Tailors Help Mend at Red Cross Meeting

In reply to the call made a short time ago, local tailors to attend the Red Cross meetings in the basement of the Public Library many have volunteered their services in the work of mending soldiers' and sailors' uniforms. While the women have been loyal and "stuck to their posts," the number of articles kept increasing, and they finally had to ask for assistance. Some of the rents and tears need men and women who are skilled with the needle. The evening the tailors of William Strouse's new store have offered their services and all others who can be urged to come.

Academy Students Start Drilling

Students of the Harrisburg Academy to-day went back to the training given to the youth of Harrisburg just after the Revolution and the War of 1812 when they began military instruction. This branch of the work is under direction of Captain Francis H. Hoy, Jr., who will conduct it daily.

After lunch to-day Headmaster Brown explained to the students the plans for military training and in the presence of the faculty outlined what will be done in that direction. Captain Hoy then talked to the boys about the work. Drills started at once.

This afternoon the drills of the Central High School Juniors under the direction of the Harrisburg Reserves began at Central. They will be held Wednesday afternoons.

The board of instruction of Dauphin district No. 2 has arranged for men of draft age in the Lower Paxton, Susquehanna, Penbrook, Dauphin and Middle Paxton districts desiring military instruction to appear at the armory on Friday nights when officers of the Harrisburg Reserves will take charge of them. Drafted men in city districts will also be given instruction.

Members of the Reserves are requested to be prepared with measurements on Friday night. The first drill of the reorganized Company A will be held.

FARM TRACTORS DID BIG WORK

Secretary Patton Is Pleased With Wonderful 'Cross-River Demonstration'

Secretary Patton, of the State Department of Agriculture, this morning expressed his congratulations through the Telegraph to every tractor manufacturer and agent who participated in the plowing demonstrations at Marsh Run, showing "splendid spirit in sticking to the end in spite of adverse conditions."

The secretary said that there had been more efficient plowing than was recorded at any previous test, including the recent one at Salina, Mo., and that the Harrisburg event will have most significant results all over the United States. "It is an industry yet in its infancy," he pointed out, "but our records show that while one year ago only 600 machines were in use in the state, now the number is something over 2,200. One of the most significant features of the gathering was the number of men from all parts of the Union who sought agencies for the tractor, and it is certain that very soon nearly every automobile establishment will have its tractor department, so that the farmer can be in immediate touch with the tractor industry."

Five o'clock last evening saw the finish of the demonstration and while several days must elapse before the Department of Agriculture can make out the precise records it can be said to-day that a total of 75 acres were plowed. The quota originally planned was 102, but rain had disrupted the schedule. On Friday the hotels here were jammed with farmers who were disappointed in not being able to look on during Saturday. However, a great many saw enough to convince them and the universal pledge was heard: "I cannot do without this machine."

The 75 plowed acres, 45 were disced and seeded with prime wheat and Secretary Patton, just to show that the old Keystone state is there with all kinds of loyalty, to-day turned over two tractors to the government and the Marsh Run folks look go ahead and cultivate many more acres, so that a big crop of wheat is insured for next year.

The first machine to drop out was the Reed, which only took a couple turns last Thursday and then withdrew, after an accident. On Saturday both entries of the International Harvester Company withdrew and also the Waterloo. These entries therefore will have no records for Monday and Tuesday.

The big test of the whole demonstration was on Monday afternoon when the machines which remained in the competition were sent into a two-year old corn stubble field that was overgrown with weeds from three to six feet high. In addition the field had a number of large gullies and stones almost as large as a man were turned up. The tractors which tackled this field made remarkable progress and showed really the almost endless capability of the modern tractor as it has been perfected to-day. Army officers and many farmers were skeptical about the tractors' ability to work in this corn stubble field, but when the machines which tackled it got through they were convinced that the tractor could work under severe circumstances.

The making up of the records, a very precise task is in the hand of William Douglas, statistician of the Department of Agriculture, and he emphasized to-day that in publishing these later, each tractor will get credit for the particular conditions of the field in which each worked, for conditions were by no means identical.

Two British Flyers Take 65 Germans; Stay in Air to Drive Them to Camp

London, Sept. 25.—Two British aviators, flying low in one machine brought about the surrender of sixty-five Germans and without leaving their plane shepherded the party across No Man's Land to the British lines, according to a tale from the battlefield made public yesterday.

The pilot and his observer had been attacked from a trench and sunken road. The pilot dived and emptied the machine gun with his machine gun, killing one and wounding three. The Germans in a panic ceased firing and hoisted a white handkerchief.

As there were no British infantry in that neighborhood, the pilot descended to within fifty feet of the ground and ordered the Germans out of the trenches, closely guarded them to insure that none escaped. All were safely brought in and handed over to the nearest British troops. The aviators then resumed their patrol.
