimpeded. unimpeded. Big Guns Active The German positions were shelled most vigorously by heavy guns, mor-tars and light pieces, firing almost point blank, as well as by long range naval guns, which searched the posi-tions far and near. And then the in-fantry advanced. Up over the plateau the infantry men went toward Juvigny and across the little railroad running morth and south. The Germans immediately be-gan to employ the tactics of similar retreats, leaving their rear defended by a line of machine guns hidden be-hind every clump of brush promon-tory and wood. Only a few detach-ments of infantry were left, the ene-my again adopting measures calcu-lated to save the most men possible. From Couronne woods and another little wood standing like sentinels between Juvigny and the American lines, the German guns delivered a deadly crossfire. Juvigny is only a village, but, located along the side of a hill, it offered a peculiar oppor-tunity for defense, until the advanc-ing forces moved into positions from [

Hindenburg Line Will

Is U. S. Expert's View

Washington, Aug. 30. — "The Hin-denburg line is no longer tenable." This is the judgment of the military observers of the war at the War De-partment. It is added that the certain failure of the Germans to hold that part of the Germans to Laon will be due largely to the American troops operating out of Fismes. It was pointed out yesterday that the British having crossed the Hin-denburg line éast of Croisilles, the thrust that will make the line abso-lutely untenable is that of the Ameri-cans which now is menacing that part

It was pointed out yesterday that the British having crossed the Hin-denburg line east of Croisilles, the drust what will make the line abso-lutely untenable is that of the Ameri-cans which now is menacing that part of the sat of Fishes. The set of the the bring boat the complete abandon-ment of the line is the extension of their salient between Nesle and Li-court. This is the deepest salient that has be an eected by any of the allies or Americans since the counter of-fen ize of the mid-July days. It is said that the efficient work of the French in this salient, or to produce it, was done by them without any as-sistans-from either the British or the Americans. North of Soissons, however, in the last reuported advance, the Americans are forging ahead shoulder to shoul-der with the French. The French advance against the territory controlled by the Hinden-burg line is most difficult. It is now fronted by forests, which, as a general rule, are harder to carry than en-trenchments in the open. It is realiz-ed that the maintenance of the French advance in this salient is just as es-sential as the push of the British to the north and the Americans is the Soithuation of their present stride in force is certain, in the mili-ary judgment, to force the crump-ling up of the German left wing, which effect now is seriously threat-ened as to their right wing by the British. The strategists here were not wil-ling to co any further yesterday than to prophesy the flacement of the Hindenberg' in effacement of the German decimated divisions.
