AMERICAN ARMY ON WAR FRONT WORRIES ENEMY

Von Payer Says Germany Might Restore Belgium Without Indemnities

Copenhagen, Sept. 12.—That Germany might restore Belgium without conditions or indemnities in case no other country would be better situated as regards Belgium than Germany was the belief expressed yesterday by Friedrich von Payer, the Imperial Vice-Chancellor of Germany, in a speech delivered at Stuttgart.

Herr von Payer was speaking on the depression felt in Germany and allied countries which he attributed not to recent military events, but to the prospect of a fifth war winter. "If we could be sure that no other country would be better situated as regards Belgium than ourselves," said Herr von Payer, "I believe I could venture to say that Belgium could be restored without conditions and without indemnities."

With regard to the appearance of the American troops in the war, the Vice-Chancellor said: "Nobody will deny that the operation of the American troops on the front means a heavy and ever increasing burden for us. Our enelies, however, forget that if the Americans now appear by hundreds of thousands at the front we have already put millions of Russians, such as the belief expressed yesterday by Friedrich von Payer, the Imperial Vice-Chancellor of Germany, in a speech delivered at Stuttgart.

Lt. G. C. Smith Decorated For His Work in the Air

Many Harrisburgers will be interested in the bestowal of the French war cross upon Lieutenant Gerald C. Smith, of Baltimore, for conspicuous bravery in action. He is a first lieutenant in the Royal British Flying Squadron and is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. C. Smith, his mother having been Miss Anna M. Eppler, formerly of Harrisburg, a daughter of the late Daniel Eppler and sister of Mrs. W. H. Lyter, 1006 North Second street.

A St. John's College graduate, Smith entered the newspaper field about ten years ago. He took up the work in New York about five years ago.

In May of 1917 he entered the training camp at Plattsburg and in August of the same year received a commission as second lieutenant. Last March he went to France and in short time later was promoted to first lieutenant and attached to a British unit.

In his letter to his parents, Smith said, with his comrades of the squadron, he has been raiding large cities in Germany. Recently he visited Cologne, Heidelberg and other cities, where he dropped bombs, which, he said, caused considerable damage to factories and munition plants.

KEYSTONE STATE SOLDIERS BRAVE IN BATTLE LINE

Sergeant Gilham Casts Off Gas Mask to Save Wounded Comrades in No Man's Land; Was Gettysburg College Student; State Boys Capture Machine Guns

Philadelphia, Sept. 13.—When Sergeant Lester S. Gilham, of Schuylkill Haven, heard the cries of wounded comrades out in No Man's Land, he left a sheltered trench to rescue them.

His gas mask interfered with his efforts to help the wounded boys, so he took it off. He brought the wounded safely back to the lines, but Sergeant Gilham was gassed.

This is one of many thrilling stories of action concerning Pennsylvania boys affiliated with ambulance units and medical detachments which are reaching their homes here, through letters from their comrades. Iron Division heroes are loud in their praise of their medical men.

Sergeant Gilham, a former Gettysburg College student, writes of his experience as follows:

"We were out in a wood and the Germans started to bombard us at dawn. They caught some of the boys and I heard their cries. It was hard to get out of my dugout, but I just sent up a silent prayer and crawled out.

"Shells burst all around another lad and me. We could not work and do the wounded boys much good with our gas masks on, so we pulled them off and we got gassed.

"The Kaiser's manpower is giving out. I know this to be true, for I dressed the wounds of a lad of 18 and saw a prisoner 56 years old. Our boys captured a German priest and several soldiers. The first thing they did was feed them. In good English, the priest, holding a piece of American bread in one hand and a cup of coffee in the other, said:

"Gentlemen, I hope my eyes do not deceive me. This is the first piece of white bread I have seen in three years and the first coffee in two years. He ate the bread like cake and sipped the coffee like a Frenchman does his wine. When told he had to return because of a non-com, he was very sorry and begged to be left on his side."

How Pennsylvania boys captured German machine guns and sent them on the enemy is described in a letter from Elmer F. Heisler, of Tamaqua, with Company B, 112th Infantry.

"I should have seen the Germans drop," he writes, "just like leaves from a tree on a windy day. We chased them out of town, but they made a counter-attack and we again opened fire on them with their machine guns. Out of the 100 or so that had managed to get across the river, only a few were left.

Lieutenant Fred Flick, of Hazleton, has been wounded. He was a student at the University of Michigan when he entered an officers' training camp, and went overseas with the Rainbow division. Lieutenant Cecil Bell, of Freehold, is in a hospital with both ankles crushed with a shell.

Harry Dunkelberger, of Pottsville, had a leg broken by shrapnel. He is only 17 years old. James M. Leach, a new German town and Frank Moreland, of near Marysville, both with the 112th Infantry, have been wounded.

John Gallagher, of West Conshohocken, who was drafted last April, has been killed in action. Sergeant Richard G. Bechtel, of Lebanon, with Company L, 99th Machine Gun Battalion, of Bethlehem, has been wounded.

After Private Martin Cover, of Lancaster, with Company D, 151st Machine Gun Battalion, was killed in action, his comrade, Private Joe Myers, also of Lancaster, killed eight German soldiers in revenge. Myers himself was wounded.

In a letter from their sons, George and John Goepfert, who are with the First Engineers in France, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Goepfert, of Mahanoy City, received the information that the boys captured several prisoners with considerable German money on them and valuable garments. They stated that a German soldier moaning among the dead on the battlefield and took him to a hospital. The Boche was stunned at the treatment and said a German in such a case would have hacked his wounded adversary to death.

Frederick E. Duffee, of Franklin, an ambulance driver, described a duel he witnessed between two wounded soldiers, French and German.

Duel Between Wounded Men
"The German wounded soldier, as we passed, shot at a wounded Frenchman who was lying some twenty yards away from him. Upon seeing this, the Frenchman near us shot and killed the Boche.

"One night, I will never forget, a German machine gun emplacement had been stormed. The Germans being killed while the gun was in action—the gunner with his hands in the handles, a couple of others with the roll of cartridges all ready and the gun itself, a Maxim, with a half-empty roll in it."

Wendelin Pfueger and wife, of Pottsville, who had received word that their son, Valentine Pfueger, was dead in action, to-day were overjoyed when they were notified by the government that the young man is in a German prison camp. The parents were notified that certain goods could be sent to the prisoner.

Thomas G. Giles, a nineteen-year-old youth, of Mahanoy City, with Company E, 124th United States Infantry, is in a hospital in a serious condition, having been gassed by the Boche. He was in the act of going over the top for the third time when the roll of cartridges ran out. Clarence Belyz, shared Giles' experience.

Harry G. Robinson, of Chester, received a letter in regard to the death of his son, who was killed in action some days ago, as follows:

"The officers and men of Company B, First Engineers, join me in extending to you their deepest sympathy in the loss of their comrade, Private Harry G. Robinson, who was killed by enemy shell fire on July 20, 1918, near Soissons, France.

"Private Robinson always performed his duties as a soldier in a cheerful and willing manner. He made the supreme sacrifice as only a brave and courageous soldier can on the field of battle."

Stomach Dead Man Still Lives

People who suffer from sour stomach, fermentation of food, distress after eating and indigestion, and seek relief in large chunks of artificial digestors, are killing their stomachs by inaction just as surely as the victim of morphine is deadening and injuring beyond repair every nerve in his body.

What the stomach of every sufferer from indigestion needs is a good prescription that will build up his stomach, put strength, energy and elasticity into it, and make it sturdy enough to digest a hearty meal without a trifling ailment.

The best prescription for indigestion ever written is sold by druggists everywhere and by H. C. Kennedy and is rigidly guaranteed to build up the stomach and cure indigestion or money back.

This prescription is named Mi-o-na, and is sold in small tablets form in large boxes, for only a few cents. Remember the name, Mi-o-na stomach tablets. They never fail.—Advertisement.

URGES DAMPER CONTROL TO SAVE WINTER FUEL

Declaring that in the average home twenty-five per cent. of the coal can be saved by proper damper control, Ross A. Hickok, county fuel administrator, last night issued a statement on methods to conserve coal during the coming winter. He emphasized the necessity of controlling the flow of air through the coal. The necessity of cleanliness he also emphasized, saying that it is necessary to keep the chimney and stove free of soot. He urged that the head of each house care for his furnace and stove himself.

ALL SAVE SEVEN OF PLATOON DROP ON BATTLEFIELD

Men Follow Officer Through Machine Gun Nests to the End

Philadelphia, Sept. 13.—"I took my platoon through and, God bless them, they stuck to me to the last man. I finished with only seven."

An epic of the war to be added to the achievements of the 110th Infantry, of the Keystone Division, is embraced in this brief paragraph from a letter written by Lieutenant William Edward Myers, in a hospital near Bordeaux.

It epitomizes a terrific action on July 30, when 118 men—the first and second platoons of D Company, of the 110th—attacked a strongly entrenched German machine gun nest in a woods fifteen miles north of Chateau-Thierry.

Lieutenant Wilbur Small, a Philadelphia, and the fifty-eight men in the first platoon, were caught in the open under a withering fire and, literally, were wiped out. One wounded soldier alone returned.

Lieutenant Myers and the second platoon defied around the stricken first platoon and stormed the woods. They carried it at the point of the bayonet. When the action ended, the lieutenant checked up his losses and found, as his letter to his wife said, "I finished with only seven."

"When the history of the war is finally written," the lieutenant told his wife in one recent letter, "the 110th will be especially mentioned for the capture of a machine gun nest of forty-seven machine guns; a capture effected while absolutely unprotected by a barrage."

The 110th Infantry is composed of the old Third (Philadelphia) Regiment of the National Guard, and the old "Fighting Tenth" of the western part of the state.
